Law Will Work Hardship to the Settler in Some Instances.

PUTS CHECK ON ROBBERY

Interior Department Will Recommend to Next Congress Modification and Explanation in a Number of Places.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washlaw, but did it so hurriedly as to make very bad job. That is to say, the object accomplished was good enough but the law itself was so hurriedly by the officers who must enforce it.

In the first place, Congress did not intend to repeal the lieu land law absolutely, but the shrewd manipulation that very result.

The law as it now stands is being interpreted by the Interior Department, but the lack of distinctness in its phraseology is causing considerable WOITY.

For instance there are between 1,-000,000 and 3,000,000 acres of forest reserve scrip in the market today, scrip that was issued before the lieu land good and valid until used, some authorities allege that this scrip is no longer of value, since the lands originally held within forest reserves have been conveyed to the Government, and gold are such that for profitable ex-title no longer rests in the settlers or ploitation it must be mined by imrailroad company. The holders of this scrip cannot recover their original lands, and if it should be held that their scrip is valueless, they will be out of Another Perplexing Feature.

Another feature of the new law is even more perplexing. It is stipulated that after the passage of that act, March 3, 1905, no lands within forest reserves may be exchanged for lands elsewhere in the public domain. There are many settlers in the West, especially those residing in forest reserves, who do not know that the lies land law has been repealed. Some of these Isndowners, in perfect good faith, may seek to make a lieu selection and in accordance with the old custom, may convey title to their land to the Government before they discover that they uo not enjoy the right of lieu selection

Once title passes to the Government the settler, under current practice, cannot recover, and apparently must lose his land. The law does not stipualte what shall be done in such cases, and local Land Offices, not having been instructed that the lieu law has been repealed, may accept many such relinguishments What is to become of these settlers? Captain O'Shea, early in 1890. If the equities of the case are observed. they will be allowed to go back and occupy their original lands, as if they had not surrendered title to the Government. So long as they do this they will not be disturbed, for no man can make entry of lands within a forest reserve. But in case they want to sell out. they will be put to hardship, unless

One Very Good Point.

The repeal of the Heu land law put a check to a most vicious method of robbing the Government of its valuable lands. Congress, or a majority of the men in Congress, were not in favor of such radical legislation, but there were several enthusiasts bent on reforming the land laws, in accordance with the recommendations of the Public Land Commission. These men in the minority, in order to rush through the repeal of age. of the lieu law, had to let it go through in somewhat crude shape.

Perhaps, since they have accomplished their main purpose, they will be able to shape up their law in the next Congress. Modification and explanantion will be recommended by the Interior Department, at any rate.

KLAMATH IS TO BE IRRIGATED

Government Will Not Repeat Good

Offer to Canal Company.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, April 22.—Sooner or later the Kla-math Canal Company, operating near Klamath Falls, must step aside and make way for a big government trigation pro-ject. It is for this private enterprise to say whether it will go voluntarily or whether it will be forced out. The fact remains that the government is going to absorb private irrigation works in Klamath basin, and is going ahead with the construction of its own project on a grand scale.

There are several private enterprises in Klamath basin, but all except the Kla-math Canal Company have made terms with the government and are ready and willing to vacate. This concern, owned by California interests, is unwilling to move unless it can name its own price, and sell out on its own terms. The gov-ernment does not do business that way. That is why the Klamath Canal Company bably be forced to vacate. Last December, when the Government first entered into negotiations with this company, the officials of the Reclamation Service made a liberal offer. They were willing to pay $250,000 for the works and property of the company, and to grant them navigation rights on the gov-ernment canals. But the company held out for $50,000. Negotiations failed. The Reclamation Service was satisfied that the Klamath canal property was not worth $550,000; rough estimates placed the actual value at nearer $50,000; but being anxious to build the larger Klamath project and recognizing the equities of the case, they fixed what they termed a very liberal offer. No such price will ever liberal offer. No such price will ever again be offered. It is more than the been endeavoring to force the government stated, that the Klamath Canal Comany appears to be holding its property of so much with a view to irrigating certain lands as with a view to making a big profit and a quick profit out of the government. The canal company made a grave mistake when it turned down the

The probabilities are that if the government forces this company out of the field it will reimburse them for money actually expended, and will make a small allowance for possible earnings from their canal, and will deny them all rights on the government canals. Alrendy, by direction of the attorney general, the Klamath Canal Company has had its water supply shut off, thereby rendering its work valueless to the present owners. It is anticipated that there may be prolonged litigation before the Klamath basis is left to the generation. basin is left to the government. But no matter how long or how costly, the gov-ernment is going to clear out this coun-try and irrigate it according to its own plans and in its own way.

TAKES MONEY TO GET GOLD Old Alaska Placers May Be Profitably Worked by Capitalists. OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washthe United States Geological Survey, is the author of a forthcoming report entitled "The Gold Placers of the Forington, April 23.—Congress at the re-ty-mile, Birch Creek and Fairbanks cent session repealed the lieu land Region, Alaska." It contains the economic results of a reconnaissance of these gold fields of the Yukon basin which was carried out by Mr. Prindle during the Summer of 1903. It was prepared primarily for the placer miner Grawn as to leave much to be desired and prospector. For this reason the description of the auriferous gravels are presented in considerable detail, while mly the sallent features of the geology are treated. The geology of the district solutely, but the shrewd manipulation is very complex and it will require sev-of a few land-law reformers on the eral more field seasons to solve even last day of the session brought about the general problems of structure and

There are at the present time in the Yukon-Tanana country four widelyseparated regions which are produc-ing placer gold—the Forty-Mile region, the Birch Creek region, the Rampart region and the Fairbanks region. The Forty-mile and Birch Creek districts are among the oldest of the gold, placer investigations show that they are by no means exhausted, and that, with the future of the newly-discovered transaction because it would have the Fairbanks placers, but the snow exchange to make in any event. every evidence of handsome profits. The facts presented by Mr. Prindle indicate that the conditions of occurrence of the proved methods, and should invite the attention of capitalists. The placers are within a few miles of water transportation on the Tanana, and machinery can therefore be installed at much less ost than at some of the older camps. The report is illustrated by 16 photographic plates. Its value is much ened by reason of the fact that it ontains two reconnaissance maps of the region, based on surveys made by G. Gerdine in 1993. One map on a scale of 1:250,000, extends from Fairhanks to Circle, and the other, on a scale of 1:625,000, embraces the entire Yukon-Tanana district.

Mr. Prindle's report, which is listed as Bulletin No. 251, is intended for free distribution, and may soon be obtained on application to the Director of the United States Geological Survey Washington, D. C.

Men Indicted by Federal Grand Jury Between Two Fires.

GRABBED AT RESERVE LAND

Should Government Charge Against Them Be Dismissed, There Is Yet a Charge of Fraud

Against the State.

SALEM, Or., April 23.—(Special.)—Men who were indicted by the Federal grand jury for their part in the grabbing of lainds in the proposed Blue Mountain Forest Reserve, and whose transactions have also been investigated by the Marion County grand ujry, now find themselves "between the devil and the deep sea," as it were. So far as the Government's case against tham was concerned, they were charged with buying state lands fraudulently, with a view to exchanging the lands for valuable Government lands lo-cated elsewhere. Since their purpose was to obtain title to Government land, they were charged with a crime against the Government

The argument of such men has been that if they did not buy the land from the state and exchange it for Government land, the state would make the ex-change, and therefore the Government ould lose nothing by reason of their buying the land. Since the Government would be called upon eventually to make the exchange, they contended that it could make no difference whether the exchange was made with the state or with Individuals who had bought the state's title They asserted that if any fraud had been committed, it must be against the plate, and not against the United States.

The land was blought from the state or $1.25 an acre, and when placed inside producers of Alaska, but Mr. Prindle's a forest reserve was worth 53 to $5 an acre for exchange purposes. If the land was bought from the state fraudulently law was repealed. The new law says the introduction of improved methods the state might have lost the amount of the advance in value, but the Government could not have lost anything by the while it will probably be recognized as good returns. It is too soon to predict the state might have lost the amount of exchange to make in any event. Now, however, that the Marion County grand jury has investigated the sales by the state, and it seems probable that some of the purchasers will be indicted for the unlawful means adopted to secure title to the land, the land-grabbers are beginning to squirm more than ever be-Should the Federal Court decide that prosecution in the Federal tribunal cannot be continued, because there was o fraud against the Government, there will still be pending the charge of fraud against the state, and to all appearances the purchasers will be caught "either
