GREAT RELIGIOUS PLAYS

JOAN OF ARC" THE MOST IN SPIRING OF THEM ALL.

Fanny Davenport First Produced It in Boston as "A Soldler of France" Opens Monday at Columbia.

Innovations, accomplishing things along new and interesting lines, has become the rule at the Columbia Theater under A. H. Ballard's management. In accordance with this policy, there will be several events during the Lenten season that are novel and dramatic in the extreme. The great runs of "The Hely City" and "Quo Vadis" have proved the widespread in-terest of the public in religious and historical spectacles dramatically and artistically presented. During Lent this year the Columbia Stock Company will produce at least two great plays of this kind that have never been seen in Port-land before, and bid fair to be of absorbing importance and popularity.
These plays are "Joan of Arc" and "Par-

The first, "Joan of Arc," which will open The first, "Joan of Arc," which will open grandly at the Columbia Monday night, March 13, is none other than the last and greatest production made by Panny Davenport. When she first produced it at the Lyceum Theater, in Boston, it was instantly accepted as the greatest religious play of the age—the only great religious play with real love scenes in it. It is the story of the wonderful Maid of Orieans told with fidelity to history and with an original and powerful plot of the author's own creating. The anthor is Frances Aymar Mathews, author of "Pretty Peggy," etc. Every one knows that Joan of Arc lived and died amid the scenes depicted in the drams. Inspired scenes depicted in the drama. Inspired by her communion with the Almighty she led armies, dominated all around her and was burned at the stake at last. Her escape from a high tower as she climb escape from a high tower as she climbs down hand over hand and finally falls 70 feet into the most below, is a piece of stage realism never attempted heretofore by any actress but Fanny Davenport. Miss Counties, who impersonates Joan, will do this just as Miss Davenport accomplished it. Joan also appears on her white horse in full panoply and fights battles.

The play can't help but be sensational, It does not hesitate to paint ain as black-ly as ain deserves. The exciting escape from the tower, the remarkable love scenes, the frantic knife combat, the ri baid disrobing scene by the jailers, and finally, the divine triumph and faith in the goodness of the Supreme. "Parsifal" will follow later, and several

Board of Trade Enlarges Its Scope.

SUB-COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

Project is to Bring Retail Merchants of the Interior to Portland Where They May Meet the Wholesalers.

The Portland Board of Trade is not to be behind any other organization of the city in its efforts for the betterment of the conditions to be found not only in Portland but throughout the entire in Portland but throughout the entire state. It has embarked upon a campaign of expansion which will be of great good when it reaches its fulfilment, the influence of which will be feit in every part of the business life of the city.

In pursuance of the orders made at the last meeting of the Board, the Executive Committee met yesterday and discussed the plans for the enlargement of the scope of the Board's work, and outlined some of the things which would be undertaken by the Board in the near future.

What Committees Advise.

committee was to the effect that the new committee was to the effect that the new constitution be grafted for the consideration of a special meeting and that it be based on the organization of the various business interests of the city as represented in the membership of the Board. The fourth recommendation provided that as soon as the new constitution was adopted the Board should enter into negotiations with the various trades and businesses of a distributive character represented in the membership of the Board. businesses of a distributive character represented in the membership of the Board, inviting them to meet with the Executive Committee for the formation of sub-boards or to bring associations now in existence into membership with the Board.

For Enlargement of Board. the plan for the enlargement of the Board of Trade. It is the intention of the Board of Trade. It is the intention of the Board to organize all of the distributive businesses of the city into sub-organizations or associations which have affiliation with the main organization. In this manner the bakers, the butchers, grocers, all of the different business interests not in the wholesale or jobbing trade will be organized for their mutual benefit in a business way. They will all be members of the Board of Trade, will all have the prestige of the name of that organization and will work in harmony with it for the upbuilding of the city and the state in every way open to their united effort.

for the upbuilding of the city and the state in every way open to their united effort.

Business meg's excursions during the Lewis and Clark Exposition will be one of the features of the Board of Trade. P. W. Custer asked at the meeting of yesterday that a committee be appointed to formulate a plan for bringing such excursions to the city at different times during the course of the Exposition. A. A. Muck, I. B. Hammond and P. W. Custer were appointed by the chairman to take charge of the matter and see what arrangements could be made with the rallroad companies and other people interested for the excursions. It will be the plan of the committee and of the Board to make arrangements with the railroad companies whereby on certain days during the Summer special rates will be made from the different points in the interior to Portland. The rates will be made from the different points in the interior to Portland. The rates will be made to apply to the small merchants and business men of the interior towns who may wish to combine business and pleasure by coming to Portland to attend the Exposition and at the same time trade with the wholesalers of the city. The wholesalers will be asked to make special arrangements to meet the visitors on the dates determined upon by the Board and the transportation companies for the excursions. It is expected that this feature of the Board's work will be very successful in cementing the reliations of friendship between the out-of-town merchants and the Portland wholesalers to the benefit of both.

Willing to Co-Operats.

The Board will attempt to co-operate.

Willing to Co-Operate.

Willing to Co-Operate.

The Board will attempt to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in the work for the good of the city, as is shown by a resolution presented by Wallis Nash, and adopted by the Board. The resolution reads:
