ENGINEERS SEEK PROJECT

State Work Under Carey Act Not an Obstacle—State Land Commissioner Urges Construction of Palouse Scheme.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, May 18.—State Land Commissioner Ross, of Washington, had a conference today with Chief Engineer Newell, of the Reclamation Service, discussing irrigation projects in Eastern Washington.

Only recently Government engineers had stated that if the state perfected its selection of Yakima Valley land no Federal irrigation project would be built in that vicinity.

After the conference today Mr. Ross expressed the opinion that the Government could, and should, build the Palouse project. The fact that the underlying earth and rock in the principal reservoir site is porous need not, in his opinion, prevent construction.

LAI D WASTE BY HURRICANE

Islands of South Pacific Lost Cocoanuts, Boats and Lives.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

TAHITI, Society Islands, May 6.—(via San Francisco, May 15.)—The maroon details carried by the steamer Margosa, of the destructive hurricane which swept through French Oceania from March 22 to March 25, gave little information of the havoc wrought.

It is now well known that the northern half of the Tuamotu Archipelago suffered the worst. The wind blew 30 miles an hour and the sea swept all the islands, destroying many villages and one-half of the coconut trees.

Prof. Wagner's prognostications about hurricanes at this season in this island have been fully verified. Only the caution of the people in seeking places of shelter prevented a disaster similar to that of two years ago at Hikura, when 600 persons perished.

Lavinia Chapman, a hotelkeeper, has been recommended to the President of France for the distinction of a medal in commemoration of her heroism in rescuing a woman drowning in Papete Harbor.
