

BUCKETSHOPS KNOCKED OUT

Supreme Court Enjoins Them From Receiving Board of Trade Quotations.

DESTROYS THEIR BUSINESS

Fierce Warfare Waged for Five Years Ends in Victory for Board of Trade—Decision Will Close Thousand Shops.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Supreme Court of the United States today decided the two cases of the Board of Trade of Chicago against the C. C. Christie Commission, Company, of Kansas City, and the Kinsey Company, of Chicago, involving the question as to the right of the private concerns to use the continuous quotations of the board, in favor of the contents of the Board of Trade. There were two cases, the Board of Trade vs. the Christie Company, and the Kinsey Company against the Board of Trade, but both involved efforts to enjoin the private establishments from the use of the board's quotations. Both concerns requested the use of the designation of bucketshop, and it was charged that the transactions of the board are themselves of a nature to justify the characterization of the board as a bucketshop, a majority of them involving no physical transfer of the property supposed to be transferred.

Board of Trade Has Contract.

Summing up the points involved, Justice Holmes, in delivering the opinion of the court, related that the board supplies its quotations to the telegraph companies under a contract not to deliver them to bucketshops, and said the cases were instituted to prevent the use of the figures by private houses without contracts with the Board of Trade. He added that a majority of the court were not prepared to say that the transactions of the board constitute gambling and the decision was that the injunction should be granted as prayed for. Justices Harlan, Brewer and Day dissented.

In his opinion, Justice Holmes characterized the board as "a great market where, through its 1800 members, is transacted a large part of the grain and provision business of the world." Speaking of the dealing in futures, he said:

Dealing in Futures Legal.

"People will endeavor to forecast the future and to make agreements accordingly in their property. Speculation of this kind by competent men is the self-adjustment of society to the probable. Its value is well known as a means of avoiding or mitigating cases, equalizing prices and providing for periods of want. When the Chicago board was organized we cannot doubt that it was expected to afford a market for future as well as present sales, with the necessary incidents of such a market and, while the State of Illinois allows the charter to stand, we cannot believe that the pits, merely as places where future sales are made, are forbidden by law."

CLOSES ALL BUCKET-SHOPS

Decision Ends Crusade on Them Begun Five Years Ago.

CHICAGO, May 8.—(Special.)—The decision of the United States Supreme Court in the bucket-shop cases will result in the closing of more than 1000 grain bucket-shops, located mainly in Western cities. It also means a revenue of $40,000 a year to the Chicago Board of Trade for the sale of its quotations to the telegraph companies, which act as distributors to the concerns entitled to receive the quotations. Bucket-shops originated in Chicago about 25 years ago and spread rapidly until they became a national institution. In all that time there has been fierce warfare upon them by the Board here, with varying success, until the active and thorough crusade started in 1900, when W. S. Warren was elected president of the Board. James Hill, Jr., was put in charge of the campaign and empowered to employ his own legal talent. His work culminated in success in the Supreme Court today.

In former years the battle took on various phases. Injunctions were obtained, but the quotations continued to leak. Then the Board required the telegraph companies to pay a reasonable sum for the figures, but they refused, and for eight months no quotations were sent out. The bucket-shops continued to steal them after the Western Union Telegraph Company agreed to pay $30,000 a year for them, but this gave them a market value, making them a transferable piece of property and opening the way for the many suits—more than 100 in all—started against the bucket-shops. Ten years ago there were more than 100 grain bucket-shops in this city alone, but rigid and persistent criminal proceedings finally drove them out of business, though they simply transferred their operations to other cities.

Insurance Policies Are Exempt.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—In an opinion by Justice White, the Supreme Court of the United States today decided the case of Golden vs. Stratton in favor of the former. The case involved the question as to whether insurance policies are exempt from the operation of the bankruptcy law and the court held that they are so in states where the laws make them exempt. The hidden case arose in the State of Washington.

Mrs. Maybrick Not Fully Pardoned.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Ambassador "Shells" has called the State Department that the British Foreign office has refused to grant any further clemency to Mrs. Florence Maybrick, who recently made application through the State Department for a complete pardon. It appears that Mrs. Maybrick was not granted a complete pardon, but was released from imprisonment upon certain conditions and she is still technically under sentence.

Grand Salons—Second Floor.

Women's New $22.50 and $25.00 Covert Coats $12.50

The buyer of a certain store, located within a half-mile of this headquarters of style and quality, remarked to a New York manufacturer of garments during a recent trip East that "He wasn't going to be particular this year about the 'inside' of the garments he bought so long as they 'looked well' on the outside—so many visitors, you know, never expect to see 'em again—and the home trade! Oh! they wouldn't mind being 'fooled' once." This conservative, dependable old store isn't going to do business that way. We're going to treat visitors and home-folk alike, in the same old way—only the best goods—and best all the way thro. We're not going in on any of the get-rich-quick schemes of the "graters" who don't care what visitors say of Portland and her merchants after they get home. We're going to do a lot of business this year on a smaller than ever margin of profit and add a lot of REPUTATION to that already attained by this DEPENDABLE house. Women folk who buy garments of us this year will get the greatest bargains of their life—and QUALITY will be sewed in thro' and thro' with the silken thread of STYLE. Bargains told of below, and every value offered this year is selected from our own superb stocks, nothing bought for a "Sale." The losses are all our own or the manufacturer's. Principle is never: lost sight of in this business.
