Balfour Refuses to Join Issue With Opposition.

HIS WHOLE PARTY ABSENT

Vote of Censure on His Fiscal Policy Carried Without a Dissenting Vote-Speeches Made to Empty Benches.

LONDON, March 28.—In the House of Commons tonight a vote of censure of Premier Balfour's fiscal policy was unan-mously carried, Ministerialists abstaining from voting.

The session was a repetition of the session of March 22, when a resolution introduced by Mr. Ainsworth (Free Trade Léberal), condemning the government's proposition to impose a general duty on manufactured goods, was carried by a vote of 254 to I. The Ministerial front benches tonight were entirely descrited, and only about a dozen Unionists, principally free traders, were present, when Mr. Walton (Liberal), moved a resolu-tion as follows:

tion as follows:
"In view of the declaration made by the Prime Minister, this House thinks it accessary to record its condemnation of his policy of fiscal retaliation."
"The convention had benefit hat in view."

The opposition had hoped that, in view of the fact that this was a vote of censure, the government would take up the challenge, and would not adhere to its declared intention of ignoring finance res-olutions of private members, but Mr. Bal-four declined to be drawn out, and the opposition was driven to address denunciatory speeches to empty benches and reap the indirect benefit of the effect of government's refusal to fight when

Mr. Walton's motion was carried without a division. In reply to an inquiry by Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, the speaker said the motion had been record-d as carried, nem con. The fol-lowers of Joseph Chamberiain took sim-liar action, and decided not to take part in debates or divisions on resolutions touching the tariff or fiscal question. The action of the government was equivalent action of the government was equivalent to a declaration that the fiscal question is not a critical party issue.

ROME, March 28.-Above the grotto ROME, March 28.—Above the grotto which stands before the famous tower of Leo IV in the Vatican gardens, where the late Pope spent his Summers, has been built an exact fac simile of the Rasilica of Lourdes. The new building was solemnly biessed by Pope Pius X today in the presence of a large assemblage. The expenses were covered by a subscription opened in France by the Bishop of Tarbes.

MILITARY POLICY OF BRITAIN

Army Needed to Defend Frontiers, Not Compete With Military Powers-

LONDON, March 28-In the House of Commons today Secretary of War Arnold-Forster, on a molion in committee on the army estimates, made his annual statement. He defended the policy the War Office and said the record for his administration showed that a number of changes had been made looking to placing the army on an efficient footing. The regular army could not be reduced because Great Britain was the only country in the world which was obliged to maintain an army on a war footing in times of peace. The danger of an invasion was not real. The principal duty of the British army

The principal duty of the British army was to fight across seas and defend frontiers. They must eliminate the idea of competition with great military countries of the world and should merely apply their whole attention to supplying an army capable of defending the frontiers. The lesson of the Russo-Japanese War was that quality and not quantity produced success in modern warfare.

Mr. Arnold-Forster outlined the changes made and contemplated, and said it gave made and contemplated, and said it gave him great pleasure to be able to say that the Dominion of Canada had under-taken from a certain date to bear the cost of guardianship of the great imperial fortresses situated in that country. He noded that it would take seven years to make an impression on the great problems of army reorganization. What then could be expected in seven months? He urged the House to deal with the question from a patriotic and not from a party or political standpoint.

At least, this is now the opinion of Sing Chong, who was yesterday the held to await the action of the grand jury. Judge Hogue listened to the testimony in the case, and set ball at $400. Sing Chong, at the outset of the hearing, buried his yellow face in a handkerchief and wept, but the scene did not impress the court, apparently, and it will take something stronger than tears to save the prisoner from a term in the "pen." John Rabyor, jaintor in the Oddfellows' Hall, First and Alder streets; Louis Pape, chief inspector for the Portland General Electric Company, and others, testified, They declared that Sing Chong tapped the wires on the top of his building at 200% Alder, and used the current for lighting his celestial den. Plans for a Harriman line from the Willamette Valley into Central Oregon were considered by A. L. Mohler, when he was president of the O. R. & N. and the E. E. East and West Line.

To escape this expensive construction and at the same time reach the producing section by the shortest route, it is said that the O. R. & N. will eventually throw a line across the state from east to west. This would bring the fine wheat lands of the Agency Plains and Haystack country in easy communication with Portland by way of the Willamette Valley, and a feeder thrown south through Central Oregon would tap the rich plue belt ents which he knows to be valuable. a feeder thrown south through Central Cregon would tap the rich pine better of the Deschutes River. The lumber traffic which would be developed in that section is one of the most alluring factors of the aituation and its logical route to market is by way of an east and west road, instead of by an extension of the Columbia Southern, the haul over the latter road and the O. H. & N. to Ontario, Or., being several hundred miles longer than by a spur leading north from Bend to the proposed east and west road.

It is the opinion of nearly all Portlanders who have visited the field that either the agricultural resources or The lack of merit in a food may remain

The lack of merit in a food may remain clent to warrant the construction of the road, and to a large number of the dwellers in the central and southern part of the state it is a matter of indifference whether it is an east and west or a north and south road that enters the country. The peculiar advantage of the timber traffic out of that country lies in the fact that it would in no way inerfere with the demand for lumber from east or west of mand for lumber from east or west of the Cascade Mountains, as the white and yellow pine of the Deschutes re-gion fills a demand separate and apart from the fir, spruce and hemlock east of the mountains.

THE USE OF MEDICINES. Reply to Mr. Bok's Charge Against Use of Patent and Proprietary Medicines.

I am not a maker of patent medicines, nor have I any interest in the sale of them. I am simply a user, like the rest

Patent medicines are friends of my youth, and friends of my family. They shake the building wi have helped me when I needed help; and will be many moons belif they need help now I feel like defending upon their like again. It is only fair reciprocity.

The fact is that the term "patent medi-The fact is that the term 'patent men-cines." as applied to advertised remedies, is a misnomer. Very few of the remedies advertised to the laity are patented. The real patent medicines are advertised to physicians alone. They are brought into use almost solely through physicians' pre-scriptions.

Practically all the synthetic chemicals produced in late years are protected by patents. The most valuable products used parents. The most valuable products used by modern physicians are patented. The coal tar preparations which are most widely used, and the most effective germi-cides, are among them. All physicians prescribe these remedies, yet they know which are written would need to be al tered. This does not bear out Mr. Bok's theory that the discoverer of a remedy of real value gives it freely to the world. The custom with those who invent such remedies today is to patent them and con-trol them, just as does the man who in-vents a new machine. And the medical stay out of school, and the doctor thought profession recognize and approve the I would have to give up entirely, but he

If the man, in addition, spends large sums in advertising, whether to physicians or to the laity, it forms to me further syldence of value. Nothing is more certain than the fact that a worthless article cannot be advertised profitably.

Those who know advertising know that those who know advertising know that t, from the cost of selling a bottle or package to refresh-free to a new user is several times the profit made on it. The only hope of profit comes through continued use; and, without merit, continued use cannot be expected. When a man has made a success in advertised a medicine, it is to me the best evidence possible that he has something good. A physician may put up a prescription

A physician may put up a prescription for some individual case without giving much thought to it. But if that physician is going to spend a fortune on advertis-ing, with no possibility of getting his money back unless he satisfies millions of users, he is naturally going to put up the best prescription he can make. If he is wise he will get the best prescriptions for his purpose that any man can make. Then there is the question of alcoho which Mr. Bok seems to consider such a perilous one. All the fluid extracts and tinctures used in medicine must employ alcohol as a solvent and preservative. Prohibit a physician from using alcohol in his prescriptions and you would make the practice of medicine impossible. If a physician must use alcohol in certain pre-scriptions, shall we compiain that a ready-made medicine employs it for the same purpose?

If we are going to avoid the use of alcohol we must banish the extracts and essences used in our kitchen. Fluid extracts, whether they are medicinal or culinary, cannot be made or preserved without alcohol.

The use of alcohol in medicine is approved by the pharmacopoelas of all nations. It is in accord with the practice of all medical authorities in the world.

The abuse of alcohol is another matter, but the cost alone is enough to prevent abuse. Alcohol costs about £50 per galion. It is too expensive for any medicine maker to use more than he needs of fight between the Hill and the Harriman interests may result any day in abrogation of the compact entered into two years ago between them whereby each agreed to keep off the grass of the other.

Mr. Worthington is fully as reticent as his predecessors regarding the plans of his company. If it has any plans for opening up Central Oregon. His disincilination to talk on such matters is, in a measure, explained by his recent arrival and consequent unfamiliarity with the situation.

But from a man prominently interested in Central Oregon development it is learned that not all the surveyors now in the Central Oregon deled are smoothern Pacific men. According to his version, and he is in close touch with railroad affairs affecting his region, the O. R. & N. is making great effort to locate an economical line of easy grade through the center of the state.

The Columbia Southern, for some distance north of Shaniko and for several miles beyond, passes through a region that would be productive of little or no revenue for a railroad. Furthermore, construction of the road south of Shaniko for many miles would disc. They are ready to denounce a ready-discast are copposed to proprietary remedien.
