President Has Great Sport in the Mountains.

BEARSTEAK REGULAR FARE

Camped in High Altitude Amid Deep Snow, Roosevelt Finds More Game Than He Can Kill, but Misses Papers.

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., April 25.—President Roosevelt's hunting trip has been crowned with success far beyond his expectations...

The party is almost snowbound in its present location, and no attempt will be made to cross the divide...

The bear killed yesterday by the President was of the brown variety, not so heavy, but furnishing a much finer pelt than the first animal killed.

All Within Small Area. It was within an area of seven miles that all of the five bears were killed.

Secretary Loeb will go to the camp tomorrow, accompanied by Courier Chapman, and will remain overnight with the President.

President Roosevelt is living in a cabin on the abandoned Burn homestead on the West Divide Creek. Quarters there are remarkably comfortable...

Gets Hungry for News. News of the outside world is scarce in the President's camp. Once in every four or five days daily papers are sent in...

The absence of information of current events is greatly felt, particularly by the President, said Mr. Stewart tonight.

E. J. Tuttle, of the Union Pacific, and D. H. Hoopes, of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, will arrive tonight to confer with Mr. Loeb concerning arrangements for the return trip to Washington.

RUN ON BANKS IS STOPPED

Assurances of Solvency and Acts of Confidence Calm the People.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 25.—Confidence has again been restored in the banking institutions of Milwaukee and the run on the First National Bank and the Milwaukee Trust Company, which was caused by the default of Frank G. Riggin, until Monday president of the bank, is a thing of the past...

While the two banks affected are entirely separate institutions, the fact that they occupy adjoining buildings and that some of the First National's officers direct the affairs of the Milwaukee Trust Company caused many of the depositors to believe that one was a part of the other.

Before the hour for opening the banks had arrived, a meeting of the Milwaukee Clearing House Association was held and a committee of that institution, after examining the assets and collateral of the First National Bank, issued a reassuring report, as follows:

The Milwaukee Clearing House Association, after examining carefully all the assets and collateral of the First National Bank of Milwaukee, reports as a result of such examination that they are satisfied that the said bank is perfectly solvent and able to pay its debts.

This report was printed in large type on placards and pasted on the windows of the First National Bank and also displayed in store windows on Wisconsin and East Water streets.

The board of directors of the First National Bank announces with absolute positiveness that the bank is perfectly solvent and able to pay every dollar of its indebtedness.

The clearing-house committee confirms this statement. We have money on hand which to stand any run that may be made. Only small deposits are withdrawing. All banks in the city are taking advantage of the law on time deposits. The First National is safe.

And on top of this came word from the board of directors of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce, announcing its decision not to withdraw its current expense fund from the First National. All of these statements had a reassuring effect on depositors as to the stability of the banks.

Banks Cope With the Run.

The banks affected were well able to cope with a long run, but it was decided by all of the banks in the city to take advantage of the law on time deposits, requiring a notice of 30 days of withdrawal on amounts less than $100 and 90 days where the amounts exceeded that sum.

As rapidly as the depositors appeared at the windows of the savings departments of the affected institution, their pass books were stamped, acknowledging the notice of withdrawal, and the depositors took their departure. It required only about two hours to dispose of the line of depositors.

Early in the day crowds of men and women in all walks of life gathered in line two and four abreast, took up positions in front of the two big banking institutions and awaited the opening of the strong doors at 10 o'clock. The line extended about half a square on East Water and Wisconsin streets from the main entrance of each institution. The crowd was orderly and gave no trouble to the police.

One of the most spectacular happenings of the day was the action of Mayor Ross in walking down Wisconsin street in full view of the crowd with $500,000 in currency and gold in canvas bags. He was surrounded by policemen and detectives walked into the bank with the treasure.

This money was part of the shipment from Chicago banks and some from other Milwaukee banks.

Cashier Frank J. Klip is authority for the statement that much more than $2,000,000 was received during the day by the bank. At noon the street assumed its normal appearance and the run was over. The First National Bank is depositor for Government departments in Milwaukee, the funds including those of the Internal revenue office and of the office in the Department of Justice. None will be withdrawn.

Indictment of Bigelow in May.

According to the Federal provision a prisoner cannot plead guilty until he is indicted by the grand jury. Mr. Bigelow therefore will not appear in court until the grand jury has considered his case.

Assistant District Attorney Henry H. Hennings says that in all probability only one indictment can be returned, but that there may be a number of counts in separate instances. The grand jury is called by the United States District Judge. While the date has not been set, it is understood that it will be about the middle of May.

Up to a late hour no trace had been found of Henry G. Goll, the deposed assistant cashier of the First National Bank. State funds amounting to nearly $500,000 will be withdrawn from the First National Bank. The conclusion was reached after a conference between state officials and local bankers today. The state officials, it is said, were given a complete statement regarding the finances of the bank.

FATAL REVOLVER IN COURT

It Divides Honors With Skeleton as Means of Illustrating How the Fatal Shot Was Fired and Where It Went.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Perhaps the most interesting development in the testimony of today in the trial of Nan Patterson for the murder of Caesar Young was the testimony of Dr. O'Hanlon.

Dr. O'Hanlon testified that he had changed his opinion that Young had committed suicide. Dr. O'Hanlon performed the autopsy on Young's body. In his testimony today he said:

"My present opinion is not the opinion I formerly expressed to Coroner Brown. He did not know of the relations of Young and the defendant at the time the report was made, he said. In reply to Mr. Levy, however, he admitted that he had expressed the opinion that it was a case of suicide, even after he had heard the facts of the relations between Miss Patterson and Young. He said that he was influenced in his first decision that Young committed suicide by black spots on the inside of the dead man's fingers, which he believed to be powder stains. This testimony came at the close of the day's proceedings in the trial.

Nan Patterson apparently had fully recovered from her indisposition of yesterday when she appeared in court today. There was a trace of color in her cheeks, and she seemed to be in excellent spirits when she entered the courtroom and took a seat at the counsel table. The plain black suit which she had worn during this and previous trials had been discarded, and in its place she wore a black and white checked dress and a round lace hat, with white lining.

Revolver's History Traced.

The revolver with which it is alleged Young was killed, and which, it is believed, will figure prominently in the prosecution, cannot plead guilty until he is indicted by the grand jury. Mr. Bigelow therefore will not appear in court until the grand jury has considered his case.

Assistant District Attorney Henry H. Hennings says that in all probability only one indictment can be returned, but that there may be a number of counts in separate instances. The grand jury is called by the United States District Judge. While the date has not been set, it is understood that it will be about the middle of May.

Kaneko Describes Effect of Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

NEW YORK, April 25.—At the dinner of the Society of St. George tonight Baron Kaneko, the Japanese diplomat, aroused enthusiasm among the diners by his response to the toast, "The Anglo-Japanese Alliance." He declared that he believed that the alliance, which has until 1907 to run, will be continued.

"The continuation of the alliance means the open-door for China, which was indicated by John Hay. Japan also wants the open door, and between the three nations, Japan, England and America, the dismemberment of China will be made impossible. It is the one factor that can preserve the peace of the world."
