Toman Householder was racing for third. Toman grabbed the Spalding, and in an attempt to nail Eddie he made a bum toss. The ball bounded off Householder's shoulder,

Smith's two-bagger and a single by Cra-vath, scored Flood. With this one run, Los Angeles began a spirited uphill batthe for the game. The team managed to get Garvin in several troublesome places, but it was not until the eighth inning, with two down, that they spanked out a couple of doubles, scoring the tying run. Dilion and Cravath were both in this play. Cravath scoring Dillon with a long drive that hit the left-field fence. In the tenth inning, Bernard opened up with a two-ply Smith's single. A double play, from sunkle to Schlaffy, closed the Loo Loos up with a slam, or they might have been making runs yet.

Portland tried hard to win the game in the ninth. Atz singled and stole secoud. Runkle failed to help him, and Mur-phy walked. With two on the sacks, Garvin flew out to Flood, and Van Buren couldn't get the ball out of the way of Gray. In the tenth inning McCredie struck out. Schlaffy fouled out and Householder fanned. This ended the spasm. Murphy, who took Van's place in left, spoiled Portland's chances of scoring in the second by being doubled out at second on Van Buren's out to right-field. Van Van Buren also lost a possible chance of a score when he let Bernard fool him on a trick that is as old as the Scriptures Van had singled and Bernard made a bluff of missing the ball. Van thought it was on the square, and tried to stretch the single into a double and was caught.

By far the prettiest bit of work done in the game was pulled off by Catcher Mc-Lean. He cut off three runs at the plate by the cleverest bit of base-blocking ever seen on any diamond. No wonder he was sore when Portland finally lost.
