WANT EAST ALDER STREET CLEARER.—Property owners on East Alder street have asked the city authorities to have the lumber removed between East seventh and eighth streets where the elevated roadway is now being employed by the adjacent factory as a lumber yard. It has been so used for many months. It is said that the owners of this lumber were instructed to remove it inside of three days at the first of April. The lumber is still in the street. V. C. Dunning, a property owner on East Alder street, said that a petition went to the Council some time ago asking for the improvement of East Alder street and it was acted favorably upon, but it had been pigeon-holed when it reached the Executive Board, where it has since remained out of sight.

WANT BURNSIDE BRIDGE OPENED.—Yesterday a petition was circulated among the business men on East Burnside street and Union avenue asking the County Court to have the contractors repair and open one side of Burnside bridge at a time, so it may be used as soon as possible. It appears that it may be some time before the repairs can be completed and the bridge thrown open to the public, and it is thought that the contractors making the repairs can expedite matters and at least repair one side. When the contract was let it was understood that this would be done, but it seems not. A large force began work on Burnside the east end approach yesterday morning. If pedestrians were allowed to cross the bridge it would be a great convenience.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE COUNTRY.—In the Columbia Slough district several new dwellings have been erected. Contractor John Brown is completing a house on Fred Hamilton on the Slough road, which will cost $3000. Fred Miller, William Taggart and George Zimmerman have all erected handsome dwellings. School District No. 3 will put up a fine schoolhouse this year. The spirit of improvement is found all through this district.

CONGREGATIONALISTS TO MEET.—The annual meeting of the Portland Congregational Association will be held this evening at 7 o'clock. A moderator will be appointed and committees will be appointed. Rev. George A. Taggart will deliver an address and Rev. A. M. Rockwood will deliver a sermon, followed by communion. Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the session of the association will open, and close in the evening.

SACRAMENTO JUDGMENT.—R. P. Tiffany obtained judgment in Justice Waldemar Beton's court yesterday against Charles and Amanda Olsen for possession of certain goods and $5 damages. Tiffany held a mortgage on the goods. He asked for the goods and $50 damages, but the jury considered $5 sufficient compensation.

P. O. ELKS.—The members of Portland lodge and visiting members, with their ladies, are earnestly requested to meet in our lodge room in the Marquam Building this evening 8 o'clock. They are to attend the county fair at the Army in a body. Automobiles will be provided for the ladies. By order of the lodge, John B. Coffey, secretary.

SUPPER FRACAS.—Last night, as Jesse Hobson stopped off the west end of the Morrison-street bridge late yesterday afternoon he was knocked down by a bicyclist ridden by a boy and suffered a fracture of an ankle.

FOR RENT.—The fine brick warehouse on the corner of Front and Vaughn streets, formerly occupied by the Oregon Sash & Door Co., on railroad, 50x200. Apply to F. E. Beach, corner First and Alder streets.

WANTED.—To buy at Seaside, overlooking the ocean, a modern two-story, seven or eight-room house; fireplace, cellar, south and west porches and ample grounds. J. I. Oregonian.

All citizens interested in the nomination and election of Henry S. Rowe for Mayor are invited to Alhambra Hall, corner Third and Morrison, Tuesday evening, April 25, at 8 o'clock.

FRANCIS H. LEGGOTT sails this evening for San Francisco direct. Cabin, $12; steerage, $5. Meals and berth included. C. H. Thompson, agent, 128 Third street.

STEAMER SOUTH BAY sails this evening for San Francisco; cabin, $12; steerage, $5; meals and berth included. C. H. Thompson, agent, 128 Third street.

I never fully realized how easy it is to amuse the dear public until I sat through a portion of the performance at the Marquam last night and witnessed the mirth of a reasonably large and reasonably intelligent audience.

New Vaudeville Bills.

Baker.
What would you think of boys going at headlong speed down a toboggan chute and then ascending the latter at the same rate with which they descended? That is what is pictured by the films at the Baker, and the views of the snowy scene are worth a special visit, also the pictures of President Roosevelt and the small people called the Lilliput make the bill of the show. Two of them do a wire act very cleverly, and juggling and ring acts follow, also songs and jokes. In several rounds of applause, William Schoenes, billed as the Roman jester, deserves all the good things said of him. The two Italian comedians, in art and nonsense, give a musical act, the man playing violin selections which please. He is a better violinist than a singer. Marriage comedies are amusingly illustrated by Byron and Blanche, the latter acting a shrew and the former a husband who gets "loaded." Russell and Dunbar, in blackface, have an amusing comedy, and Jean Wilson sings a patriotic ballad.

Grand.
One of the best series of pictures this season are those shown at the Grand in illustrating the life of a New York policeman. The march of the police squad, the policeman who loves a cook, the rooster fight, raid and sensational arrest, are all shown. The two Fredericks present a most enjoyable playlet, "Her Cowboy Visitor," in which a young woman who talks at the rate of 20 words per minute, and without a breath, suddenly receives a call from a Western cowboy with revolver, whip, broad-brimmed hat, blue wool shirt, "chaps" and a few other odds and ends. There is a lively mix-up, and an amusing scene follows. The scene is a comedy, and the two Fredericks present a most enjoyable playlet, "Her Cowboy Visitor," in which a young woman who talks at the rate of 20 words per minute, and without a breath, suddenly receives a call from a Western cowboy with revolver, whip, broad-brimmed hat, blue wool shirt, "chaps" and a few other odds and ends.

Star.
There is what is popularly called "an embarrassment of good things" at the Star with Professor Dunbar and his six educated goats. Daisy Harcourt, one of the most charming and talented comedienne that ever trod any stage; the pictures by the stereoscope of the seven ages of man, and other features, in the line of gymnastics, up to now, goats have been supposed to excel in butting, but here is Professor Dunbar, who has trained goats that understand English; "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin" and "Hundred husbands" but, perhaps, there aren't any in Portland—ought to see Lyndon and Wren in a new-woman sketch, where a shrew is tamed. Leon and Bertie A. are singers and comedians; the Maple Leaf Trio, in comedy act, and Murray and Andrews, a sketch team, complete the bill.

FAREWELL AT COLUMBIA

Next Saturday Night to Positively Close the Great Stock Season.

With the remaining performances (until and including Saturday) night the Columbia stock company closes a season of nearly 35 weeks of stock performances, and it is with genuine regret thousands of Portland theatergoers see its doors close for an indefinite period. There have been many loyal constituents there is no doubt, but the loyal were too few in number to make the enterprise financially successful. This company, as a closing bill the company is presenting that funny three-act farce comedy "Pink Dominoes," that a terrific farewell will be brushed with a flourish. "Pink Dominoes" is one of those comedies which, with its wholesome humor, immediately advertises itself as a play not to be missed. It relies solely on straight comedy for its "foolishness," and when entrusted to such capable and talented company as the Columbia there is no doubt in Portland theatergoers' minds that there is a goodly portion of laughs coming for such efforts. And so it is at every performance of this farce comedy, "Pink Dominoes." Strange in name and with a strangeness for its unusual brightness, it makes the two oddities quite in harmony with each other. "What's in a name?" comes nicely for application to this week's entertainment—goats and find out, and laugh at the thousand and one things that bring you to your conclusion.

From the cold, shivering Winter to the warm glow of Summer, from pastoral scenes, giving the very breath of peacefulness and quiet to stirring pictures of action which make the blood bubble and create the wish to do things, from babyland to the evening of life, all these things and more are contained on the 300 sheets of sensitized paper collected from the best work of more than 2000 artists of the camera were brought here and placed on exhibition yesterday by the Portland Society of Photographic Art.

City Offenders Before Municipal Judge Hogue.
"I do not know whether there is a law that applies to this kind of a case, but those people are running a 'graft' game up there, and if they cannot be punished, it's a shame."
Such was the statement of Deputy District Attorney Bert Haney, in the Municipal Court yesterday, when Claud Quivy was arraigned before Judge Hogue on a charge of larceny. The defendant is an alleged artist, and is the man who advertised for women to make $10 a week by easy work at home. Many women claim they were lured out of their money by Quivy. He has rooms in the Commercial. There were several women in court when the case was called. They were there to testify against Quivy, if needed. The case was finally postponed until tomorrow morning.

Social Events of Easter Monday

THE Hobart-Curtis parlors have been the scene of many pleasant social affairs, but it is quite certain that a more delightful event never took place there than this year's Easter Monday tea of the Old Ladies' Home Society. Mrs. P. J. Mann, president of the society, and Miss Edith Nicholson, vice-president, received the guests. Mrs. Mann wearing handsome white satin brocade and lace, and Miss Nicholson lilac brocade. They were assisted in the entertainment by a score or more of their friends, some of these presiding at the various tables, and others contributing musical numbers, and the music was very charming.

ADULTERATED CREAM.
