

SEE IRRIGATED UMATILLA LANDS

Manager Worthington's Guests Dress for Long Drive in the Country.

GOVERNOR IN OVERALLS

Projects for the Reclamation of the Soil Are Examined at First Hand, and Valuable Information Is Secured.

ECHO, Or., May 7.—(Staff correspondent.)—Today was the time the chief men of the state played, when they got as near the primal state of man and as close to the garb, the habits and the daily life of their constituents, the common people, as was possible.

Imagine, if you can, the Governor of Oregon clad in an old pair of striped, greasy overalls, one time blue, but long since having gathered to themselves the hue of the alkali soil of Umatilla. If you can paint the picture, place him in a rambling Eastern Oregon hack behind a pair of half-wild range horses, and envelope him in a haze of dust so thick that the smoke of his cigar was lost almost before it left his lip.

Showed out a space in the hovering cloud and add to the picture the dimly seen form of Senator Fulton, robed in a new and unadorned pair of starchy blue engineer's pants, a blue jumper to match and a khaki hat fringed with a band of the Sunday closing law of the land, which, however, is not operative in Echo. Do this and you will have an image of the back seat of the picture.

Duster for Mr. Worthington. In the front of the hack it would be proper to place the general manager of the Harrison lines in Oregon, Mr. Worthington, garbed becomingly in a long duster, borrowed from some loyal citizen of Echo, while upon his head was a hat to match those of the Governor and the Senator.

W. W. Cotton wore the uniform of his dairy ranch and rode a raw-boned horse in company with the two cowboys, the secretary to Mr. Worthington, W. W. Griswold, and a pack of five greyhounds, taken along to catch the chance coyote for the pleasure of the guests.

It was an interesting cavalcade, and would long over the hills and through the dust before the Umatilla County ranch in which Mr. Cotton has an interest was reached and the party stopped for lunch and rest. Before anything was admitted the feast was spread and the explorers ate, and smoked under the trees.

Hearts Are Very Glad. The ride had not dimmed the ardor of any one except Mr. Cotton, who claimed to have exchanged bones with his horses. He therefore sat in dignity in an soft, a chair as possible, while the Governor, Senator Fulton, Mr. Worthington and Tom Richardson looked at the trees, called to the pigs, and in the gladness of their hearts vaulted over the barnyard fence in that good old game of "follow the leader."

While the host brought out the teams, the Governor, the Senator and Mr. Worthington did a little broad-jumping, in which exercise Mr. Fulton excelled, with the aid of practically the only two pebbles to be found in the county.

Fine Ranch on Butter Creek. On the return the party visited the head of the Maxwell ditch, one of the newest and largest open ditch systems in operation in Eastern Oregon, spent a few minutes at the home of O. F. Thompson, one of the pioneers of the section and the owner of perhaps the finest irrigated farm and orchard of Butter Creek, and examined other irrigation projects either in operation or under course of construction.

Several coyotes were started from cover but could not be caught by the dogs, and the party had to end its trip without the sight of blood.

Not to cheat the visitors out of all the advantages of Eastern Oregon life, apparently, a violent dust storm compelled the sightseers to make a forced drive for the stables at Echo and the special cars, in which ride Mr. Cotton was the best warrior of the party, brought up the rear and covered the retreat. Arriving at Echo, the two cars occupied by Mr. Worthington and his guests were attached to a Heppner special train waiting in the yards, and were taken to Umatilla out of the storm, where they were to be picked up by Train No. 3 and brought to Portland.

Have-Seen and Know. All of the gentlemen of the party were much pleased with the trip of the past two days, during which many things were shown them of the progress and development of the Umatilla district not heretofore believed. They return to Portland with pleasant memories of the visit and all inclination and desire to assist in every manner possible the work of development and upbuilding, now being exploited by the people of the district visited.

From the experience they have learned more than they appreciated before of the possibilities of irrigation, and are all determined to assist the irrigators of Oregon to the fullest measure possible.

VESSELS IN COLLISION.

Southwest Gale Causes Havoc in San Francisco Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—A stiff gale from the southeast caused damage to several vessels in the upper bay today. The torpedo-boat destroyer, Paul Jones, at anchor off Stewart street, dragged her anchors and collided with the cruiser Marblehead, staying in a plate of the Paul Jones and ruining one of her life-boats.

The schooner Ruby, although she had two anchors out, was carried by the gale down the bay from her position off Harrison street, and it was necessary for the Marblehead to shift her anchorage to avoid being struck by the schooner. The big cutter, Eureka, lying on the north side of Folsom-street wharf, parted her stern lines and was carried by the high sea against the tugboat General Milfin. The Milfin was damaged to the extent of perhaps $500. The story of the Eureka was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars.

The river steamer Alvia, at Harrison-street wharf, was buffeted about by the rough seas and in her lurching lost her smokestack, besides smashing her fantail and the guard rail from stem to stern, the damage amounting to about $100.

KILLED HIS RANCHER HOST

Malcolm Found Guilty of Murder in Montana.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 7.—A special to the Tribune from All Havarty's pen, says that the jury in the Malcolm murder case returned a verdict this morning of murder in the second degree. The jury had been out all night, and in the first ballot several of the jurors voted for murder in the first degree. Malcolm was accused of killing a rancher at whose house he was staying for the night. There were no witnesses present, but the circumstantial evidence was strong, and Malcolm admitted the killing after being in jail for a time. He alleged self-defense, but the defense rested its case mainly on the contention that the murderer was of weak mind.

The verdict gives satisfaction, as the feeling in the locality where the murder took place contended that whether sane or insane, Malcolm was not a safe man to be at large.

Gave Liquor to a Boy.

CORVALLIS, Or., May 7.—(Special.)—Tabatha Newton and Al Havarty's pen, $10 fines each into the justice court at Philomath yesterday for violation of the local option law. Their offense was the giving of liquor to a boy named Custer. The prosecution was by Deputy District Attorney Bryson. Both men pleaded guilty. James McLean was a joint defendant with them, but he got out of the state in time to elude the officers. The prosecution is the first under the local option law, but reports are current that it is to be followed by others.

Accident to the Samson.

ASTORIA, Or., May 7.—(Special.)—As the tug Samson was towing a rock barge up the river last evening one of the bits on the steamer carried away, and as the cable swung around it smashed in the afterpart of the house. Fortunately the cable parted or greater damage would have resulted. The Samson is still in service and repairs will be made as she is running.

Toledo Meets Head Winds.

ASTORIA, Or., May 7.—(Special.)—The steamer Toledo arrived in this morning from San Francisco, after an exceptionally slow trip. Head winds were encountered all the way up the coast and the steamer was compelled to put into Coos Bay for fuel. She also stopped at Chasco Bay for several hours. The Toledo left up the river this afternoon.

REFUSES BIG SUM

Nan Patterson Would Not Sign Vaudeville Contract.

OFFERED $1500 A WEEK

Lawyer Goes to the Tombs Ready to Guarantee ex-Florodora Girl an Engagement for Thirty Weeks on the Stage.

NEW YORK, May 7.—(Special.)—A lawyer was introduced to Nan Patterson in the Tombs today by her lawyer, Daniel O'Reilly.

"Miss Patterson," said this caller, "I have a client who stands ready to deposit $1500 in cash as a guarantee to fulfill a three-week contract to put you into vaudeville in a new sketch. He will hand you $1000 advance and start you on the salary of $1500 a week in three weeks. I'll sign the papers now—this minute."

"The girl clutched at the bars of the prison door and held on tight, as if she were afraid of falling. 'Not! It's hard to believe you,' said she. 'You sort of stunned me at first. I am through with the stage. I've seen enough of it. A friend sent his card today. On it was written: 'I knew you when you were a baby, and I wish to see you again.' 'Maybe that has something to do with my determination not to go on the stage—maybe not; but I was so glad someone remembered me as a baby. I was so glad that I wouldn't, couldn't let that man see me as I am.

"I don't want all that money. I'm not going to sign any contracts. I'm going home to my mother and begin all over again, be a baby, for just as long as I can."

"Forty-five thousand dollars is a lot of money," suggested the lawyer for the theatrical firm.

"Not enough to buy what I want," she answered. "I want to go home and see my mother. I'm not going to sign any contracts."

Try for Nan Patterson's Release.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Counsel for Nan Patterson tomorrow will renew their efforts to have the girl admitted to bail. District Attorney Jerome, who has been absent from the city since the third trial of Miss Patterson, is expected to be at his office tomorrow and will be asked to take the case up immediately.

If the District Attorney will not agree to the release of the young woman on her own recognizance, he will be asked to fix the amount of bail at a nominal sum. Failing to obtain a compliance with the request for bail, the attorneys say they will make application to the court for a writ of habeas corpus.

Miss Patterson is bright and cheerful and expressed her belief that this would be her last Sunday in the Tombs.

It is understood that the bondman whom Miss Patterson's lawyers have announced is ready to act as surety for her in any reasonable amount in Edward J. Sparenberg, a retired pawnbroker of this city. Mr. Sparenberg is an intimate friend of one of the Patterson girls' attorneys.

In this way his interest was aroused in her case.

MADE TWENTY-DOLLAR BILLS

Counterfeiters Caught After Chase From Coast to Coast.

FORTSMOUTH, Va., May 7.—After a vigorous chase through several Atlantic Coast cities, Secret Service Officer T. E. Land, of Boston, today arrested Thomas Brewster, Charles Parbanks and Robert Black, all of San Francisco, charged with extensive counterfeiting operations. The trio were located at Key West, Fla., but they succeeded in eluding arrest until they reached here.

It is said that large quantities of bogus money have been circulated in all the cities through which the men passed. Together with the prisoners the secret service officer captured $500 in counterfeit money, most of which is in the denomination of $20 bills.

Officer Land said today that he discovered that a large number of spurious bills were made at Buffalo, N. Y., which was the distributing point of the gang that was operating.

MOTHER IDENTIFIES THE BODY

Marks on Bessie Bouton's Body Are Convincing.

COLORADO SPRING, Colo., May 7.—Mrs. Meda Kemper, wife of Richard Kemper, of Syracuse, N. Y., has identified

We have not forgotten the man with the small income.

We have not overlooked the ambitious young men and women with limited means, who are struggling for a musical education.

We have not disregarded the families of refined tastes but limited means that hunger for music.

We do not carry this immense variety of over 30 makes of high-grade pianos merely for display.

We know that one of the most effective ways of building up a piano trade is to stimulate musical interest and make it universal, and our aim is to make it possible for every home to possess a good piano, as it properly should.

People who can afford to pay $600, $800, $1000, and as much more as they please for a piano, can get a finer piano for the price here than anywhere else.

The same is true of all who purchase small-priced pianos. We are prepared to suit you in price as well as quality. Every piano we carry, from the Chickering, Weber and Kimball, to the smallest-priced one, is the very best obtainable for the price, far better than the same amount can buy anywhere else.

Remember, our policy is quick sales, many of them and small profits, and that handling pianos in immense quantities to supply seven of the leading stores in the Northwest, we are in position to save much in cost.

Every instrument fully guaranteed and money back, should purchase fail in any way to prove exactly as represented. Eilers Piano House, 351 Washington Street, corner Park.

the remains of the Cutler Mountain victim as that of her daughter, Mrs. Bessie Bouton, and has left with the remains for New York. The identification was made completely by the dental work upon the teeth and by a scar upon the right side of the left forefinger, as well as by the hair.

The mother charged that Milton Franklin Andrews attempted to murder the woman while on the Pacific Coast, and this convinces the police that when they capture Andrews they will be able to establish a murder charge against him.

The body of Bessie Bouton was found on Cutler Mountain, south of this city, on the afternoon of December 17, 1904, by Dr. Chamberlain and a party of friends. Death was caused by a .32-caliber bullet being fired into the head. Every article of clothing was removed by the murderer and the body placed across the stump of a tree, face downward. In the effort to prevent recognition of the body, the murderer poured gasoline upon the body and built a fire under the face. But the extensive dental work upon the teeth was not destroyed, and it was this work which has led to the identification of the victim.

Reward for Pat Crowe.

OMAHA, May 7.—Chief of Police Donohue today personally offered a reward of $200 for the capture of Pat Crowe, wanted in connection with the Cuddeby kidnaping. Although the hunt for Crowe has been kept up continuously since Saturday morning, no clew to his whereabouts has been obtained.

OPTION BILL TANGLED UP

Measure Dies With Adjournment of Illinois Legislature.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 7.—The General Assembly came to a close early this morning. The most sensational fight of the session occurred over the bill legalizing Board of Trade transactions, which came up for passage on the closing night in the House. The bill was killed during scenes of excitement seldom seen in an Illinois legislative hall.

Local option became hopelessly entangled in both Houses and finally was allowed to die on the calendar.

An "anti-loan shark" bill, declaring void all loans tainted with usury and all assignments of wages in which the assignment is not joined by the wife or husband, was passed.

Joint resolutions were adopted providing for the appointment of a commission to investigate the subject of old age pensions and report to the next Legislature, and for investigating the feasibility of a deep-water channel between the lake and the gulf.
