From the time Jakey Atz winged a high one over first, so high that even big Mc-Lean would have needed a stepladder to pick it out of the sky, it was a foregone conclusion that the Portland bunch was destined to taste again the bitterness of defeat. There are times when such a feeling does not count, but when the Ore-gonians secure a nice lead of two tailles. in the opening paragraph, only to hand those selfsame runs back the next time the visitors are at bat, it lacks little of sing a certainty that victory is out of each. All of which is a preamble to the self-evident fact that the home team lost by a score of 7 to 5.

There were several occasions when little timety hitting might have started things, but to recount them in detail mould only be to force them upon an and Kling. aiready long-suffering fandom. Hits were lacking when they counted most, and whether in front or behind, those Tigers have the confident air of a team that cannot possibly lose. It is true that toward the close there was an opportunity to do some talking and shouting, but it hardly lasted long enough to strain the vocal chords of the 1500 ladies who

Game Opened Auspiciously.

It was a game that opened most ausp run and a bad throw by Graham to third gave the Portland centerfielder a chance to make the round of the bases. But Portland joy was short-lived. It came to an abrupt close in the second inning. Eagan hit down to Ats, who threw high over first, Casey boosted his team-mate along a base as he went out, Lynch was hit and McLaughlin's hit that dropped not over second did the business. In the fourth each team made a run end it was in this inning that the boys had their best chance of breaking up the game and falled woefully. They had one run and two men on bases, with not a soul retired. Essick and Murphy struck cut. Atz was walked and Van Buren hit a dinky one down to short that retired

Giants Lost Heart.

There were runs made after that. The Tigers collected three in the sixth, but the pygmies had lost heart. The score at the end was predicted by the early stages of the contest. PORTLAND.

hotly contested game of the local season was played here today, the issue ex-tending over five extra junings before Cakland made the deciding run. San Francisco took the lead in the second in-ning, and Oakland tied the score in the sixth. The score stood 3 to 3 at the end nit, a sacrifice and Van Haltrens long drive ended the struggle. It was a bril-liantly played game, the star fielding work being performed by Gochhauer. Hit Young's delivery was responsible for the home team's defeat today by Boston struck out 11 men, and did not give a single pass. Score:
