In Language Vigorous and Terse, Republican Candidate for Mayoralty Opens Municipa! Campaign in Albina.

Mayor Williams made his first campaign speech last might in Gomez Hall, Albina, before a gathering of 400 persons, most of them residents of that district of the city. In the gathering were prominent citizens from all parts of Portland and on the platform beside the Mayor sat W. B. Glafke, one of his rivals in the primaries for the Republican nomination; Willis A. Fisher, who, as vice-president of the Republican Club, an organization which indersed H. S. Rowe for the nomination and has now swung into line be hind the nomince, presented the Mayor; J. C. Jameson, captain of the Ninth Ward of the Republican Central Committee, who acted as chairman; J. E. Werlein carididate for City Treasurer, and J. P. Sharkey, candidate for Councilman-at-

was as strong and clear as when he began. The speech reached many climaxes, the chief of which was his declaration that ministers had been uttering false-hood against him.

The audience greeted this utterance with loud and long cheers. Many times in the course of his emarks the speaker was interrupted by applause. His Honor spoke with his form erect, his eyes agleam, his gestures so forceful that they made the platform shake, and his face lighted up with frequent smiles as his words found their way home to his audience and hought back responses of cheering and hand-clapping.

The most important part of all the Mayor's speech was that in which he said fines had been imposed on gamblers as a temporary expedient, and described the condition for the Pair—that was all that was al temporary expedient, and described the conditions under which the system had en inaugurated. Another important utterance was that in which he said he had made no compact with liquor interests and that he had not solicited their support. The Mayor explained in detail the contracts which the Executive Board had cutered into for Tanner Creek, Front-street bridge and Morrison-street bridge, and asserted that taxpayers had been fully protected as to their interests. He challenged his detractors to name one dishonest person among his appointees, and, naming members of his various boards, prominent in the city's life and affairs, asked if they were grafters.

Arrange Transport on the street, who look at me as though I was a monster of iniquity. (Laughter.) They kind of side away as if in fear of being contaminated by my presence (laughter.) because I have been connected, as it is said, with the gamblers. They have said Portiand was a Sodorm and Gomerah. Everything has been said to defame the reputation of this beautiful city by those political creatures, for the purpose of promoting the interests of a political party.

and I concluded that it was my duty, under the circumstances, to acquiesce in their ac-tion. The consequence was that these men were arrested.

Method Conformed With Law,

It has been said that the law was not enforced, and that all those proceedings were in violation of law. I say that all those proceedings were in seried conformity with law. Those men were arrested, taken before the Municipal Court and they gave a money bail for their appearance. When the lime for their appearance came, they failed to appear, and forfeited their bail. Then they were arrested gallin. Putting up, some of them $50, some $150, some $250, they forfeited the money, and that money was paid into the treasury of the city. The proceedings were in strict conformity with law, and there was no underestanding, no arrangement, no agreement, expressed or implied, between the city authorities and the gambles that they should have the right to gamble. When some of those Municipal Leaguers came to me to complain, I said, "Go and make your complaints; there is nothing to prevent you having those men arrested; there is no arrangement or agreement that will interfere with your right to have them arrested." Not they would not m arrested; there is no arrangement or reement that will interfere with your right have them arrested." Engine-Houses in Bad Repair,

Engine-Houses in Bad Repair.

Now, gentlemen, that is a specimen of the condition in which our engine-houses were at that time. We had no money with which to make necessary repairs. These men upon whom you depend for the protection of your lives and property from fire, every man of whom takes his life in his hands every time he goes to extinguish a fire, those nohe men were treated like brutes and compelled to sleep in those places while the rain was falling through the roofs upon them. Now, if I never did anything more wicked in my life than to secure a part of the ill-gotten gains of the gamblers for the purpose of providing those noble men with comfortable quarters. I shall be ready at the judgment seat to meet the judgment of Him who rewards according to deeds done in the body. (Great

Why Mayor Assented,

Why Mayor Assented.

The condition of the engine-brunes is simply illustrative of the condition of the city at that time. Under those circumstances I was put in this predicament, and I should like to know how any man could do otherwise than I did. These men said to me, "We will atand responsible; we require those gambless to help pay musus into the city treasury to help the taxpayers of the city propare it for the Lewis and Clark Fair."

If I had refused, then the responsibility would have been thrown upon me of having left the city in this missrable and wretched condition. It was an unpleasant predicament to place me in; they all knew I was opposed to gambling; I told them I was opposed to it; they are weer well that I am no gambler. I never p into a gambling-house; I never bet a cent, even at a church fair, (Laughter and appliance.)

Only Temporary Expedient

I considered, under these circumstances, while this system was not altogether justifiable, it was excusable; it was a temporary expedient, it was not to benefit the gamblers, as has been represented. It was to make the gamblers contribute money that the taxpayers had to pay in order to prepare the city and put it in a proper condition for the reception of people from all over the United States, when the Lewis and Clark Pair should open.

If I cannot be trusted upon the record which I have made in the State of Oregon for the last 52 years as a public man, and upon my services as Mayor of this city for the last three years, then I cannot be trusted after making promises, for I have found from my experience that the men who make the most promises for the men who has been guitty of a dishonest act. Who shall stay and pay immense taxes. Do you suppose they desire to squander the taxes of the city when they have to pay such a large proportion of the taxes? There isn't a man in Portland that has the courage to come out and say that one of them has done a dishonest act. Who constitute the Water Board? They spend 1500,000 every year in improving the water system of this city. Who are they? William M. Ladd, Dr. Josephi, Dr. Baffety and George W. Hates. Will any man stand up and say that these men are grafters? You will observe that the charge is made up and any that these men are grafters? You will observe that the charge is made that the administration is rotten with graft and these men with others constitute the administration.

SPECIAL CABLE. PARIS, May 22.-A sensation has been created here by the circulation of a report that advices have been received by a well-known firm of French bunkers, who have been active in the past in floating the Russian loans, from their confidential agent at St. Petersburg, stating that Admiral Rolestvensky has died of dysentery and that Admiral Nebogatoff has assumed command of the joint fleets of Russia in Far Eastern waters.

At the Russian Embassy the formed that, while they had heard such a report, they had received no advices of that character from the home government, and the secretary declared that, if such a report had been received at St. Petersburg, it would have been mmunicated to the Embassy without Belay. He was not riclined to believe the rumor, although he admitted that it might be so

On the other hand, persons best acquainted with Admiral Rojestvensky's condition declare that the report may be well true, as the last information received from the Baltic fleet stated that he was very ill and had to have a surgeon in constant attendance upon

Much attention is given here to Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's probable passage into the Pacific north of the Island of Luzou, and suggestions are made that the reported intention of the Russians to rendezvous at the Island of Babuyan will give the American authorities in the Philippines the same difficulties in preserving remote points against the incursions of Admiral Rojestvensky that the French authorities have experienced in the waters of Indo-Chima.

authorities have experienced in the waters of Indo-Chim.

The naval expert of the Temps length-fly points out that the information brought by the various steamers to Chinese ports confirms the previous view that Rojest-vensky is skirting the north of the Philippines into the Pacific. It is maintained that the strategic object thus accomplished is avoiding Japanese torpedo attacks and the mines in the Straits of Formosa and the subsequent concentration of the Japanese fleet in the Straits of Corea, leaving Rojestvensky free to make a long detour and reach Vladivostok through one of the northern straits of Japan. However, it is pointed out that the presence of the Russian fleet north of the Philippines leaves the Russians only a few hundred miles from the Japanese naval base at Kelung in the northern part of the Island of Formosa, and ern part of the Island of Formosa, and that a fight is still possible before the detour commences."

NAVAL EXPERTS ALL AT SEA They Cannot Do Business With Conflicting Dispatches.

Far East as to the whereabouts and intentions of Admiral Rojestvensky. One report has him on the Pacific Ocean, and the experts set out to figure how he reached there, but before they have the task completed, along comes another report from an equally reliable source, and it places the Russians in the China Sea. And so the reports go, and from the mass of contradictory statements it is wellnigh impossible to deduce anything that would seem to be the truth. Rojestvensky's whereabouts are a mystery, and will remain so until he either encounters the Japanese or gets into the track of the ised that his men would be appointed, but Senator Protests Against Cabinet Of ficer's Selection of Appointees and Threatens to Fight Confirmation by Senate.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, May Z-When Senator Fulton and Secretary Hitchcock agree upon two men for Register and Receiver of the Roseburg Land Office, the present incumbents, J. T. Bridges and J. H. Booth, now under suspension, will be removed and the new men appointed. For reasons brought out be-fore the Federal grand jury at Portland, Bridges and Booth were suspended and one of them subsequently indicted. In the eyes of the Interior Department neither is fit to resume public duties at Roseburg, regardless of what disposition is nade of the charges against them, and Secretary Hitchcock has determined there shall be a change. The President approves this course. But before that change comes, Mr. Fulton and Mr. Hitchcock have got to thresh out the controversy that has been in progress several weeks, which will deter mine who is to control Land Office patron. age in Oregon. At the time Bridges and Booth were suspended, the announce was made at the Interior Department that Mr. Fulton would not be consulted in this matter, but, when the Senator took the natter up in person with Mr. Hitchcock. he was assured that, when the President was ready to appoint new land officers, he (Fulton) would be notified and would be requested to submit the names of men he wished appointed. He was not promwas given to understand that he could control both appointments, provided the men he recommended proved satisfactory

Fulton and Hitchcock Disagree.

The matter drifted along for several months, and finally Mr. Hitchcock notified Mr. Fulton of his desire to have new officers appointed at Roseburg. But, in doing so he submitted to the Senator two names of men whom he would like to appoint and asked Mr. Fuiton if their appointment would be satisfactory to him. Mr. Pulton, it is understood, replied that neither man would be acceptable to him, and in turn sent to Mr. Hitchcock the names of two men of his own selection Both men have been investigated. Mr. Hitchcock is willing to consent to the apwith the Japanese and are being detained pointment of one, but declares he will d normit the an if he can help it.

He is anxious to compromise and appoint Mr. Fulton's man to one office and a man of his own choice to the other. This latter proposition aroused Mr. Fulton and he notified the Secretary that, if any mall for Register or Receiver at Roseburg, he would do his best in the next session to the matter rests today. It is understood that B. L. Eddy, recommended by Mr. Fulton, has been agreed upon for Register at Roseburg, and that the Senator has refused to consent to the appointment of J. M. Lawrence, of Bend, as Receiver. Mr. Lawrence is the man whom Mr. Hitchcock wants appointed to this office. The Secretary will not discuss the case further than to declare there is no ill-feeling between the Sena-tor and himself. He says no appointment will be made until two men are agreed upon, as there would be no advantage in appointing a Register without a Receiver or vice versa. It cannot be ascertained here whom Mr. Fulton recommended for Receiver, or who was the original choice of Mr. Hitchcock for Register, though this latter preference is no longer of con-

Fulton Would Fight Confirmation

If Mr. Hitchcock secures the appointment of J. M. Lawrence as Receiver at Roseburg over the protest of Mr. Fulton, there is a chance that Mr. Fulton will be able to prevent the confirmation of Mr Lawrence when his nomination is sent to the Senate next Winter. Many Senators resent the appointment of Federal officers over their heads, especially when appointthe feeling among Western Senators against Mr. Hitchcock has been so strong that Mr. Pulton would probably be able to muster strong support on both sides of the chamber.

Mr. Hitchcock is aware of this sentiment in the Senate and will probably hesitate before turning down Mr. Fulton on this appointment. But for the time being Mr. Hitchcock is waiting to see what Mr. Fulton will do next.

FAR-OFF CELL

Foss Murder First Reported by Prisoner.

SCENE OF CRIME MILES AWAY

Mysterious Gang Is Said to Be at Work.

WREAK SPITE ON RANCHERS

Remarkable Statements of Inmate of Wasco County Jaff at The Dalles Regarding Killing of the Mount Hood Farmer.

THE DALLES, Or., May 22.-(Special.)-Was the death of Frank Foss, the aged farmer who was shot and cremated on his little farm, 18 miles south of Hood River. the victim of an organizaed band of out-Iaws?

The officials of Wasco County are not yet prepared to believe that such a gang exists, but they are quietly at work on the supposition that a band of men, oathbound and terrible in their vengeance, have been guilty of the mary depredations that have been recorded in this county for several years past. The starthad organized themseles into a sort of Whitecap band, who took it upon themselves to harass farmers and neighbors against whom they had a grudge, fancted or real, came from a prisoner now in the juil here.

This prisoner, less than a year ago, when Foss was tried before the County Court here, on a charge of insanity, declared to Jailer John Fitzgerald that old man Foss would be killed inside of a year. This prisoner said that he had been marked by this band, but nothing was thought of it at the time.

On the night of the killing and burning of old man Foss this same prisoner told that something had happened to Form. This prisoner seems to be possessed with a sort of clairvoyancy.

Prisoner's Prophecy of Murder.

The killing of Foss was done between 3 and 10 o'clock Thursday night, May 11. During the whole of Thursday the prisoner, whose name at this time is withheld for reasons, was extremely nervous, He complained of his nervousness to ington, May 22.-William T. Echerd, has Nightwatch Egbert when he went on duty, and it was while he was complaining this condition that he suddenly stopped in the middle of his recital to exclaim:

"Something has happened to old man Foss. Mark what I tell you, you will hear some news from Hood River in the morning."

How true this prophecy was is shown by the subsequent events which followed. The next morning Sheriff Sexton was notified by telephone of the killing and cremation of the aged farmer. Sheriff Sexton hurried to the scene of the crime and with the Coroner viewed the remains of Foss.

The investigation which followed led to the arrest of Ries, who was found asleep in his barn. As soon as possible Ries was brought here and placed in jail. The prophet-prisoner, as soon as he learned of the murder of Foss and that the man suspected of having committed the deed was arm and if his name wasn't Ries. On being told that Ries was then locked up, he remarked, "Just as I thought," but further than this he would not venture. Suffered at Avenger's Hands.

This prisoner stated to the correpondent of The Oregonian tonight, after reciting over again what he had told Jatler Fitzgerald and his assistant, Egbert, who were both present, that when the proper time came he would give a detailed account of the depredations done by this band of avengers. He refused to talk until assured that his name at this time would not be used. He himself alleges that he has been a victim of this bloodthirsty crew.

The murder and burning of old man Foss was one of the most wanton in the history of Wasco County, He was an eccentric old man, one who had quarreled with almost all of his neighbors. He was profane and, right or wrong, he is said to have poured the torrents of his wrath and profanity on all who came his way when he was in his tantrums.

It was known that he had had trouble with the man who is accused of the orime. At first it was thought that the murder and the subsequent burning of his cabin, after he had been shot to death, was the result of a neighbor's quarrel. That was before the auburnhaired widow Riggs' name was connected with the killing, before the officials were given the empty cartridges found at the gate and just outside of where the doorsill stood before the cabin was burned down. Shells Fit Widow's Rifle.

These empty shells fit the callber of the rifle owned by the widow Riggs and this fact led the officials to hunting up an entirely different motive for crime. Since the death of Foss and the finding of the empty shells that fit
