Kaiser's Visit to Morocco Hostile to France.

French Government Admits Resentment at His Action, and Britain Seizes Occasion to Show Friendship for France.

LONDON. March M. — The Associated Press learned at the Foreign Office today that Chancellor von Buelow's announcement in the Reichstag yesterday of Germany's policy toward Merocco came as a complete surprise to the British government. It was believed, as had been generally declared, that Emperor William's visit to Tangler was without political significance.

When the Angio-French entente was concluded in 1901 Strance officially informed Germany of the fact, and also of the agreement between herself and Spain, eigned six months later, whereby France was given a mandate to regulate the affairs of Morocco. Reforms in Morocco were imperatively necessary for the good of all the powers commercially interested in the country, and, as a concert of the powers had proved so difficult and unworkable in Turkey, Caina and elsewhere, where it had been tried, it was the opinion of the British government that one power alone could best exect pressure on the Sultan of Morocco. France, being far the deepest concerned financially and commercially, naturally was given the mandate to institute reforms.

As the open door was guaranteed and equal commercial rights insured to all the countries concerned, it was said at the Foreign Office that it is difficult to understand here what can be Germany's motive. The German stritude, it is believed, will certainly make the Sultan of Morocco defant of the French and cause him to persist in his old-time conduct, which will be destructive of trade and endanger life. When the Angio-French entente was Dispatches from Tangler give elaborate details of the preparations being made for the reception of Emperor William, who is expected there tomorrow. The Sultan of Morocco has sent a special embassy to Tangler to present an Arab horse to the Emperor. Captain Fournier, the commander of the French troops at Tangler, will co-operate with the commander of the native troops in preserving order.

Great interest attaches to the expected servival at Tangler of Raisult, the brigand chief who captured Ion Perdicaris and Cromwell Variey, and who will lead the native cavalcade.

EFFECT OF VISIT ON FRANCE

Kalser's Purpose May Be Concillatory, but Result May Be Opposite. LONDON, March 21.-The editorials and other articles printed in the London newspapers this morning reflect to a cer-tain sense of uneasiness, almost amount-ing to irritation, at the idea, based on Chancellor you Paralows

"Russia's eclipse is Germany's oppor-inity." crystallizes in a sonience the meral idea prevalent on the subject. It suggested that Emparor William, far our desiring to irritate France, wishes rather to emphasize the diminished value of the Russian alliance and thereby per-suade France of the advisability of a rap-prochement with Germany.

At the same time, those least inclined to cavil at the German Emperor's action admit that it is calculated to stiffen the Sultan's resistance to French policy in Morocco and so retard the civilising scheme involved in the Anglo-Prench agreement. In this light the usually moderate Daily Telegraph says the Emperor's visit to Tangler can only be regarded as an unfriendly act.

Other papers are inclined to doubt the wiedom of Emperor William's policy, which they think is more likely to result in strengthening the Anglo-French entente. Much satisfaction therefore is expressed at the exchange of visits which is being arranged for the French and British fleets during the coming Summer. The initiative in this demonstration of friendship is said to have been taken mer. The initiative in this demonstration of friendship is sold to have been taken by the British government, and in Paris it seems to be hoped that the visit of the British squadron to Bress or Cherbourg would be the occasion also of a visit by King Edward or some other member of the royal family to Paris. Nothing, however, has been definitely arranged in this latter direction.

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, March 30 .-Some scenes of disorder this morning, provoked by Haytian soldiers, occurred n the market and main streets, but were quickly suppressed by the police.

The government has decided to maintain order and has taken great precuutail order and has taken great precau-tions. All the troops are confined to their barracks, and it is believed that in spite of the action of the people against the Syrlans rioting will be avoided. Presi-dent Nord has issued orders vigorously to suppress all attempts to pillage. All Syrlans have closed their stores and those who are American or French of the control of the con cilizans or British subjects have hotsted the flags of their respective nationalities over their residences and stores. The latter will remain closed for several days. The Syrians believe they will be able to reopen for business April 3 or 4, hoping that the excitement of the populace will have calmed down by that time, but the hostile attitude of the people against the Syrians leads to the fear that grave inci-

Smith and his wife left New York a few months after the murder and before the beginning of the mistrial, and for a long time the authorities were unable to locate them. Smith's testimony and his identity are considered almost vital to the case against Mise Patterson. Several weeks ago a New York detective met Smith in Montreal and from that time until the arrests here today this officer has awaited a favorable time for making the arrest. He followed the couple, part of the time as traveling companion, over half the continent, having made friends with Smith, who knew him to be a detective, but believed he was after some other person. Detroit, Cleveland and a number of Canadian cities were visited.

MELLEN ON RAILROAD ABUSES If Railroads Cannot Deal Fairly, Public Should Control Them.

HARTFORD, Coun., March 30.— Charles S. Mellen, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, appeared today before the committee on railroads of the Connecticut Gebon railroads of the Connecticut Gen-eral Assembly to advocate certain proposed amendments to the charter of the Consolidated Railway Company, the holding corporation of 400 miles of trolley lines owned by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Company. During the course of his argument, Mr. Mellen discussed the question of corporate control, saying in part:

The demand which has resulted for a strict supervision of railroads in the inte supervision of railroads in the interest of the public welfare is the issue of the hour. It is right it should be had. There have grown up great abuses without doubt, and it is time they were laid have and supped. A railroad enjoys great privileges from the public. It performs a public service, it imposes a tax which should be alike to all who us it, and if it cannot handle finely without discrimination between persons and observed. treat all alike fairly, it is time for public which created it is supervise it a control it, when it has shown it cannot trusted to control itself.

But it is not a project to be entered upon hastily. You do not want to make the cure worse than the disease. Here is not a case for the dilettants, for theorists, for crunks, but for the man of affairs, the jurist of reputs, the man who puts his citizenship above other considerations.
