

WILL SHAKE THE BOYS UP A BIT

Mayor Williams Proposes to Make a Whirlwind Campaign.

SLANDERS TO BE REFUTED

Republican Nominee for Mayor Does Not Intend to Rest Quietly Under Abuse Heaped Upon Him by Democrats.

"Well, I think I'll shake the boys up a bit." Such was Mayor Williams' response yesterday to the question whether he would let loose oratorical whirlwinds in his stump speech at Albina next Monday night. And his honor looked as if he might really "shake the boys up a bit."

"The Citizens' ticket," said he, "has been put up by scheming Democrats to gull a lot of Republicans, who after the election may find themselves stranded outside the party. What the people of this city ought to see is a clean-cut issue between Lane and myself, without any of such tricks as a 'Citizens' ticket.' What is the 'Citizens' ticket,' anyhow? What does it mean? I suppose the men behind it think they people the only citizens in town, and the Mayor spoke in a 'I've-got-some-citizens-in-my-camp-too-and-I'm-a-citizen-myself tone of voice."

Will Defend Record.

"When Roosevelt ran for President last Fall he was attacked on his record by the Democratic candidate, Parker, who really had no record and was the candidate simply of opposition. In that fight Roosevelt was on the defensive. Now I am running for re-election to the Mayoralty of Portland and my record is attacked. It is my right to defend that record, and I can defend it. I have no apprehension on that score whatever. Dr. Lane has little conception of the duties of this office. The most important episode of his career was his appointment as superintendent of the Oregon State Insane Asylum, from which he was removed by Governor Penneyer.

"In my speeches I shall explain the slanders and alleged scandals that have been told of my administration to the satisfaction of my auditors. I am confident I can do it."

Whereupon the Mayor picked up a paper on his desk containing a newspaper account, nearly two years old, of the bad condition of the fire-engine-houses of the city. The roofs were leaking, the floors were sagging, rats abounded and floors were sagging under their own supports.

"Yet we had no city money to repair our fire-engine-houses," proceeded the Mayor, "and couldn't get any. Elevated roadways were tumbling down and endangering the public and the city had hardly a decent street. The police force was so small as to be inadequate for the needs of the municipality. In order to tide the city over its financial difficulties, the City Council and the Executive Board proposed the plan of raising revenue in the order to derive revenue to run the city government, and I approved of the plan. I shall ask the people whether it was wicked, under such circumstances, to take the money of gamblers and put it to those uses."

"To show that the City Council and other officers of the city entered into the plan and approved it, Mayor Williams produced a clipping from a newspaper interview, given by Mayor Zimmerman, president of the Council, November 2, 1933. Mr. Zimmerman said: 'Speaking for myself, I am frank to confess I have been instrumental in persuading the Mayor to adopt the present system, and as likewise have a large majority of the city officials. I have also approached the Mayor to persuade him to include all the money slot machines in the taxing list, as I consider them as much gambling devices as faro or any other paying game, but I am sorry to state I have not succeeded.'

"Of course he didn't succeed," broke in the Mayor yesterday on coming to this point of the interview. "Of course he didn't. I drew the line at slot machines. That was one of the limitations placed on the taxing system." The interview continued:

I fail to see why some of our city officials should shrink some of the responsibility, if any exists, for the present system, if they are not responsible for the present policy, inasmuch as he consented to it only after he had produced proof that gambling was conducted behind closed doors.

From my personal knowledge of the city's finances, the money policy has been put to very good use for the last five months. The tax levy of last year was insufficient for the fire, police and other departments and large deficiencies existed in all the departments, which had to be paid out of the general fund. That fact fortunately has been pointed out by the fire collected in the Police Court, and I know of no reason why enough fire should not be collected to maintain the entire police force. The fire department has been in a deplorable condition, and I think I am safe in saying that the same conditions will not exist after expiration of the present administration.

Again, the charter provides that the city shall keep in repair for a certain number of years all newly improved streets, whether they consist of macadam, asphalt, wood or Belgian block or any other material. Should not the taxpayer have some little consideration? Must he pay for all this? I do not think any one connected with the city government under Mayor Williams' administration will need to be ashamed of it.

Chairman Colwell, of the Republican City Central Committee, has booked Mayor Williams to speak at Sellwood next week, on Wednesday. Chairman Montague, of the Democratic campaign committee, is arranging for a series of exhibitions by Dr. Lane. The Republican campaign headquarters is located in the McKay building, room 26, where Mr. Colwell has all the paraphernalia of his office. The Democratic headquarters are the west side of Sixth, between Washington and Stark street, upstairs.

"Parsifal" at the Marquam.

Pictorial "Parsifal" was repeated at the Marquam last night under the direction of J. Alex Hanna, who delivered an interesting lecture on Wagner's masterpiece as an accompaniment to the pictures.

Mrs. Walter Reed sang "The Nightingale's Song," by Nevin, "Habanera," from "Carmen," Boud's "Shadow," and "I Know a Lovely Garden" by D'Harmon. The moving pictures of the drama opera were by far the best ever seen here, the concluding series called "The Reign of Louis XIV" being even finer than the "Parsifal" scenes. The incidental music was well done.

The entertainment will be repeated at a matinee today given for the benefit of school children, and again tonight.
