RIGHT UNDER FORECLOSURE

Plaintiff Says He Was Under Age at Time Title to Site for the New Building Passed to the Fraternity.

A suit was filed in the United States Court yeaterday by Aaron M. Cohen against Portland Lodge, No. 182, B. P. O. E.; T. B. Howes, W. H. Upson and T. B. McDevitt, as trustees of such lodge, and the Portland Trust Company of Oregon, which forceshadows a cloud upon the title to the reconstitution when the Portland

oseph Hume. The plaintiff in this suit is an heir of Nathan Cohen, who owned the property prior to the foreclosure, and this heir now seeks an accounting on technical grounds. The complaint alleges that Nathan Cohen died on September 16, 1881, leaving a milit devising his real property in trust to I. Frohman, Emanuel Meyer and M. C. Lyen, for the benefit of the widow and children until Aaron M. Cohen should be-come of age. At the time of Nathan Co-ben's death there was an existing mortgage of $4000 which was foreclosed, but gage of 44000 which was foreclosed, but the plaintiff avers that he was not prop-erly made a party to the foreclosure suit, being then under age, and only became aware of his rights in the premises last December, when the Elks applied to him for a quitclaim deed. He immediately sought legal advice with the result that the present suit was begun to regain his

The total value of the property is alleged to be $50,000, in which the plaintiff has an interest of $10,000. The Portland Trust Company is made a party defendant on the allegation that it lent the Eliks $50,000. on the property last January.

Counsel Have Lively Tilt.

During the argument in the County Court yesterday to strike out the claim of the estate of Richard Lynch against Charles E. Lockwood, attorney, amounting to $600, personalities were Charles E. Lockwood, attorney, amounting to $600, personalities were indulged in by opposing counsel. William M. Cake, who appeared for Lockwood, accused Gus C. Moser, attorney for the Lynch estate, of attempting to try the case in the newspapers. Moser denied the charge but admitted having made statements regarding criminal information being barred by the statute of limitations. Both Cake and Lockwood jumped to their feet to respond, but Judge Webster closed the spond, but Judge Webster closed the incident by saying that he did not de-sire to hear argument about what has been printed in a newspaper.

Sets Compensation for Service. A decision in favor of the estate of F R Strong, deceased, against the estate of Joseph Holladay, deceased, for $1700 administrator's fees and $2500 exta compensation was rendered by Judge Webster yesterday. Fred R Strong for some years prior to his death cared for the property of the estate of Joseph Holladay. He conducted the Seaside House several Summer seasons, and also endeavored to sell the Willamette Mill property, and performed much other work for the estate. Judge Webster also allowed certain moneys lent by Strong to the Holladay estate. Mary T. Strong, the widow, is the successor in interest. R. Strong, deceased, against the estate of Six Years' Sentence for Burgiar.

George Mason, colored, who confessed to have broken into several Portiand bustiness houses, was sentenced by Judge Sears yesterday to three years in the pentientiary. Mason is an ex-convict, and after his arrest delivered a lecture at the police station to the officers concerning the fascination of the life of a safecracker and professional burgiar. He received sentence on a plea of guilty to an information charging him with having entered the store of F. Dresser at East Fifteenth street and Broadway, and having stolen therefrom various articles.

SEED FOR LITTLE GARDEN PLOTS School Children Will Compete for Civic Improvement Prizes.

The committee on parks, trees and grounds of the board of civic improve-ment of the Chamber of Commerce is a busy organization at the present time. George H. Lamberson, the chairman of the committee, is putting in the greater part of his spare time in placing the seed donations for the public schools in packages ready for delivery. This committee has planned to begin a campaign for civic improvement by per-suading the public school children of the city to plant little garden plots and com-pete for prizes to be offered by the committee during the latter part of the school season. Seventeeen schools have entered into the contest, all those buildings of ten rooms and over being eligible to entry. The pupils and teachers are taking a great interest in the work proposed and

> IS VETERAN NEWSPAPER MAN After Thirty-Two Years I. M. King Returns to Visit Portland.

> When Portland was a city of but 23,-000 and the East Side almost an un known region, there resided here a veteran newspaper man by the name of issac Manning King. He left for other fields in 1873 and after traveling to the most distant parts of the earth has just returned to his old home upon a visit to his brother, C. H. King, who re> eides on East Thirty-seventh street.

> It was in the year of 1876 that Mr. King first came to Portland after a decade of experience upon the staff of Eastern publications. He is the proud possessor of a Congressional medal, is-sued to the veterans of the navy battles of Farragut's fleet during the Civil War, and has many reminiscentell of that sterling commander

As one of the reporters of the Port-land Bulletin in the early 70s, Mr. King wrote the story of the great fire, and was a guest upon the first steamer which foreshadows a cloud upon the title to the property upon which the Portland Elks are going to built their new home. The property in question is located at the northeast corner of Seventh and Stark streets, described particularly as lots 5 and 6, block S. Portland, and came into the ownership of the Elks through mesne conveyances after a foreclosure of a mortinger on the premises for $200 in favor of the Dallos.

As one of the reporters of the Portland Bulletin in the early '70s, Mr. King wrote the ntory of the great fire, and was a guest upon the first steamer to pass through the Oregon City locks. He took an active part in the first campaign of Senator Mitchell, and was the official court reporter at the time of the sensational trial of the robbers that held up the Tompkins stage near The Dallos.

The Dalles.
For the last few years Mr. King bas made his home at Salinas, Cal, but still takes an active part in newspaper work as the correspondent of the Associated Press, the San Francisco Examiner and the Monterey County Democrat. He marvels at the changes that have been wrought in Portland during tined to be the metropolitan city of the Northwest. The Exposition pleases the oldtime newspaper man, but he says that Portland will not be able to accommodate one-half of the visitors that will come to the city during the
