PROHIS OUT FOR STRAIGHT TICKET

Coaxing of Democrats Has No Effect on Cold Water Forces.

Reminds Managers of Citizens' Movement of Certain Facts Which Are Not to His Liking and Comments Thereon

Prohibitionists have five nominees on he citizens' ticket and are told they ought to vote that ticket entire if they expect the reform forces to vote for the five Prohibitionists.

But the Proble bravely declare they will vote their own ticket straight, and if five of their nominees were indorsed by the citizens' convention, that was simply because the five were too good to be passed over. Therefore the Probis credit their citizen brethren with nothing more than good borse sense in taking up with the "dry" brethren.

But the citizen brethren reply that much as "dry" prophets like I. H. Amos, F. McKercher and B. Lee Paget call to the anti-booze flock to vote the cold-water ticket straight, the flock will not obey, and that many of the rum foes will join the citizen camp on election day. will vote their own ticket straight, and if None of them will be cast for Williams; that is manifest, though the chairman of the party in Oregon, I. H. Amon, declares he would rather vote for Williams than for Lane. iams people are highly pleased over the promise of the Prohis staying out of the Lane camp, and think the brave stand of the cold-water brethren is proper.

In the eyes of a backboned Prohi, the Republican and the Democratic parties are an equal abomination, because hoth stand for the licensing of the liquor traffic. Therefore, they look on Williams and Lane both as tarred with the same click and as unworthy of their votes. Their own nominee for Mayor, B. Lee Paget, they offer as the only candidate lit to run on a reform platform.

fit to run on a reform platform.

That Candidate Paget will stay in the race is settled, and this means Lane will receive the Probl vote; at least no Mr. Paget said yesterday that ne had not been asked to withdraw had no intention of pulling out.

Probis Are Indignant.

Prohis are sore because those who they call the "slatemakers" of the citi-zens convention would not allow the indorsement of the "dry" candidate for Tenth Ward Councilman, D. B. Morgan, and took up W. T. Vaughn, Democratic nominee, a man whom Mr. McKercher yesterday called "no good"; again, because the statemakers "hypnotized" H. W. Stone Fourth Ward cold-water nominee for Councilman, into withdrawing from that nomination and accepting the citizens nomination for Council.at.l.arge citizens' nomination for Council-at-Large thereby stealing Stone from the Problem and leaving them without a Moses in the Fourth Ward, and because Dr. Lepe said he didn't want the Prohibition or indorsement even if he

The split off et in divorce with some reluctance, megment indersed the Democratic candidate. It the indersed the Democratic candidate in the configuration of the divorce with some reluctance. Democrats schemed for it. The split off eggment indersed the Democratic candidate. In the indorsing convention there was a state, but it was smashed in several places. Two or three got on who weren't expected. One of them was R. R. Steele, Frohibitionist, for Councilman-at-Large. The state had only one Frohi, H. W. Stone: he was nominated by a hig vote and the slatemakers trusted to his great popularity to carry through the whole state. But his popularity gave another Prohi."

Whereat Mr. Amos lamented that the slatemakers had taken Mr. Stone from the Fourth Ward, where he was to run as ward Councilman, and had put him up for Councilman, and had put him up for Councilman, at Large. This was done last Sunday, chiefly by E. S. J. Mc-Allister, attorney for the Anti-Saloon League, and Prohis knew nothing of it. Mr. Stone was "coaxed and hammered," Mr. Amos said, until he gave in.

Oscar Vanderbilt Ordered to Pay Large Sum for Diamonds.

A verdict for $725 in favor of Aimee Austin, a show girl, against Oscar Vanderblit, was returned by a jury in Judge George's court yesterday. Miss Austin. in October, 1992, in Los Angeles, desired to borrow money, and gave her diamonds to Vanderbill, who was a friend, to procure a loan for her. He kept the stones himself and gave her $139 and subsequently sent $59 to her to San Francisco. The following September Vanderbilt sold the diamonds, so he testified, for $35, and offered Miss Austin $55, which was the balance after deducting the $250 which he lent her. She refused to accept, asserting mon-partisan ticket.

Argument in Reed Will Case.

Arguments were made before Judge Webster resterday in the Amanda W. Reed will contest case. Joseph Simon, in support of the will, consumed most of tase day in a speech, in which he endeavored to convince the court that Mrs. Reed never lost her residence in Oregon while she had a home in Pasadena, and that her will was not subject to the California statute.

William M. Gregory, for the contestants, responded, and he tried to establish the fact that Mrs. Reed was a resident of Pasadena at the time of her death. Mr. Gregory read a number of depositions. The argument will be resumed today.

Nothing is known here as to the possible successor of Mr. Worthington, though there is some expectation that J. P. O'Brien, now general superintendent of the O. R. & N. may fall helr to the place. Mr. O'Brien has been in the service of the O. R. & N. for many years in various capacities and has proved himself a man well qualified by nature and experience for the place at the head of the Oregon lines. If the apparent policy of Mr. Harriman in appointing outside men to manage the Northwest division should not be applied at this time, it is very probable that Mr. O'Brien would be the lucky man to secure the position.
