

THE LAWYER DOES A GOOD JOB

Slated for District Attorney in the Eastern District of Washington.

PRESIDENT LEARNS RECORD

Experience of Man Who Aids in Disruption of Homes Not Considered of Right Sort for This Place.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, April 17.—President Roosevelt does not want divorce lawyers for District Attorneys. That is given as his real reason for refusing to appoint Joseph E. Lindsley, of Spokane, as District Attorney for the Eastern District of Washington.

When Lindsley was turned down, it was announced by the Department of Justice that he was too young and lacked experience. That was accepted as the whole reason, but subsequently it has been announced by the department that Lindsley's age did not operate against him so much as the character of his practice.

Investigation Is Ordered.

The President hesitated about appointing a man under 30 as District Attorney, but Lindsley was well supported and recommended by some of the most prominent lawyers in Washington. In view of this showing, the President ordered an investigation to ascertain something about Lindsley's experience as a practitioner. Then it was learned that Lindsley had been primarily a divorce lawyer, and that the bulk of his practice had been in the divorce courts. He did not like that; and he did not intend to appoint a divorce lawyer to so important an office as District Attorney.

On top of this, the Attorney-General informed the President that, within the next year or two it was probable that important land-fraud cases would develop in Eastern Washington, and would come up for trial before Judge Whitton. He said the Government needed a sharp, shrewd, capable lawyer of experience to handle these cases, and one familiar with public land law. It was agreed that Lindsley's practice had not especially equipped him to handle land cases, and the President, for that reason, declined to appoint him.

Senators Did Not Grieve. It is also learned in this connection, that no tears were shed by the Washington Senators when the President announced to them his determination. Lindsley was not a man of their choice; he was forced onto them under the terms of one of those famous Olympia agreements; but, true to their bargain, they did their best by Lindsley.

It was only when the senators saw that his appointment was out of the question that they turned to another man, a man whom they knew would be satisfactory to the department, and a man whose appointment could not be construed as the payment of a political debt. That is why they picked A. G. Avery.

FOREST RESERVES IN IDAHO

Over Four Million Acres Are Now Withdrawn From Entry.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, April 17.—Between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 acres of public land in Idaho are today withdrawn from entry, pending the ultimate creation of new forest reservations. It is practically assured that most of this land will be permanently reserved, though a minor portion will be restored to entry, either because it is purely agricultural land, or because it is unfitted for forestry purposes.

The largest withdrawals are those made for the Shoshone reserve and the proposed addition to the Bitter Root reserve. The former embraces approximately 1,500,000 acres lying in the center of Shoshone County; the latter tract adjoins the present Bitter Root reserve on the south and lies in Idaho and Boise Counties.

Next in importance are the withdrawals for the Little Salmon and Sawtooth reserves, which each embrace about 700,000 acres of public land. The former lies along the range of the Seven Devils Mountains, in Western Idaho, in Washington and Idaho Counties. The Sawtooth withdrawal embraces the summit of the Sawtooth Mountains, northeast of Boise.

In extreme Northern Idaho is a withdrawal of about 2,000,000 acres adjoining a larger withdrawal in Montana. These lands are held up with the intention of ultimately creating a Kootenai forest reserve just south of the international boundary.

To the south of this withdrawal, and on the west slope of the continental divide, is a smaller withdrawal, of 340,000 acres, which it is proposed shall be converted into the Coeur d'Alene reserve. This latter withdrawal occupies the extreme northern end of Shoshone County.

From examinations made in past seasons, the Bureau of Forestry is ready to recommend that forest reserves be created to embrace most of the lands now covered by withdrawal. It is said that the lands are almost entirely mountainous, nonagricultural, but valuable for their timber; they also embrace the headwaters of many of the important streams of Idaho. The Forestry Bureau has found little evidence of bona fide settlement on the withdrawn lands, though there are many evidences of attempts to gobble up valuable timber lands in various questionable ways.

Before any of these lands, now withdrawn, are permanently reserved, Senator Heyburn expects to file with the President a lengthy letter asking for the elimination of certain areas which he will stipulate. The Senator declares that many lands valuable for agriculture are now included in the forestry withdrawals, and he vigorously objects to having such lands brought within a forest reserve. There is a difference of opinion between the Senator and the Forestry Bureau as to the character of certain tracts, and the result of the conflict between the Senator and bureau bids fair to be a compromise, with the advantage on the side of the bureau.

At various times past Senator Heyburn has protested against including mineral lands within forest reserves; that is lands which are now being developed for their minerals. The Forestry Bureau is not willing to accede to the Senator's wishes in this respect, as the law permits mineral location and development within forest reserves, just as it does outside. The Forestry Bureau contends that forest reserves do not interfere with mineral development, and on that ground will ask the President to include mineral lands, along with timber lands, in the proposed new forest reservations in Idaho.

It will be several weeks, possibly months, before all of the Idaho forest reserves disputes are settled, for Senator Heyburn has much matter to present, and desires to gather fresh data in Idaho before presenting his final protest to the President. The Forestry Bureau is promised to take no action until this protest is received.

MRS. DANZ MUST DIE

Pennsylvania Supreme Court Passes on Negress' Case.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—By a vote of five to two the Supreme Court today decided that Mrs. Catharine Danz must hang for the murder of her husband, William G. Danz. George P. Hooley, a colored "voodoo" doctor, also has received the death sentence for the part he took in the murder of Danz. Danz died under peculiar circumstances, and a post-mortem examination of the remains revealed the fact that arsenic poisoning killed him. Both Mrs. Danz and Hooley were arrested, charged with the murder of Danz. The woman testified that she had bought powders from Hooley and administered them to her husband for the purpose of curing the drink habit. She claimed not to have known the contents of the powders. Hooley was first placed on trial and convicted of having sold powders containing arsenic, and which, the prosecution alleged, killed Danz. At the conclusion of Hooley's trial, Mrs. Danz was tried on the charge of murder for having administered the poisonous powders. She was also convicted and both were sentenced to hang. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court by Hooley's counsel, but today's decision leaves only the Pardon Board between the woman and the gallows.

Billman went ahead with the statue and delivered it to the city. It was set up in the city park and elaborate exercises marked its unveiling. However, Billman never received payment and today, while all city officials were absent attending a musical league meeting, he carted it to his home, where he declares it will stay until he is paid in full.
