AN EXPOSITION OF SPRING DRESS GOODS

In the South Annex—First Floor

THE IMPORTANCE of this announcement to Portland women cannot be exaggerated. It conveys an intimation of the assemblage of a clustering crowd of the world's brightest, prettiest and most exclusive dress fabrics. There's not a larger display or a more representative display in such rendezvous of fashion as New York, London or Paris.

When we overlook this vast collection we are fired with enthusiasm, and we wish to convey the enthusiasm to you. It's a true saying, "The World Is Growing Smaller," for the latest novelties that Parisian belles and London's and New York's fair votaries of fashion are exploiting, you'll find at this, Portland's Largest and Best Dress Goods Shop.

There is a well-bred air about them all, a bewitching beauty that fascinates, an attractiveness that charms, and an elimination of anything that has a tendency to the bizarre. Refinement is so evident throughout that there is not a piece to offend the most artistic, nor the most sensitive aesthete.

Some of the many new weaves we are showing are superb. A few are:

ALPACAS,
SICILIANS,
PANAMA,
MOHAIRS,
CREPE ALBATROSS.

FRENCH SERGE,
BROADCLOTHS,
AEOLIENNES,

Wonderful Showings IN THE WASH Dress Goods Aisles

First Floor.
BEAUTIFUL SILK GINGHAMS FOR THE SPRING AND SUMMER FROCKS.

We don't know anything in the market to equal these stuffs at the price. We have seen other silk ginghams with only a few threads of silk—flimsy, light, with no wear to them.
But these are cotton one way and pure silk the other.
They'll wash as well as an Anderson gingham. The silk comes to the top in designs and stripes, against backgrounds of different colors. Pretty enough for party dresses, yard, 40 and 50c.

SOOTH MADRAS—BEAUTIFUL WEAVES—40c YARD.

The Cotton Goods are more beautiful than ever this Spring, and if the cottons themselves are any indication of fashions, they must be going to be the daintiest and most feminine that we have had in years.

The French Organdies—woven and printed in Paris—are blossom-laden; and new weaves with pompadour stripes, flowering under a deep frost of silk, suggest a new beauty in dress goods that we've never before seen.

Printed muslins, carreau and rayee under arbors of roses; plain chiffons, and crepes de Paris; and above all else tulle—dear old-fashioned tulle, flower or leaf-bedecked, walks straight into your heart as it did into your mother's fifteen years ago.

What fashion in dresses will be cannot be mistaken—with such feminine and lovely stuffs—dresses, tucked, ruffled, flounced, with needlework and ribbons, must come—just as they came before, when Madame Pompadour was so concerned over changing her dress twenty times a day "for the king," and always changed it for a flowered dress.

Now is the time to choose—later these will not be among our importations—for the prettiest are always the first to go, and France will not rest her looms again this Spring. And all these are at the "tab goods" counter, running at right angles with the Linen Store, first floor. A few other mentions:
