It has been supposed that the North End would show the greatest decrease be-cause many of its denizens have left town since the reform wave arrived. But while that part of the city has fallen off in registration beyond the general ratio of the entire city, precincts in other parts of the city have fallen off more, for ex-ample, Precinct M, in Albina; Precinct 58, in Portsmouth; Precincts 14, 16, 18, 22, 23, 18, 28, 21, and 22, all configurations and front

24, 28, 31 and 32, all contiguous and front-ing on the river between Washington and Meade. North End precincts which have fallen off more than proportionately with the entire city are Precinct 2, north of Sa-vier and east of Twenty-fourth, and Precinct 9, east of Park and between Everett and Burnside.

The Precincts in Detail. The registration by precincts is as fol-

HENEY REMAINS

Cannot Go to San Francisco Until Some Time During the Coming Week.

IS HELD BY FRAUD CASES

Judge Bellinger's Decision on the Abatement Plea Will Have a Far-Reaching Effect, Whichever Way It May Be.

Francis J. Heney will remain awhile in Portland, having found that the duties of his office will not allow of his returning to San Francisco until perhaps the middle f the next week. The United States District Attorney is now bustly engaged in arranging a brief on the Mitchell case, and this duty, with the detail work of the office, has kept the time full since the argument of Monday last. Practically all of the defendants have now been arraigned, and either by pleas in abatement or denials of guilt have taken the first steps in the trials pending for them.

A great deal of interest centers around the decision of Judge Bellinger in regard to the Mitchell plea of abatement, which will be handed down on Monday next. If the decision is in favor of the Govern-ment, as the consensus of opinion seems to indicate, then the defendants will be asked to plead on the indictments against them, and matters will be left practically abeyance until such time as the work on the Federal building will permit a re-liable date to be set for the occupancy of the new courtroom. As soon as it is known when the court can move into his new quarters, the jury will be called and the cases set for trial.

A great deal of uncertainty in procedure would arise if the decision in regard to the plea of abatement should be decided by the court in favor of the defendants. If the Judge should so stipulate in his section is a supplied to the court of the defendants. decision it would be necessary for the pleas to be tried before a jury as to the questions of fact involved. This action uld delay the time of the trial proper weeks, as it would not be possible to try the pleas until after the regular ury had been empaneled. In any event, however, Mr. Hency will have to let his private business in San Francisco accumulate for a while longer before he can leave Portland. He will probably start for the South near the middle of the week, and will remain in California for the greater part of May.

MORE PLEAS IN ABATEMENT.

Brownell and Sorenson Follow Senator Mitchell's Course in Court.

Senator Brownell and George Screnson appeared before the Federal Court yestermorning for their arraignment on land-fraud indictments. Senator Brownell was there to answer to a charge of subornation of perjury, in which he is al-leged to have induced Fred Slevers and John Howland to swear falsely in regard to affidavits of survey made by Brownell or some of the Henry Meldrum surveys. ing sworn falsely while on trial in the Federal Court on a charge of attempted bribery. Both Senator Brownell and So-renson filed pleas in abatement, with the ples should govern the fate of their individual pleas. Practically all of the land-fraud defendants have now appeared before the court for their arraignment, and but few of the preliminary details remain before the cases are set for trial.

TOLD HOW TO GROW TREES

Professor Pratt, Williams-Avenue School, Gives Practical Lesson.

Professor M. L. Pratt, principal of the Williame-Avenue school, since Arbor day has been demonstrating what may be done in the way of practical instructions in tree planting, grafting and budding. He had a small tree, with roots and all, brought into the assembly hall of the school, and in the course of a short lec-ture explained just how it grew and how it derived its life from the soll and from the atmosphere. He used the tree to illustrate its step in the process of tree culture and tree growth, and how a tree It is so easy to take Piso's Cure, for should be transplanted to insure the best cough, and he relieved and cured. 25c.

results. After showing these things Pro-fessor Pratt then explained in detail how to bud a tree from scions. Since the talk was delivered, Professor Pratt has been called on daily to enlarge on what he said by further explanation of the budding processes and to explain to pupils about rose culture. He said he never saw children more interested in sny branch of information, and while it took up considerable of his time, he gladly gave all pupils information who wanted

DEMOCRATS HAVE POWWOW

They Decide That Hereafter All Speakers Must Answer Questions.

Members of the Young Men's Democrat-

Club didn't have much to talk about at their weekly meeting last night, but they talked, just the same, and when done they had touched on several lively subjects. The brethren decided that whenever anybody in future should address them on any topic whatsoever, he should be ready to answer any reasonable questions that might be propounded by them. The gentlemen wished to let it be known that they did not approve of such conduct as that of George H. Thomas, who, after addressing them a week before, declined to be quizzed on his remarks.

The club considered the direct-primary law a very fine piece of legislation, indeed, because it prevented the Democratic party from consorting with a disgruntled Republican faction and from playing to its whims and toadying to its bosses.

And at the tail end of their deliberations they adopted resolutions thanking The Oregonian and the Telegram, "the two Democratic papers of Portland," for their "courteous and kind treatment" in printing the news of their meetings.

In order to have a hall more in keeping with the dignity of the club and neares the street, so that the brethren would not have to climb three flights of stairs, they voted to secure a hall at Second and Morrison streets, if possible. There Colonel Bob Miller will address the club next Tuesday evening. The new hall, in the opinion of Golonei J. P. Burkhart, was a good place to "talk in and spit tobacco and smoke." When the possibility of the club's having to give bond for the hall was mentioned, William Horan objected, saying that bonds were a Republican

Police Station Excited Over Latest Report Made.

The telephone at the police station rang early the other morning, and as Captain Bailey happened to be absent Sergeant Taylor, who has just returned from his wedding trip, picked up the receiver. He listened for a few seconds and then his face turned to an ashen hue With trembling hand and blanched cheek e dropped the receiver to the desk and called for help.

The policemen around the station were nded. At last, Sergeant Taylor, who had rounded up many a desperate man, had lost his nerve, they thought. They believed he had received news of me terrible murder or catastrophe.
"What is it?" asked one of the police men in alarm. "Take the 'chone, guick." whispered the Sergeant, who had collapsed in a chair.

Mail Sack Lost En Route.

The loss of an inner registered malleack sent from Woodburn to Portland a week ago, is causing the postal officials of these cities much worry at present. This eack, with contents valued at $50, since it was sealed, locked and dispatched on the train has not been seen, and all trace of it has been lost. Inspector Butler, to whom the matter has been turned over, thinks that the missing sack has been placed within some other pouch by mistake, and that it will shortly be found. In the meantime every effort is being made to locate it.

TRANSMISSION LINE BURNS

Cuts Off Power for Electric Lights and Car Service.

The city was thrown into darkness last night at 3:45 o'clock and the car service paralyzed by the burning out of the main transmission line of the Portland General Electric Company's wire at Fulton. The main wire burned through, and, falling, burned other wires, shutting off the power at the central station in this city.

Five linemen were sent to locate the break, and by 12 o'clock the lines had been spliced, the machines cut back into the circuit and the service re-established. No damage was done by the accident other than the burning of the wires
