Attorney Proves Genuineness of Signature.

NOTE ITSELF IS A FORGERY

Suit of Luzerne Besser Against the Estate of Lewis Love Compromised for Two Hundred and Twenty-Five Dollars.

The reliability to be placed on expert pinion concerning handwriting received severe shock yesterday, in the settle ment of a claim of Luzerne Besser against the estate of the late Lewis Love, in the County Court. Besser presented a note against the estate for $5300 dated August 6, 1897, and also a claim for $2538

August 6, 1887, and also a claim for $250 for alleged services of various kinds performed years ago for Captain Love.

The note was typewritten except the signature alleged to be that of Lowis Love, which was written in lead pencil. The executors of the Love estate—T. T. Struble, Philo Holbrook and H. C. Breeden—were all positive that the signature attached to the note was not that of Captain Love.

Captain Love.

T. T. Struble, who had more experience with Love's signature than the other two, was certain Captain Love never wrote it. His capital Ls. hg said, were different from those on the note.

The note was photographed on an en-larged scale, and still Mr. Struble was sure the signature was not genuine. Raiph W. Hoyt, who was familiar with sarged scale, and sill Mr. Structure was not genuine. Ralph W. Hoyt, who was familiar with Captain Love's signature, said that on the note did not look good to him. H. H. Northup and Ed Mendenhall, attorneys for the estate, knew the handwriting of Lewis Love, and were sure 'he never wrote the name on the $500 note. An expert was called in, and he expressed a like opinion.

The objects announced are to manufacture and deal in furniture, draperies, etc.

onstrated to the experts that they were all mistaken, and that the signature was genuine. Mr. O'Neill took the case for what it was worth, and not with any in-tention of collecting the note or anything from the estate not justly due. Besser, who was once Chief of Police of Portland, and at another time a member of the City Council, is now an inmate of the Poor Farm, is sick and not expected to live long. His condition appealed to attorneys and executors of the extate were positive from facts in their possession that Captain Love never ex-ecuted the note, and that there could not scuted the note, and that there could not possibly be any consideration for it. They admitted that on the other claim of Besser's for services rendered to Captain Love in the Nancy M. Love will forgery case, that perhaps Captain Love owed Besser something, and agreed to settle for $25, which Mr. O'Nelli agreeted.

Then Mr. O'Nelli sprang a great surprise on his concentration. Becentive be exprise on his opponents. Recently he ex-amined the note by holding it up before a light, and discovered pencil marks running through it; the date 1876 and several other words. Cloner investigation re-vealed the fact that the note had once been a pencil receipt written and signed by Lewis Love. The receipt had all been erassed save the signature, and the type-written note placed above. Thus Mr. O'Neili proved to the attorneys, executors and others, that the note itself was forged, but the signature was real. Mr. O'Nell having won the battle to the sat-isfaction of his conscience and correct legal procedure, accepted the settlement of $225 for Besser's servies, and dismissed

COURT ORDERS WILL FILED. After Three Years Executor Asks That It Be Probated.

e to a citation issued yester flay by Judge Webster, George E. Watkins flied for probate the will of Mrs. Harrist B. Campbell, who died in December, 1992. Mrs. Campbell was a pioneer of Portland, and in her will distributed most of her and in her will distributed most of her property to relatives, and named George E. Watkins as executor without bonds. For some reason, the will was never filed in the County Court. Yesterday V. Frank Whittier, through Attorneys Carey and Mays, called attention to the fact that there was a will, and Mr. Watkins soon afterwards found and produced it. It bears the date of July 31, 1901, and was witnessed by A. L. Little and W. W.

SHE SUES CASUALTY COMPANY Wife Asks That She Se Paid Insur ance on Husband's Death.

Upon the application of the defend-ant, the case of Mabel M. Rosendale against the Fidelity & Casualty Company of New York was transferred yesterday from the Multnomah County Circuit Court to the United States Court. The suit is brought to re-cover insurance on the life of the husband of the plaintiff, Otto M. Rosen-dale, deceased, who died from injuries received in the burning of a building in Kalama on August 25, 1994 During that year Otto M. Resendale was in-sured against accident and death by sued William Baumgarte for a divorce. Judge George signed an order restraining the defendant from visiting the home of his wife, or from interfering with her in any manner. The litigants were married in 1888, in South Dakota, and have one child, 8 years old. Mrs. Baumgarte avers that her husband began drinking to excess soon after their magriage, and has continued the habit ever since. He lit treated her, she declarge, and falled to provide for her support. Mrs. Baumgarte conducts a rooming and boarding-house, and says the defendant occupies his time idling about saloons, and drives away her roomers. In March last, she alleges, he struck her with his fist. She asks for the legal custody of the child. legal custody of the child.

Wife Throws Missiles at Relatives. Charles P. Hays, who recently sued his wife. Elizabeth A. Hays, for a divorce, filed an affidavit in the State Circuit Court yesterday setting forth that she had frequently threatened to kill him and his mother and brother. They reside at 401 East Couch street. Several days ago, Hays alleges, his wife, in an intox-icated condition, visited the house which is owned by his brother, and threw a hammer through the window, which nar-rously missed his mother, head of manrowly missed his mother's head. On another occasion, he asserts his wife came to the house and threw a bottle through the window. An order restraining Mrs. Hays from molesting her husband and relatives was signed by Judge George.
