TEACHERS ARE ELECTED

South Mt. Tabor School Introduces Manual Training Department.

Directors of the South Mount Tabor School elected the following teachers for the ensuing year: Principal, Pro-fessor W. A. Law: assistant teachers, Eula Strange, Martha Sturchler, Eleona, S. E. Hunter. Two more teachers will be elected later. The teachers elected were simply re-elected. Principal Law has served the district five years. At the opening of the school next year a full manual training course will be introduced. For this department the basement is being fitted up. Already the tools and other implements have been selected. Principal Law has been visiting the public schools of Port-land to gather ideas for the manual training department.

A special teacher will be selected who will be able to leach in the classroom and to interchange work with the principal as well. Professor Law will have general supervision of the manual department and do some teaching there. While he is in the manual department the regular teach for that department will take the incipal's room. The teacher has not principal's room. The teacher has not yet been chosen, but a woman will probably be elected, who will be expected to take a special course of in-struction this Summer and will be struction this Summer and will be ready to enter the work next September. The American course of instruc-tion has been adopted by the South Portland school directors, as the lessons are laid out and may be carried out more readily. The South Mount Tabor School is the first school in Multnomah County, outside of Portland, to take up manual training and make it part of its regular work.
