DISPLAY AT FAIR

Easter Gowns Make a Brave Showing There.

CROWDS THRONG WALKS

Surprise Evinced at the Rapid Progress Which Is Being Made Towards Completion of the Exposition.

All Portland which did not attend the ball game yesterday seemed to have assembled at the Fair grounds. It was a brave Easter display. It seemed to be symphony of color with the stately hite buildings for a background white buildings for a background Ladies in brown silk taffets and russet shoes, ladies gowned in green, or in blue, formed a beautiful kaleidoscopic scene as they moved about in the

The procession was a pleasant thing to see and lasted all the long, warm afternoon it denoted prosperity and generosity on the part of husbands and fathers and a laudable desire to be well dressed on the part of wives and

They did not seem to have much purpose, these Easter promenaders, unless t were to be observed. The men were for the most part out in light Spring clothes, except a strong delegation of the top-hat, frock-coat class. These persons gave the procession quite a m politan effect, but they looked rather arm in their nigh, straight collars, Most were sufficiently unconscious to have at least one thought, and that was surprise at the rapidity with which the Fair as a whole is being completed. They found twice as much Trail tacre as a week ago, everything else looked about completed, and inside the exhibit buildings displays were beginning to assume artistic proportions. The rush was plainly on for the finishing touches especially along the Trail, and, though it was partially delayed for a day, the very boards looked as if they were lying ready at a moment's notice to be hammered and sawed and become shel-ters behind which the denizens of the world might gather according to race and color and amuse the idle spectator.

Prisoner Dies of Alcoholism.

William Henry, about 55 years of age. who had been held at the police station for several days on the charge of vagrancy, died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at St. Vincent's Hospital where he had been taken a few minutes before. It is thought his death was due to alcoholism, as for years he had been addicted to

Henry was arrested early Priday morning, and following his imprisonment at the City Jall he was attacked with the delirium tremens. At first it was not thought that his case was serious. Yesterday morning, Dr. Zan, who had been attending him, ordered that Henry be taken to the hespital. He died a few minutes later while in convulsions.
