Crowds Fill Churches of the Nine Districts at All Services-Programme for Sunday Serv-Ices Has Been Arranged

Had Christ come to Portland yesterday he would have noticed 250 places of busi-ness with closed doors and a little placard within the windows saying that a day of prayer was being observed by the city's inhabitants. It was an unusual Business men sometimes their stores in observance of certain holi-days, but to close them for the purpose of giving employes and employers an op-portunity of attending church has never been heard of in Portland before.

At 11:39 o'clock yesterday morning the usiness houses of both Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant, Christian and infidel were closed and remained so until ? P. M., and at the noon hour there were ered within the three largest theaters of the city thousands of men and women to listen to the sermons of the svangelists and the excellent singing of the soloists traveling with them.

At the Marquam Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman was the speaker. He took for his text a portion of the ninth verse of the fifth chapter of the book of Revelations They mang a new song"-and from that prenched the most impressive sermor that he has delivered in this city. The singing of the "Glory Song," by the audi-ence which filled every nook and corner of the theater was inspiring, and as the leader, Charles F. Allen, divided the crowd by asking the gallery to sing and then the balcony and finally those upon the lower floor the effect was wonderful, each vying with the other to send out the greatest volume of song. Fred Butler that peerless buritone soloist, sang with splendid voice "Just for Today," and when he had finished there was hardly a dry eye in the house

Speaks on "Life."

At the Grand Rev. Henry Ostrom was the speaker of the day. His topic was "Lafe," and an audience that nearly filled the theater listened with rapt attention during his discourse. The singing of John P. Hillis was excellent, and as the crowd was dismissed some one started the "Glory Song," with a spirit of en-thusiasm and the crowd took it up, singing as they left the theater and went

At the Baker every seat was taken and the alsies filled by eager listeners to Rev. Mr. Blederwolf's sermon. Harry Maxwell was the leader of the choir that filled the stage, and his efforts were suc-cessful in bringing out a great volume of song. As usual his solo was splendidly rendered and noticeably effected those present. The sermon of Rev. Mr. Blederwolf was one of the best of the day and when he asked for a showing of hands of those that had decided to live a Christian life, a great many of those who had listened to the sermon arose to their feet and later signed cards to that

The Taylor-Street Methodist Church was partially filled by an attentive audi ence that was present to hear the sermon of Rev. R. A. Walton and the solo of O. F. Pugh. Rev. Mr. Walton's address was a plain statement of facts concerning Christianity and greatly impressed

Many Hear Rev. Mr. Stough.

Rev. Henry W. Stough was the speaker at a gathering of women at Calvary Baptist Church at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and at the same hour Rev. WHILE LION ROARS

Democratic Leaders Join in the Chorus. MAYOR-MAKERS GET BUSY

General Killfeather Gives Vent to Burst of Oratory Which is Followed by Discussion of Some Heat by Others.

In a 16-cent theater in Washington street last night an African lion was roaring at its tamer. Up above in Hibernian Hall lions of the Multnomah Democratic Club were roaring at each other. Which roared the louder?

Africa For be it known, the Democratic heat was like unto leonine anger in the jungle. And it was all because General Killfeather called George H. Thomas, who seeks the Democratic nomination for Mayor, a traitor to his party and shouted that Thomas ought to be "siedge-hammered" in the primar-les and "exterminated" and that the true and only way to purify the party and evangelise the city was to cast out "highwaymen" and "buma" and "shanghai" brethren. In the General's opinion, Dr. arry Lane was the only man who could keep the devil's imps out of the town, because he was a man whom Satan might take him up on a high hill and all kinds of real estate, but the "doctor" wouldn't sell out.

General Exhales Oratory.

The general vented himself in oratory so passionate and so full of Robert Emmet's zeal that Joe Malley ex-'Td give $100 if I could say all that. But up rose Oglesby Young, one of the Sons of Jefferson boomed for Muni-cipal Judge. Mr. Young's tone was sad. He rebuked the General. He called the General's oratory tirade. Mr. Thomas, in his opinion, while not al-ways a good Democrat, had a right to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor, More Democrats like him would make a bigger Democratic party. General Killfeather's speech was food for the spirit of the new-born Cain in the party. It set the brethren against one another. It was It was not politic. All this from Mr. Young's lips in spite of his determination to support Lane against Thomas. the club unanimously sided with Mr.

Other Democrats lent their voices to the din, among them Pat Powers and "Citizen" H. W. Parker and Jim Foley and Jacob Krimble and T. W. McGovern and among the last, young Lawyer Bert E. Haney, who declared that too many brethren had given speech to their thoughts and opened their mouths too often and emitted words too full of air and too void of understanding and wasted

Powers Rebukes Haney.

Back came gray-headed Pat Powers with a rebuke to the young man, saying that a bunch of lawyers had recently fallen into a wrangle and tangled themselves in one another's wool, the folly whereof exceeded that of the present oc-casion. When lawyers with all their basion. When the part of the part into a fight, how could untutored citizens like those then present be blamed?

Not the roar of Africa nor the sweet song of "Auld Lang Syne" in a lodge next door, nor at last the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" could calm the valiants. A loud cry went up that the Democratic banner, Pat Powers and General Killfeather making most of the noise. Thomas Murphy and James Grafton fruit peddlers charged with robbing Philip Spiegel of $12 on February 13 last, were tried and acquitted in Judge Frazer's court yesterday. The jury returned zer's court yesterday. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty after five minutes' deliberation. A second charge against Murphy and Grafton of robling Moses Hafter of $10 at the same time was dismissed on motion of Deputy District Astorney Bert Haney.

Spiegel testified that he and Hafter were in his stable on Grant street at 7:20 o'clock on the evening of February 15 when two men, one wearing a hand-kerchief over the lower part of his face entered. One was a tall man and the The latter pointed a pis at him and demanded money which he and Hafter hurriedly delivered. Grafton is tall, over six feet in height, and Murphy is small. Spiegel thought they were the men who robbed him. He was certain of it, he said. Further evidence against Murphy was that at the time of his arrest he carried a revolver. TRAFFIC MEN AT CONFERENCE

Result Will Be Announced This Afternoon...J. C. Stubbs, Traffic Director of Harriman Lines. Arrives in Portland.

Will the jobbers of the Northwest be able to secure concessions from the transcontinental rallroads at the conference which had been arranged for this afternoon at 3 o'clock? For some reason the optimism of the past has changed and there is an undercurrent of doubt which is banishing the smiles from the faces of the Portland mer-chants as the time for the convention draws near.

J. C. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Stubbs met with the other traffic men in the city and a long conference was the result. In the evening W. A. Mears, the secretary of the North Pacific Jobbers' and Manufacturers' Association, Henry Hahn, L. A. Lewis and other prominent merchants tendered their respects to Mr. Stubbs and his associates at the Hotel Portland. The party retired to the apariments of the traffic men, where an extended and informal discussion of the questions at issue was held. No person who had been in attendance could remember what had been said, or if he did, he would state that he could not talk until after the meeting of this afternoon.

Mr. Stubbs himself has nothing to say other than it pleases him to be once more in Portland where the sun shines so bright and the sky is so blue. Of these and kindred subjects he will talk, but of

"Please love me and give me a home and God's blessing will be upon you. I am of honest birth." A small note containing these pitiful words was attached to the clothing of a 6-months-old baby boy found on the porch of the residence of G. Frey, 708 East Four-teenth street, last night about 9 o'clock, The infant was dressed in neat and clean clothing, but looked as though it had just passed through a severe illness or had been improperly fed. Mr. Frey kept the child over night, but says he cannot adopt it. It was by the merest chance that the baby was discovered. As the family was preparing to retire Mr. Prey heard a slight noise in his front yard. One of the family said it was probably a dog or a cat, but he seemed to have an intimation that something was wrong, and went to the door. At his feet, on the porch, lay a little bundle of white. He almoss atepped upon the baby. Picking the infant up in his arms, he tenderly carried it to the heat of the fire. PORTLAND FIREMEN'S TRIBUTE TO DR. H. W. CARDWELL

THE FIREMEN'S OFFERING.

The mortal remains of the late Dr. H. W. Cardwell were laid at rest in Lone Fir Cemetery yesterday afternoon, after an restive funeral service at the family residence, 306 North Twenty-third street. The funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. B. I. House, and he was assisted by Rev. Mr. Elliott.

There were many beautiful floral offerings, the most conspicuous among them being an emblematic piece of tions and lilles of the valley sent by the members of the Portland Pire Department. The easel was fully six feet in height, and upon the pedestal there rested a large faceimile in flowers of the badge worn by the firemen upon their caps. Worked in flowers were the letters "P. P. F. D.," upon the four arms of the cross and in the center were the figures "50," number of Dr. Cardwell's badge. He was an honorary member of the department, the appointment being tendered him as a token of the appreciation in which he was held by the members of the department for his services as a physician in times of emergency. Dr. Cardwell was always one of the first to arrive at a fire, and he remained as long as the fiames were enched that he might be of assistance should one of the "boys" be injured. He had a bell within his home and was awakened at all times of the night when an alarm was given.
