TWENTY-TWO SHIPS ARE LOST

Togo Brings Story of His Victory Down to Date.

GATHERS IN FRAGMENTS

Four Prizes Reach Ports in Japan, Two Only Slightly Damaged. None of Togo's Ships Is Seriously Injured.

TOKIO, May 30.—Admiral Togo has wired Admiral Yamamoto, Minister of the navy, as follows:
"The main force of the Russian second and third fleets is nearly annihilated. Please feel assured of it."

TOKIO, May 30.—(4 P. M.)—It is now believed that four Russian warships, in addition to those already reported lost, have been sunk by the Japanese fleet.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The official Japanese report on the latest details of the great naval battle in the Korean Strait is made in a cablegram received tonight by the Japanese legation here from the foreign office at Tokio, conveying Admiral Togo's dispatches up to this afternoon. The report says that Admiral Rojestvensky and another Admiral and staff officers were taken prisoners on the sinking of Rojestvensky's flagship Kniaz Suvaroff, Saturday night south of Ureung Island, off the Korean coast. The total number of vessels lost to the Russians, according to Admiral Togo, now is 22 and he adds that, although the full particulars are not yet in, none of the Japanese ships was seriously injured and the loss to the first division of the Japanese fleet was over 50.

The report that the armed cruiser Dimitri Donaskoff ran aground on Ureung Island; that the battleships Ossliaba (already admitted by the Russian Admiralty) and the Naxarin were sunk; that the battleship Sissol Veliki went to the bottom Sunday morning; that the coast defense ship Admiral Oushakoff was sunk after a vigorous pursuit, her crew being rescued, and gives other details as to vessels sunk or disabled. The Japanese Admiral Mizu was slightly wounded. The protected cruiser Almaz, which has already arrived at Vladivostok, is referred to in the report as "suspected to have sunk." The cablegram follows:

"Fifth report from Togo, received afternoon May 30:
"The main force of our combined fleet, upon accepting surrender of the remaining Russian main force near Liancourt Rocks in the afternoon of May 28, as already reported, stopped pursuit and, while engaged in the disposition of surrendered ships, found in a southwestern direction the Admiral Oushakoff, a coast defense ship. Thereupon the Iwate and Yakumo were immediately dispatched in pursuit and invited her to surrender, but she refused and was sunk at 6 P. M. Her crew of over 200 men were rescued.

"Cruiser Dimitri Donaskoff was also found in the northwestern direction at 5 P. M. and was immediately overtaken and fired on vigorously by our fourth division and second destroyer flotilla. She was attacked that night by the second destroyer flotilla, and the next morning was found aground on the southeastern shore of Ureung Island, off the Korean coast.

Rojestvensky Wounded and Taken.
"Our destroyer Sazanami captured toward the evening of May 27 off the south of Ureung Island the Russian destroyer Blodney, wherein were found Admiral Rojestvensky and another Admiral, both severely wounded, together with 90 Russians, including staff officers from the flagship Kniaz Suvaroff, which was sunk at 12 P. M. on May 27. They were all taken prisoners.

"Our cruiser Chitose, while cruising to the northward on the morning of May 28 found and sunk another Russian destroyer.

"Our cruiser Nitaka and destroyer Murakumo attacked also at noon on May 28, a Russian destroyer, which finally went aground.

"According to various reports hitherto received and statements of prisoners, the result of the battle from May 27 to May 29 is as follows:

Summary of Togo's Work.

"Kniaz Suvaroff, Alexander III, Borodino, Dimitri Donaskoff, Admiral Nakhimoff, Monomach, Jemtshuk, Admiral Oushakoff, one converted cruiser and two destroyers sunk.

"Nicolai I, Orel, Admiral Apraxine, Admiral Selenav and destroyer Diedovy captured.

"According to the prisoners the Ossliaba sank about 2 P. M., and the Naxarin also was sunk. The Almaz on May 27 was observed in a disabled and sinking condition, but her final fate is yet unknown.

"The full particulars regarding the injury to our ships are not yet in hand, but so far as I could ascertain none was seriously injured, all being still engaged in operations. The whole casualties are not yet ascertained. Casualties of first division are little over 400. Prince Yoribito is in excellent health. Admiral Mizu was slightly wounded May 27.

"Sixth report, received the afternoon of May 29:
"Loss of Ossliaba and Naxarin confirmed. Sissol Veliki also definitely reported to have sunk on the morning of May 28.
"Twenty-Two Ships Knocked Out.
"Official statement of Russian losses so far as ascertained:
"Following six battleships sunk: Kniaz Suvaroff, Imperator Alexander III, Borodino, Ossliaba, Sissol Veliki and Naxarin. Following five cruisers sunk: Admiral Nakhimoff, Dimitri Donaskoff, Vladimir Monomach, Svensklana and Zemtshuk.
"Coast defense ship Admiral Oushakoff sunk.
"Two special service ships, Kamtcharka and another, and three destroyers also sunk.
"Two battleships, Orel and Imperator Nicolai I, two coast defense ships, General Admiral Apraxine and Admiral Selenav, and one destroyer, Diedovy, captured.
"Thus Russia lost altogether 22 ships, the aggregate tonnage whereof amounts to 154,411 tons, besides the cruiser Almaz, suspected to have sunk."

SPRANG TRAP ON RUSSIANS

Togo Also Used Submarines and Torpedoes With Deadly Effect.
TOKIO, May 30.—(10:20 A. M.)—The proverb that Admiral Togo always fights and seldom reports is proving true in the case of his greatest battle. From the briefest and most fragmentary reports coming to Tokio, it is impossible to gain an any-adequate conception or picture of the desperate and decisive combat. The Navy Department, after announcing the bare results yesterday, has lapsed into silence again. It meets inquiries with the statement that the department is not interested in the publication of news, but is concerned only in securing victory for Japan. It is probable that many details of the fight will never be given to the world. It will probably be days and weeks before the main facts of the battle and its strategy are made known.

Admiral Togo appears to have planned and laid a complete trap, which fitted Admiral Rojestvensky's action, and the Japanese outmaneuvered, outflanked and

ROJESTVENSKY'S FATE IN DOUBT.
According to the latest reports from Vice-Admiral Togo to his government, the loss to the Russians in ships sunk or captured now numbers 22, while full particulars are not yet in. The Admiral says that none of his big fighting ships was seriously damaged. Interesting news comes from Vladivostok, where Togo's headquarters are situated, and which reports the arrival there of the protected cruiser Almaz and the torpedo-boat destroyer Groeny. The officers of the Almaz say they witnessed the sinking of two Japanese battleships and the Japanese cruiser Sissol Veliki being badly and severely damaged, when the fog obscured their view of the battle.
There seems to be great confusion as to the fate of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky. It is said that he arrived at Vladivostok on the torpedo-boat Blodney, the Admiral's flagship, and that his wife has received a telegram from him, while a report received from Tokio late Tuesday at the Japanese Legation at Washington says he was captured on board the Russian destroyer Blodney with another Admiral, both severely wounded, and with several staff officers of his flagship, the Kniaz Suvaroff, the sinking of which is confirmed by the officers of the Almaz.

and outboard the Russians, fearlessly taking their lightest cruisers against the heavy Russian armor-clad battleships and joining battleships with armored cruisers, smothering them with gun fire. Tremendous interest attached to the use of submarine vessels. The Navy Department is silent on this point, but it is confidently believed that submarines were effectively used for the first time in history. Theoretically, the sea was too rough for the employment of submarines Saturday, but the Japanese sailors welcome desperate chances.

It is believed that torpedo-boats and destroyers scored heavily Saturday night. The conditions on Sunday were most favorable. The night was calm and clear and land was visible for 30 miles across the Tai Straits.

Hundreds of Russian refugees who landed on the Tau Islands and in neighboring provinces are coming to Saesoo and Maluru. Many of them are wounded and otherwise suffering from the terrible ordeal of the long battle. Local branches of the Red Cross and government hospitals are sheltering and treating them. It is believed that the fighting ended Monday. A search of the sea is in progress today.

The fate of Admiral Rojestvensky is still in doubt. The failure of news strengthens the belief that he has reached Vladivostok or fled south.

Tokio is again jubilant today. Hundreds of caeters and deputations through the Navy Department, offering thanks and congratulations. The newspapers declare that Admiral Togo has gained a place beside Nelson.

WILL GREET THE VICE-PRESIDENT Artillerymen to Salute Him When He Steps From the Train.

GUEST OF H. W. GOODE

Plans Outlined for Reception of Distinguished Visitor and the Congressional Party to Arrive This Morning.

Vice-President Fairbanks and the Congressional party will reach Portland at 4 o'clock this morning and will remain aboard the train until 8 o'clock, when they will be escorted through the streets of Portland by the Fourth United States Cavalry.

Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Goode while in Portland.

When Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks at 8 o'clock this morning alights from the train which carried him from Washington to Portland and walks through the depot to the street he will confront the 200 cavalymen of the Fourth United States Cavalry who will instantaneously upon his appearance draw their sabers and lower the regimental standards to the strains of the Vice-President's salute from the mounted band. The Vice-President and Congressional party will arrive in Portland at 4 o'clock this morning in a special train, having left Seattle last night at 10:30 o'clock, after a reception that was given them by the prominent citizens and public officials of that city.

The party will remain in the cars until 8 o'clock, when President and Mrs. H. W. Goode, Theodore Hardee, assistant to the president, and Messrs J. L. Alsworth, L. Allen Lewis and Henry Ladd Corbett, committee of the Lewis and Clark directors, will appear and welcome them to the City of Portland.

Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks and President and Mrs. Goode will walk through the depot to carriages, where the Vice-President will be saluted. They will go to the residence of President Goode, where they will be guests during their stay in Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fairbanks and Frederick Fairbanks will also be guests of President and Mrs. Goode. Warren and Frederick Fairbanks are sons of the Vice-President. The Senate and Congressional representation will go to the Hotel Portland, where rooms have been reserved for them.

When Vice-President Fairbanks and party take their seats in the carriage awaiting them, four noncommissioned officers, led by a First Lieutenant, will detach themselves from the ranks of the Fourth United States Cavalry, which will be lined up at the other side of the street in regular formation and ride to the carriage, where they will form the guard of honor. There will be two officers on each side of the carriage, the Lieutenant in the lead. Then the cavalry, under the leadership of Colonel E. Z. Steever, will march to the front and precede the Vice-President and his party in carriages as they start up the street.

Plan for the Day.

It is planned for the troops to escort the Vice-President up Sixth to Flanders, and on Flanders to Twentieth, to the residence of President Goode. It depends upon the wishes of the Vice-President entirely. If he is tired from the long journey across the continent and is desirous of spending the day in rest he will be driven to President Goode's residence without delay. In case he wants to see Portland he will be driven to the different points of interest under the escort of the Fourth United States Cavalry. The troops are entirely at the command of the Vice-President. While acting as escort to Vice-President Fairbanks the officers and men of the Fourth Cavalry will ride with drawn sabers. The mounted band will play National airs almost continuously.

It is not known exactly how Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks will be entertained this evening, all depending upon the wishes of the guests. It is thought that they will visit the Exposition grounds in the afternoon, and it is understood that they will be escorted there by the Fourth United States Cavalry.

Mrs. Fairbanks will be given a reception at noon today by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks and Joseph O. Cannon, Speaker of the House of Representatives, who is a member of the Congressional party, are both said to be candidates for the Republican nomination at the next Republican National Convention. Vice-President Fairbanks is one of the most popular men in the United States today, and his friends are confident that if he would try he could secure the Republican nomination. "Uncle Joe" Cannon, as he is familiarly known by his associates, has many supporters and admirers who are equally as confident that he could secure the nomination.

Governor of Idaho.
Governor Frank R. Gooding and staff of Idaho, will also arrive in Portland on the O. R. & N. They will be taken immediately to the Hotel Portland. Governor Gooding and his official party will remain in Portland for several days. The Governor of Idaho is one of the wealthiest men in the West, and his fame as a "sheep king" is not confined to his own state. Governor Gooding will spend considerable time at the Exposition this Summer, coming to Portland whenever his official duties permit him.

The members of the Congressional party are: Joseph O. Cannon, Speaker of the House, and Representative and Mrs. James A. Tawney, of Minnesota; James S. Sherman, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Bartlett, of Georgia; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Babcock, of Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Beidler, of Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Loudon, of New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rodenberg, of Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. James C. Sibley, of Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Legare, of South Carolina; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Adams, of Wisconsin; George N. Southwick, of New York; Robert L. Henry, of Texas; John H. Small, of North Carolina; James McAndrews, of Illinois; Courtney W. Hamlin, of Missouri; Lucius N. Littauer, of New York; Alex. McDowell, clerk of the House; Henry Casson, sergeant-at-arms in the House; W. H. Estey, teller in the House; Frank B. Lyon, doorkeeper in the House; L. W. Bushley, secretary to Speaker Cannon; W. J. Browning, chief clerk in the House; Commander R. G. Peck, Assistant Hydrographer in the Navy Department; Representative and Mrs. J. A. Ramsdell, sergeant-at-arms in the Senate; F. L. Fishback; J. H. McManis; E. S. Noyes and J. R. King.

The Idaho party is composed of Governor and Mrs. Gooding and Miss Gooding; Senator Vickers, Colonel and Mrs. John McBurney; Colonel S. E. Meyers; Major H. L. Workman; Captain James Spigel and Colonel S. E. Bibby.

JAPAN WILL NOT DISCUSS PEACE

Till Russia Cries "Enough" Nippon Will Hammer Away at Her.

NOT TIME TO TALK TERMS

WASHINGTON, May 30.—"Until some word of peace comes out of Tsarskoe-Selo, Nippon has not to fight on," this epigrammatic remark of Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, made tonight with the details of the victory of the Japanese fleet before him, accurately sets forth not only his opinion, but it is believed, that of the Washington and other neutral governments represented here regarding the effect of the battle on Russia's policy. Whether Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, will be the bearer of that fateful word when he sees the President tomorrow or Thursday remains to be seen, but the Ambassador, in a conversation with a correspondent of the Associated Press today, was more emphatic than at any time since the war was declared that the war would go on indefinitely. While admitting that he would see the President in the next few days and have a long conference on the general situation, the Ambassador strongly discourages any hopes of an early peace.

"Perhaps after Liao Yang there was a possibility of peace. I will not say there was not an idea of peace at that time in certain quarters, but now, after this crushing defeat, never. The Japanese talk of indemnity. Russia can better see this money in the building of another fleet. Certainly this is not the time when Russia can afford to take up the question of peace."

Diplomats Look to Roosevelt but He Will Not Move Until the Czar Is Convinced Russia Is Knocked Out.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The view that prevails in official quarters here is that some time elapse before Russia reaches a final determination as to her future course, but it is anticipated that she is likely to canvass the situation among the friendly nations with the purpose of ascertaining the best possible basis for the conclusion of the war. However, the French officials do not expect such process to advance rapidly, owing to the exclusively methods of Russian diplomacy and the conflicting internal elements. It is certain that if Foreign Minister Delcasse's advice is solicited, it will be exerted in behalf of the re-establishment of peace, but the Russian attitude indicates that France will take the initiative until definitely requested to do so.

Conversing recently with a diplomat relative to the possibilities of peace, M. Delcasse said it was easy to give advice, but difficult to have it accepted. Nevertheless, his influence had been constantly exerted toward a pacific solution.

Premier Rouvier shares the same sentiments on the subject of M. Delcasse, and powerful financial interests are in favor of peace.

For the moment, however, the officials here are absorbed in the study of the Alfonso, which affects the most vital feature of French foreign policy, and therefore it is of more immediate concern to France than Russia's dilemma. A cabinet council was held at noon, and the Ministers were occupied chiefly with the final arrangements for the King's visit.

No communication was made relative to the Russian attitude, but it is believed that the Russian government's attitude concerning the engagement was meager, as the chief channel for war information is St. Petersburg. The Russian Legation received the news of Togo's victory without demonstrative enthusiasm. A member of the Legation said:

DON'T KNOW SHE'S WHIPPED

"It was part of our programme, which is not finished. We shall be ready to examine terms of peace only when Russia puts them forth in definite form."

RUSSIAN OFFICIALS REFUSE TO CONSIDER PEACE TALK.

LONDON, May 30.—The Associated Press learned today in Russia of official circles here, that it is considered far too early to discuss the question of peace. The Russian government must first learn the effect of the defeat on the whole Russian people, and even then it might have an entirely different effect in Russia.

The leaders of the Russian colony in London are eagerly awaiting official news from St. Petersburg, scarcely any information having yet reached the English papers from the Russian capital. The officials of the Japanese Legation still contend that first signs of wavering in Russia must come from Russia. Other diplomatic and official circles are unanimously of the opinion that the Russian defeat must result in early peace. In some quarters there is talk of intervention, but this is accused, as it is not considered likely that any government will interfere between two such powers.

JAPANESE ARE NOT GRATERS

Dr. Jordan Says They Deal Honestly With Government.

CHICAGO, May 30.—"Graft is a thing entirely unknown in Japan," said David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, last night, addressing one of the meetings preliminary to the regular session of Congress of Religion.

"I venture to say," continued Mr. Jordan, "that in the present war not $500 of Japanese war funds has been stolen. On the other hand, I presume that not one dollar in twenty if not a hundred on the side of the Russians ever reached its proper destination. I heard of only one dishonest Japanese while in the country, and he was one whose morals had been contaminated by residence abroad."

Dr. Jordan's lecture was largely upon Shintoism, the chief religion in Japan, which, he said, is not a form of worship, but a spiritual living so ancestors would not be ashamed of their descendants.

LOVING CUP GOING TO TOGO

Japanese of New York Will Celebrate Victory.

NEW YORK, May 30.—A gift, probably in the form of a silver and gold loving cup, will be sent Admiral Togo within a few days by the Japanese residents of this city. This has been decided on at a meeting of the Admiral's countrymen held in connection with the proposed plan for a big celebration of the sea victory to

SURVIVORS OF RUSSIAN ARMADA Only Two Ships Reach Vladivostok.

FLED IN EARLY PART OF BATTLE

Noblest of Fleet Had Been Already Destroyed.

JAPANESE SHIPS WERE SUNK

Fugitives Saw Two Battleships Go Down and Two Cruisers About to Sink—Groeny Sinks En- emy's Destroyer in Duel.

Special Cable.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 31.—It is announced at the Admiralty that news has been received of the death of Admiral Voelkersham, heretofore reported a prisoner in the hands of the Japanese.

VLADIVOSTOK, May 30.—(4:30 P. M.)—

Two ships alone of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's powerful flotilla, the swift cruiser Almaz and the torpedo-boat destroyer Groeny, lie at anchor here today in the curving harbor of Golden Horn, they having separated from the fleet in the early stage of the battle, which began in the Korean Strait Saturday, and headed in obedience to orders, with full speed to Vladivostok.

Up to 6 o'clock this afternoon no other vessel of the Baltic fleet had yet arrived, and the signal stations at Askold and Rimsky-Korsakoff Islands reported none in sight.

Saw Japanese Ships Sink.
Officers of the Almaz and Groeny say that both fleets had already sustained terrible losses through the hostile line. Of the Japanese, two battleships had gone down before their eyes, and two cruisers, the stems high out of the water, seemed ready to plunge bow foremost to the bottom of the sea.

Sad Plight of Russians.
The Russian fleet, they say, was even in a sad plight. Rojestvensky's flagship, the Kniaz Suvaroff, and her sister ship, the Borodino, and the cruisers Ossliaba and Ural, were utterly destroyed, and when the fog closed down and hid the scene of battle from sight northward of the speeding ships, a third great Russian battleship, the Alexander III, seemed in sore distress, but limping northward, putting up a valiant fight against throngs of torpedo-boats and still continuing her attacks on the cruisers of the island enemy. Torpedo-boats were also clinging round the other ships of the fleet like angered wasps, separate flotillas darting in again and again to launch their weapons.

Bears Scars of Battle.

The Almaz, which arrived at her anchorage here Monday evening, bears scars of battle. Her mizenmast is shot away, and one of her smokestacks is pierced by a cannon shot. But the Groeny, though engaged for several hours in a running fight at short range with a lone Japanese destroyer, shows no signs of the fray.

After her commander, Captain Andrievski, had been wounded and an officer and three men had been killed, the Groeny succeeded in sinking her opponent with a lucky placed shot, and reached Vladivostok without further adventure at 11 o'clock this morning.

For the past two days Vladivostok has been buzzing with rumor and excitement. The fact that a battle between the rival fleets was imminent, if Rojestvensky was not already at hand, grieves with Togo, was made known through telegrams from Europe, and, when it was learned Monday morning that a Russian cruiser had been sighted off Askold Island, headed for the harbor, the city was filled with the wildest reports of every nature.

The inhabitants clustered in the streets, thronged the water-side or climbed the frowning hills overlooking the harbor.

Almaz Arrives With Bad News.
Finally, toward 6 o'clock of the evening a graceful cruiser with two snowy white stacks shot in view at the entrance to the Golden Horn and rounded to an anchorage beneath the bristling guns of the curving promontory. From afar the broken stump of her mizenmast and a shot-hole showing on the white paint of one stack indicated that the cruiser had encountered the Japanese.

As the anchor chain rattled in the haws-holes, the vessel wreathed itself in salute—it was an Admiral's salute in honor of Rear-Admiral von Jessen. Scarcely had the boom of the last cannon begun to echo from the surrounding hills when Von Jessen's flagship, the cruiser Rossia, answered the salute, and a minute later the guns of the fortress took up the cannonade.

Excitement beyond description seized the thronging spectators, who with frantic huzzas tossed high their caps. Citizens embraced each other and danced joyfully on the pier, while the crews of the ships in the harbor, joined in the wild cheering. In a trice the boats were dropped from the davits and in a moment the officers of the cruisers and torpedo-boats in the harbor and the military officials from the fortress were swarming

When Vice-President Fairbanks and party take their seats in the carriage awaiting them, four noncommissioned officers, led by a First Lieutenant, will detach themselves from the ranks of the Fourth United States Cavalry, which will be lined up at the other side of the street in regular formation and ride to the carriage, where they will form the guard of honor.
