IS STILL AT LARGE

Murderer of Edna Hoffman Not Apprehended.

KNOWN TO THE POLICE

Man Who Cut Woman's Throat Said to Be John T. Coleman, a Professional Gambler, Known in Spokane and Northwest.

John T. Coleman, who is alleged to have murdered Edna Hoffman in a room above the Palm saloon at an early hour police being unable to learn of his whereabouts or his actions after leaving the scene of the crime. Detective Kerrigan, who is handling the case, found that the real name of the man who went by the name of Jack while in Portland, was man, and that he formerly resided in Spokane.

Coleman, who is about 30 years of age, professional gambler years and is known as a man of a desperate and unsavory character. He is said to possess very valuable mining property in British Columbia. He is about five feet eight inches in height and is powerfully built. He weighs about 150 pounds. When last seen he was wearing a dark suit of clothes and a black slouch hat. He were a double-breasted gold watch chain. It was reported to the police yesterday morning that he had a black mustache, but it was found out later that his mustache was light.

Coleman Is Well Known.

The police are of the opinion that Cole man will be apprehended as he is known in most of the large cities in the North-west, being like all gamblers, of a roving disposition. His description, which is a complete one, has been telegraphed to all the towns surrounding Portland and the large cities on the Coast. The police are inclined to think, however, that Coleman is in hiding in Portland or this vicould have left this city on any of the trains as they have all been closely watched.

If he committed the murder his clothes are undoubtedly covered with the blood of his victim. It would have been impossible for him to slash the woman's throat without the blood from the wound spurting upon him as soon as the flesh was opened and the jugular vein severed. He is probably hidden away in some place awalting until his clothes can be clea and so that he can disguise himself in such a manner as to prevent detection.

Quarreled in Spokane.

It has been learned that when Edna Hoffman left Spokane several weeks ago Coleman was at the depot and tried to prevent her from taking the train. He had a long conversation with her in the depot, and attempted to effect a reconcillation. She would not listen to his pleadings, and repeatedly ordered him to leave. Just before she left on the train, he, in a gust of anger, slapped her several times in the tace and ran away to avoid arrest, Last Tuesday he came to Portland, and, after visiting the various saloons in the city, located her in a room above the Paim. He tried again and again to get her, but she refused to have anything to do with him. It is understood that she the public who is to be suited and whose servants we are, the management whose servants we are, the management ing she agreed to talk the matter over with him in the hopes of persuading him to leave her alone. She took him to her room. While there they ordered a lunch

Bartender Finds Victim.

About 1 o'clock Ed McSweeny, a bartender at the Palm saloon, went up to her apartments, telling her that there was a party downstairs who wanted to see her. She arose to go, but Coleman objected. McSweeny left the two and started downstairs. As he reached the ground floor he heard scuffling and a scream. Looking up, he saw Eina Hoffman, bleeding from a gash in her throat which extended from ear to ear, reel from the room and fall at the head of the stairs, dead. At the same he saw the back of a man disappearing through the door which leads to the

Edna Hoffman, who ran a house of ill-fame in Portland about eight years ago, was reputed at that time to possess considerable property. She had jewelry which was worth about $300. From Portland it is said she went to Spokane, where she met Coleman. She was madly infatuated with him, and it is told that she spent the greater part of her money on him. After having been associated with him for several years, she grew tired of his attentions and drifted back to her old haunts

The inquest over the remains of Edna Hoffman will be held today,

BAKER IS IN PORTLAND.

Washington Senator Discusses His Troubles... Ready for Peace or War.

Senator George H. Baker, of Goldendale, was in Portland yesterday, and while he was not on the warpath, he was not burdened with an overwhelming load love for ex-Senator Foster and ex-Senator Wilson, who once represented the great State of Washington in Congress. reat State of Washington in Congress.

Mr. Baker stood in the doorway at the process and Collins, operatic musical parodists, the swellest dressers in the business. Imperial and blinked comfortably at the street and the holiday-garbed crowds ever changing before him. In his reation he said that he was at peace with the world, of open and unclouded conscience, and possessing no fear. But he did not say that the joy of the Sabbath had entered into his contemplation of the two ex-United States Senators who are and were responsible for his appointment as United States Marshal, having been held up for investigation.

"I don't know a thing, not a thing," said the Senator when asked for things happening in his division of the great Northwest. "Everything is very quiet up there and there is nothing doing." It being remembered that one W. H. Ramsey, a mythical person of whom many had heard, but who had been seen many had heard, but who had been seen and admiration of every amusement lover by but few, had been supposed to be in in Portland. Managers Keating and Seattle investigating the record of Mr. Flood are the world-beaters at the popu-Baker as special examiner for the De-partment of Justice, the Senator was asked as to the outcome.

"What has become of Mr. Ramsay and his work?" The question ran, "Has he made any report or is he still in Seattle!

"I tried to see Mr. Ramsey," said Mr. Baker, "but I could not find him. I was told that he said he did not want to see me; that the charges brought against me were so trivial that he would not take the trouble to meet me. But I think it is a funny way to inspect a man by never allowing him a word to say in his own behalf. I did not desire to meet him personally, but I would have liked to have had some friend state my case for me. It seems queer that the inspector should spend all of his time with my poshould spend all of his time with my po-litical enemies and not give me a chance to be heard; that he should draw all of his information from those who have fought me and whom I have fought since I have been in the state. I have lived in Washington for 20 years and if in that time I have not been square I would like to know it, for I have no knowledge of any other course." Then Senator Eaker turned to greet Senator D. AT THE THEATERS

What the Press Agents Say.

FIRST TIME TONIGHT.

Initial Performance of "A Runaway Girl" at the Marquam Grand.

Beginning tonight, and continuing Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the Pollard Lilliputian Opera Company will present the popular musical comedy, "A Runaway Girl," at the Marquam Grand Theater. This will afford music and fun-loving theatergoers an opportunity to witness one of the greatest London and New York successes ever presented in that line Originally produced in the Galety The ater, London, it enjoyed a continuous run for three years. The late Augustin Daly then produced it in New York, where it ran for 200 consecutive nights. This will be the first time it has ever been given at popular prices, and it af-fords all the members of the company excellent opportunities to display their talents. Teddie McNamara will have the part of Flipper, the jockey, the role made famous by Arthur Dunn. Little Daphne Pollard will be seen as Car-menita. "A Galety Girl" will be the bill Friday night and Saturday mati-nee, and "An American Millionaire" Saturday night. Seats are now selling

Columbia Season Closes.

The regular 30 weeks' season of the Co lumbia Stock Company closed last night and the theater will remain dark during the week. A short special season will be played by the company, opening next Sunday. The bill has not been announced.

Fer-rington and Boyle entertain in a ver-grotesque comedy. The De Monleos will what wonderful feats can be in ring-circling, and Billy Tann will keep you in a happy mood for a while with his humorous monologues that are certainly original. Rousell performs very difficult tricks on the aerial rings; Morgan and Chester have a new and enter taining comedy sketch, and last, but not least, is Alexander and Company, "the Handcuff King," who will entertain in his original creation, "The Haunted Mail-Pouch." Roscoe Arbuckle will sing "Down on the Farm," and the latest lifenotion pictures will be exhibited on the projectoscope. Taken all together, this is one of the best attractions that has been seen in the city. Don't forget the price-10 cents to all parts of the house.

Responding to popular demand, the Grand has returned to its old policy of a general admission price of 19 cents, with, however, the best bill ever offered in its history. The following artists of inter-national reputation will appear: Bartlett each making three distinct changes; Lee Long Foo, Chinese baritone, only China-man now in American vaudeville; Murray Hill, monologist; the Keltle Trio, really great in every respect; Orville Pitcher, the colored stump speaker; Sam son and Zaccho, two of the strongest persons in the world; Alf Bonner in a new song "Mamma's Boy," and "Life in the Samoan and si Islands" will be exhibited on the Grandiscope. The general admission price to any part of the house will be one dime.

ENRICH THE LAND

Great Irrigation Project for Southern Idaho.

COST TO EXCEED $10,000,000

Government Will Reclaim 372,000 Acres in Boise and Payette Vallevs. Made Possible by Pub-Ilc Spirit of Citizens.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, April 2.-The Payette-Boise irrigation project in Idaho has received the formal approval of the Secretary of the Interior, who recently set aside $1,300,000 for initiating the work of construction. This action has been an ticipated for some time, and is largely the result of the splendid enterprise of the citizens of that section. For more than a year the landowners, organized into a water-users' association, have labored indefatigably to harmonize the many conflicting claims of private in-terests in lands, canals and water rights, with the result that today practically the valley as a unit stands pledged to the Government enterprise. Great as the satisfaction of the cit-izens may be on account of the favor-able action of the Secretary, it is no greater than that felt by the Reclama-tion Service, which has long recognized the fact that the Payette-Bolse project is one of the most attractive in the arid West, and but for the many and complicated private and corporate interests involved, would have been selected for the initial work of the Government in Idaho. The people, having worked out satisfactory solutions to the divers problems, are deserving of the success which has finally crowned their efforts. While the citizens were straightening out their difficulties, the Government engineers thoroughly investigated the physical conditions and worked out comprehensive plans for irrigation. which have been presented to and re-ceived the approval of the board of consulting engineers. These investigations show that the project is entirely feasible from an engineering stand-point. The lands to be reclaimed are of excellent quality, and with the matic conditions prevailing are of excellent quality, and are capable sustaining a dense population. The fer-tility of the lands now under irrigation insures the financial soundness of the undertaking. Nearly 90 per cent of the irrigable land in the valley pledged to repay to the Government its expenditure for providing a permanent water supply. How Land Will Be Irrigated.

Briefly stated, the Payette-Boise project provides for the reclamation of 372,000 acres of land in these valleys, 200,000 acres of which are now desert. proposed to irrigate 72,000 acres with the waters of Payette River, 54,000 acres of this area being situated in the Boise Val-ley: 25,000 acres situated on the south side of the Snake River, a portion of the lat-ter area to be supplied with water from that stream, the water to be pumped by at the diversion dam on the Payette River. The remainder of the water which will be used on this tract will be furnished by Succor Creek, a tributary of the Snake River. The remaining area of 93,000 acres is situated in the Boise Valley and will be watered from the Boise River. Of the lands in the project about Ample storage facilities exist on the headwaters of the Payette River, which will be available for regulating the dis-charge of that stream, and which can be developed at very reasonable cost. The principal storage for the Boise lands is in the valley proper along the line of the power canals. Some storage can also be obtained on the headwaters of this stream and utilized for the irrigation of lands situated above the level of the reservoirs on the plains. It will be entirely feasible irrigation of practically all of the lands under the project, as about 100,000 acres of land within the limits of the project are already irrigated.

Begun by Private Enterprise.

This work has been accomplished through individual and community etfort and private enterprise, but has not been planned on very comprehensive lines, and the communities have made no provisions for the full development of the natural resources of these val-leys. The plans walch must necessarily be adopted in order to accomplish the best results, owing to the magni-tude of the undertaking, are beyond the reach of community effort; nor do they offer an attractive field for the investment of private capital. They can only be carried to completion by the help of the Government.

The broad plans which the reclama tion service have under consideration contemplate the construction of a diverting dam in Payette River and of a canal for the came on the south side of Payette Valley for the irrigation of the lands thereunder, or about 18,000 acres. This canal will also conduct water through the divide between the two rivers to 54,000 acres in the Boise Valley. A diverting dam on the Boise River and one or more canals and storage reservoirs will distribute water to 241,000 acres of land on the south side of Boise Valley, while a canal on the north side will irrigate 33,000 acres. Storage reservoirs on the headwaters of the Boise River will furnish water for the late irrigation of about 75,90) acres of land along the line of the up-per canal The complete utilization of cor Creek, on the south side of Snake River, supplemented by a pump-ing system from the latter stream, will supply 25,700 acres

Millions for Water.

The estimated cost of the entire system is $10,732,000, or an average cost not to exceed $30 per acre for the land which has no facilities at present for irrigation. This amount includes maintenance for ten years, also the value of existing works which would be utilized but which would not have to be paid for by the Government, and the purchase of rights of way, which will have to be provided from the reciamation fund.

ing lands, amounting to $22,700 acres about 90 per cent of the total area, are either directly or indirectly bound to the project:

Land in private ownership ... Public lands subject to entry under the conditions of the reclamation State lands

As the major portion of the reclama-tion fund has been appropriated already for various projects in the several arid states and territories, the entire allot-ment required for the Payette-Boise project could not be made at this time. It was therefore decided to select a por-tion of the project which, though only an integer of the whole, would yet be a complete project in itself, and by begin-ning which the whole scheme would be held together and development directed along comprehensive lines

First Work to Be Done.

The division of the project which has been recommended for immediate struction consists of the portion of the irrigable area situated on the south side of the Boise Valley. This part has been selected because here the largest area can be benefited by the expenditure of the smallest amount of money available, and because by constructing a large reservoir a connecting link will be formed between the more important irrigation divisions now existing on this side of the river. It is believed that by beginning the work in the manner outlined the maximum benefits will result with a limited amount of money; that the construction work can be carried forward without any unn sary delay, and that a total area of 126,-000 acres would at once begin the pay-ment back into the fund of the cost of reclammation, as all of this land would immediately be benefited.

The Boise and Payette Valleys constitute one of the most attractive sections of the West. In the past few years they of the west. In the past few years they have undergone a transformation that is nothing less than marvelous. The progress in agriculture is reflected in the splendid growth of the towns adjacent, and the whole basin presents an alluring picture to the visitor, and furnishes an excellent example. an excellent example of the result of irrigation. It requires no particular act men to see that these valleys have en tered upon a era of substantial develop-ment which is destined to unite them in one of the most densely populated as well as one of the richest agricultural communities on this continent.

Wealth to Be Created.

The full utilization of the water suppl n Boise and Payette rivers will possible be the complete reclamation of nearly 600,000 acres which, divided into farm units of 80 acres, will mean 7500 farms, a rural population of 30,000, and a popula tion in towns and villages of double that number. The agricultural wealth of the valley, estimated on the basis of the last census, would be approximately-irrigated land, $30,000,000; farm buildings, $4,500. 000; implements and machinery, $1,410-000; live stock, $9,300,500; canals and reservoirs, $12,000,000; total, $57,210,500. In 1900 the value of farm property for the whole State of Idaho was $67,271,200. It seems safe to assume that with the completion of the Boise-Payette project the farm property in this section would have a value equal to 50 per cent of that for whole state.
