AT THE THEATERS. "A Romance of '76." Robert Eison, Howard Gould, Jerry Colburn, John Davis, Colonel Travener, Joe Thompson, Captain Beaumont, William Brewer, Lieutenant Cornish, Grant Churchill, Lieutenant Walker, Robert Adams, Lieutenant Baker, Richard Adams, First Soldier, Adam Robbins, Second Soldier, Thomas Wilson, Squire Newman, Ernest Harris, William Vernon, George O'Farrell, Johnny Newman, Ed Malson, Lady Jane Marlowe, Kate Sommers, Misses Algal Stone, Lillian Muccio, Prue Newman, Frances Van Beyneong, Betty Watson, Bertha Creighton.

BY A. A. G. It was a splendid reception which Howard Gould received last night when he made his first entrance in "A Romance of '76'" at the Marquann. The audience delayed the action of the play fully a minute to demonstrate their appreciation again seeing the popular leading man on a local stage, after his severe illness of the past weeks.

It must have been very gratifying to Mr. Gould, the tumultuous applause and the floral offerings which he received must have atoned in large measure for his enforced retirement due to the serious operation which he recently underwent.

Last night was also noteworthy by reason of the fact that a new star blazed upon Portland's theatrical firmament. Bertha Creighton came here practically an unknown quantity and by her performance of the difficult role of "Betty Watson" in the heroine of "A Romance of '76'" fixed herself firmly in public estimation as an actress of unusual versatility and power.

She is a young woman whose charm of face and manner, undoubted talent for portraying varied and capricious human emotion, stamp her as a star well worth serious consideration.

ness of his reading of the lines is little short of remarkable. The last act of "A Romance of '76'" gives him an opportunity to swing around and at that time was ever so adept. His part is that of an officer in the patriot army, a vigorous, active role, and Mr. Gould was equal to it every moment. Apparently he has completely recovered his health, for he has seldom appeared in better advantage.

After the leading people, John Davies is entitled to outrank the rest of the cast by many degrees. As the old servant he was very good indeed.

The play has for its theme the familiar story of the Revolution, which always appeals to our love of the romantic. Of course, the hero is American and the villain a detested redcoat, and there are plots and counterplots to win the infant republic and to ruin the hero. Needless to say, none of these succeed, and after four stirring acts a happy ending sends the audience home feeling satisfied.

Some attention should be given to the costumes of the uppermen, and the officers should not use modern revolvers. Barring these few defects, the play affords first-class entertainment and deserves patronage.

RADIUM MEDICAL INSTITUTE

SUPERIOR METHODS FOR CURING SICK AND AFFLICTED. An Institution Which Has No Equal in the Great Northwest Country.

It may be an old but a particularly true saying that there is nothing new under the sun, and very truly so; that this axiom applies to all lines of business or profession is an accepted fact, and nevertheless we find ourselves emphasizing in a most demonstrative way that this or that is an entirely new method.

New methods today prevail in all parts of the world, and those people who are not to be left in the rut; they become fossilized, are, as it were, forgotten by the more progressive people and become men of the obsolete. A representative of The Oregonian who had business in the Alisky building, on the corner of Third and Morrison streets, Madison Medical Institute, concluded to investigate. It was a perfect surprise to him, and hence the following publicity, as it is only right that the public should be made aware of the superior methods in vogue at this up-to-date institute.

The X-Radium doctors' office, at Third and Morrison streets, occupy some of the top floor of the Alisky building, each room being devoted to some specialty and under the personal supervision of a specialist.

Dr. Anderson, who is our reporter was cordially received by the chief surgeon, Dr. Hammond, who, with the usual reticence peculiar to medical men, did not wish to give for publication. He told that such a medical institute, conducted under such modern and superior methods of curing the sick, should be made public, the doctor consented to talk.

The X-Radium Medical Institute is by no means a new venture in the city. It has been established here close upon two years and much of the best medical work properly conducted, we have outgrown our surroundings, and as you see, we have enlarged our offices to meet the requirements of our patients. The practice is entirely different to what it was ten or 20 years ago; then the family doctor attended to every ailment that his patient was prone to suffer from. It was the eye, the head, the brain or the liver, all came under his treatment, and it was not to be expected that any good results could obtain. To-day, however, the doctor confines to the many diseases to which the human body is subject in the course of years dealing exclusively with one disorder, they become specialists.

Recognizing this feature, the X-Radium Institute, early this year, scoured this country and Europe for the best specialists they could find, and were successful in securing on their staff some of the best men in those countries, and consequently the present corps of physicians and surgeons at the X-Radium Institute, are of the French, German and Scandinavian doctors of National reputation. We treat most successfully cancer, consumption, catarrh, eye and ear, tumors, paralysis, nose, throat, heart, stomach, diseases of the blood, liver, rheumatism and nervous disorders, etc. No mistakes are made in diagnosing a patient's case for some other disease, and drag a patient for months without knowing what ails them; our X-Ray system permits of the attending specialist looking clear through the body and admits of no mistakes. Ours is the only institute in Portland endorsed and patronized by the medical profession and hospital clinics throughout the Northwest.

Men and women who are in poor state of health, worried and anxious about their conditions, no matter from what cause, are cordially invited to call at the X-Radium Medical Institute, Alisky building, Third and Morrison streets, as valuable advice and cure awaits all sufferers. The doctor assures us that consultation was free and treatment within the reach of all.

STOP AT "THE TAVERN." A Hospitable Welcome Awaits All Those Who Seek the Good Things of Life.

"The Tavern" is an ideal place of refreshment, and it lies invitingly on the coast of Bohemia. Those who have once tasted of its joys will never forget and will come again and again in search of the comfort and happiness which is always to be found there. Although it has been open but a short time, it already has an air of fixed permanence as if it had always been there for all Portland to enjoy. Drop in today on this evening. Hear the music, drink a brimming stein or have one of those delicious à la carte meals. Business men should find about its great merchants' luncheon, served daily from 11 A. M. until 2 P. M.

ANY ONE BUT HIM?

Lane Has Not Yet Decided on Chief of Police.

CABINET NOT MADE UP. Mayor-Elect Declares That Not Until After He Returns From Trip He Is to Make Will Be Consider Appointments.

"I do not know who I shall appoint Chief of Police, but I know one man whom I shall not appoint—Charles H. Hunt."

Such was the reply yesterday of Dr. Harry Lane, Mayor-elect, when asked if he had made up his mind whom to choose for head of the bluestocks to succeed Chief Hunt.

The person most often mentioned for the place yesterday in Democratic circles was John Lamont, Democrat of the "water and sewer" type, who was a member of the campaign committee of his party. Mr. Lamont is one of the heavy weights in the Democratic brotherhood, and his name has assumed large proportions.

Another Democrat mentioned for the place is John Montag, but most of his admirers believe that he would prefer appointment to the Executive board. Others spoken of are M. J. Malley and M. G. Munley. G. P. Morden, chief deputy to Sheriff Word, is the recipient of a boom also; likewise, N. H. Bird, who has served several terms for Sheriff George H. Howell has been talked of frequently for the place, but yesterday announced positively that he did not want it. Captain E. N. Spear, a member of the cabinet eligible on the tongues of gossip.

For City Engineer. Next in importance to the office of Chief of Police is that of City Engineer, the place now held by Charles W. Wadsworth. A formidable candidate for this place is thought to be Oscar Bellinger, son of the late Judge Bellinger, with whom Dr. Lane is in close friendly relations many years.

Dr. Lane's cabinet will be the Executive Board, consisting of ten members besides himself. Many mighty Democrats are talked of for places on the board, likewise several members of the Municipal Association and of the Citizens' organization. That George H. Howell, Republican, will be a member of the Executive Board, and perhaps a member of the police committee of that body, seems likely. Howell until recently was a member of the Board of Public Works, and remained one of the largest dealers in his business to the time of his death.

Mr. Wadsworth came originally from New York, and remained in San Francisco during the early '60s, subsequently moving here. He was born at Westmead, N. Y. His wife, who was also from New York State, was with him at the time of his death.

THANKED FOR BIG SUCCESS. Rose Society's Committee Makes Acknowledgement for Great Services.

The committee on Rose day of the Portland Rose Society takes this means of tendering thanks to all those who so ably assisted in making the display an unqualified success.

It expresses its desires to thank the press of this city for its generous advertising and free notices of the event; to Theodore Hardee, H. E. Douch, Oscar Huber and other officers of the Auditorium, who transformed into a bower of beauty. The committee also wishes to thank the members of the Rose Society for their untiring assistance in collecting and arranging masses of roses, and particularly to the multitude of friends who so generously donated their choicest specimens and other flowers. The committee fully appreciates the assistance given by Messrs. Martin and Forbes and Clarke Bros. for the costly and beautiful displays made by them. Finally thanks are tendered to L. H. Lewis and W. P. Olds for their kind contribution of the necessary jars for the rose show. The committee is composed of William S. Sibson, Mrs. George H. Lamson, Frederick V. Holman, Mrs. B. Killin, Thomas G. Green.

APPOINTMENTS ON JULY 1. The appointments will be made by the Mayor when he shall be inducted into office, July 1. He is understood to have had not yet considered the appointment of his cabinet. Who his Chief of Police would be, who his City Engineer, and who would constitute his Executive Board, he knows "many more than the man in the moon."

"I haven't taken the matter up with anybody," said he. "I have made no pledges as to appointments and if any party now before me, tomorrow night I shall go to Baker City to attend a meeting of the State Board of Health, and then I shall go to Salem a day or two. My only thought is that I shall not take up the matter of appointments."

That Dr. Lane will make up his official family mostly of Democrats is the general expectation.

COUNCIL AGAINST MAYOR. Mayor-Elect Lane Will Have Big Majority Opposing Him.

As Mayor-elect Lane and the majority of the new Council are compounded of opposing ingredients, political speculators are looking for a storm when the Mayor will arrive in the Council chamber. On the question of liquor control the Mayor and the majority of the Council were supported in the election by the bluestocks; furthermore, the Mayor is a Democrat, and only one other person of that faith was elected to the Council—W. T. Vaughn, of the Tenth Ward.

"We can play horse with Lane in the Council," a representative of the liquor interests was heard to remark yesterday.

In the appointment of the liquor license committee of the Council, the Mayor, however, will have the advantage. That committee consists of five members, and if H. H. Jones, J. C. Flanders, E. E. Wallace, of the Second Ward; Masters, of the Fifth; Vaughn, of the Tenth, and Willis, of the city at large, who were elected by the anti-liquor interests, the liquor people might feel the shoe pinch.

Liquor interests think they will be protected from their foes by eight stolid Councilmen, and possibly ten, the latter number being necessary to override a veto of the Mayor's. The eight are men who were endorsed in the election by the liquor interests—Freston, Shepherd, Belding, Bushfield, Bennett, Menefee, Kellar and Sharkey.

A fight between the Mayor and the Council may break out if the Mayor shall undertake to appoint a Democrat to succeed Howard Whiting as Building Inspector. This office was created by the Council, and the appointment vested in the Council, but the Council could abolish the office.

Political maneuvering for President of the Council has already begun. John P. Sharkey, at large, is in the running; also Henry A. Belding, Sixth Ward, and Frank S. Bennett, Eighth Ward.

Transfers for East Side Residents. The management of the Portland Consolidated Street Railway Company has made a change in its transfer rules for the accommodation of the East Side residents who may be using the lines to get to the Exposition grounds from the East Side. A new fair ground transfer has been provided which will be good on any line running to the Exposition grounds and connecting with the East Side lines.

fer, according to the route desired, which transfer was good only on the one line. With the new system it will be possible for the passenger to take the first car coming past irrespective of the route. The company hopes by this innovation to do away with a great deal of the congestion on the main lines at the transfer points and to distribute the traffic more evenly over the different parts of the system.

WILLIAM WADSWAMS DEAD. Passes Away at the Presbyterian Hospital in Philadelphia.

William Wadsworth, for many years senior member of the grocery house of Wadsworth & Co. and later of Wadsworth & Kerr Bros., and a pioneer of Portland, died in the Presbyterian Hospital in Philadelphia yesterday of paralysis. Mr. Wadsworth has been ill for several months and died at the age of 74 years.

Prominently identified with the wholesale and jobbing trade of the Northwest, Mr. Wadsworth's name is known to fame through his religious work. Although a layman, he had always been an ardent church worker and in his younger days a revivalist. To lead in the singing in the choir, even in his old age, was one of his greatest delights and he did this in the Calvary Presbyterian Church for a long time.

When a young man he used to go out to revival meetings in the country and lead the singing.

A genial and honest man he bore an irreproachable reputation during the 41 years he was in business here. He came to Portland originally to represent a San Francisco grocery house, but later established himself and remained one of the largest dealers in his business to the time of his death.

Mr. Wadsworth came originally from New York, and remained in San Francisco during the early '60s, subsequently moving here. He was born at Westmead, N. Y. His wife, who was also from New York State, was with him at the time of his death.

MANY CALL ON THE MAYOR

HIS DEFEAT IS REGRETTED ABOUT CITY HALL.

Has No Opinion to Make Public as to Reason for Lane's Election.

"You have come to the wrong shop for news," good-naturedly remarked Mayor Williams yesterday, when asked if he wished to make any statement with reference to his defeat at the polls Monday.

"Dr. Lane is the man you want to go to for a story."

The Mayor went to his office early in the day and remained as usual until nearly 5 o'clock. If he was disappointed in any way over the result of the election, there was it received, and that all there is to the talk on that subject.

In response to an inquiry, the Mayor said it was too early to utter his plans for the overthrow as Mayor Williams, who from office until July 1, and he had not made up his mind what he intended to do after that.

"I felt somewhat dubious concerning the situation when I went to the polls of my own precinct to vote. Out of a total registration of 22, in the Thirtieth Precinct, 12,000, and it ran pretty much this way all over the West Side. I was satisfied then that if anything should encompass my defeat it would be on account of the light breeze that was being cast in the districts where I ought to have polled the most."

As a matter of fact," he continued, "Lane got about as many votes in the North Side as I received, so that all there is to the talk on that subject."

He said, "because I have always led an active life and will have to keep busy." He was undecided whether to engage in the principal theme of conversation in municipal circles. Nobody seemed to be in any position to give an adequate idea as to the causes that contributed to the political defeat of Mayor Williams, and if the Mayor himself has any definite ideas upon the subject, they are wrapped tightly in his own breast, and he has no intention of taking the public into his confidence relative to the matter.
