London Papers Hope Norway Will Not Force Disunion.

LONDON, June 8 .- The revolution in Norway, although anticipated and peacefully effected, has come to Europe with unexpected suddenness and there is asked with some anxiety whether it will mean immediate complications. Had Russia not been involved in a difficult war in the Far East, it is doubtful whether Norway would have taken the present momentous step, which is not likely to be regarded with appropriate the formal of Norway as a secure the recognition as a secure that it will be subjected there are the will be subjected that it will be subj proval by European powers, Emperor William's omlesion of his customary tour of Norway this year seems to in dicate his disapproval of the Norweglan policy, and the fact that the coup d'etat is not unlikely to eventuate in d'etat is not unimer; the establishment of a Norwegian republic would alone be a reason why the step should not commend itself to the monarchial powers. It is nowhere thought that King Oscar will consent to a junior member Oscar will consent to a junior member of his family becoming King of Norway. This proposal is regarded as an attempt to palliate the blow to the Jeposed King, and the opinion of English newspapers is that the suggestion is quite impracticable. In their editorials this morning London newspapers comment on the extreme seriousness of the step Norway has taken, many expressing the hope that there may yet be time for Norwegians to reconsider their position and deavor to adjust the difficulty regarding 'the consular question by ar-bitration or other means so as to preserve the union, which, it is content is necessary for the welfare of countries. The prospects of such an adjustment, however, appear to be of the slightest.

The consular difficulty is supposed to be only an outward manifestation of the deep-scated separatist aspira-tions of the majority of Norwegians. It is pointed out that the constitution of a free press must not be impaired her must the great body of American newspapers makes express provision for the over-amongst the noblest agencies of enlightenment and civilization—be judged by a few which have prostituted their high calling to elected Storthings to be in antagonism elected Storthings to be in antagonism. to the national will. Therefore it can-not be assumed that the King exceed-

British sympathy appears to be strongly on the side of Sweden and King Oscar, more especially as an Eng-lish Princess is about to marry a Prince who is in direct line of succession to the Swedish throne.

Should King Oscar convent that one of the Princes of the house of Berna-dotte become King of Norway and the te share and make its contribution to the general welfare. Among the greatest of offensive and defensive alliance, it the forces for progress in the struggle for a it would be regarded here as a satisfactory arrangement, but this is little hoped for, and the Morning Post expresses the very general view gesting that it is eminently a case for

LOOKS ON WITH HUNGRY EYES Russia Would Like to Annex, but Is Busy Elsewhere.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 7.-The strug gie between Sweden and Norway and the prospects of a dissolution of the union, one of the present objects of which was the making of common cause against Muscovite influence, is followed with close attention in Russia. Ever since Peter the Great broke the might of Sweden at the battle of Poitava in 1709 and annexed the Baltic provinces and part of Finland, Russian policy has been directed toward weakening the power of her ancient enemy.

After the completion of the annexation of Finland by Alexander I. many Russian statesmen looked forward to obtaining an ice-free port on the Norwegian coast. A narrow tongue of Finland cuts deep into Swedish-Norwegian territory, at the end of which there is 18 miles of deep water and the harbor of Lynge. Russis, with-in recent years, has been active on this frontier country, where railways have been surveyed, and Slav influence is so strong there that fisherman and other Norwegian inhabitants, refer their dis-putes to the Russian authorities.

between Norway and Sweden, the Em peror wishing to avoid a seeming dem-onstration of sympathy with Norway or any approbation of furthering the dynastic designs of the house of Hodynastic designs of the house of Hohembollern.

The separation of Norway from Sweden is discussed here as the natural result of what went before. It is assumed that the separation will be accomplished without any attempt on the part of Sweden to compel Norway to adhere to the union. It is believed, further, that Norway will declare herself a republic unless King Oscar accedes to the Storthing's intention to name a prince of the house of Bernadotte to occupy the Norwegian throne.

MAN WHO HEADS REVOLUTION

Michelsen Has Long Led Liberals and Carried Many Reforms.

Peter Christian H. M. Michelsen, the Prime Minister and head of the provisional government, has been leader of the Liberal party for about 12 years. Several years ago Mr. Michelsen advocated a jury system similar to that of the United States, and it was due largely to his in-fluence that the reform was carried. An-other reform with which he has been identified is the extension of the suffrage. Universal manhood suffrage is now the rule in Norway, and a much larger per-centage of the women vote there than in the United States.

Mr. Michelsen also led the movement for Parliamentary reform. Under the old system election districts were large and four representatives were returned from each district. The new law makes the districts smaller and provides for the election of one representative from each

Mr. Michelsen was born in Bergen, Norway, March 15, 1857. He studied for the bar at the University of Christiania and after his graduation returned to his native city and began the practice of law.
