Mr. Bernard and his supporting company, including the original cast, are to appear in this city, and the amusement-loving people The will undoubtedly give him a cordial reception. "Leah Kleschna" for Empire.

It has been said, and rightly, that "Leah Kleschna," which Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company will present at the Empire on June 20-24, contains in each of its acts enough action and incident to make an ordinarily good play. Spun out, the developments of each act would certainly make an in-teresting drama by themselves, but compressed as they are in this case. they make a play in which the interest never ceases and suspense is sustained throughout. It was generally agreed at the time of the production of "Leah Kleschna" in New York that Mr. Mc-Lellan had set a pace that other dram-atists would find it hard to follow. Not only has he written a play of intense inherent strength, but he has provided it with an unusual number of fine act-ing roles that give Mrs. Fisks and her associates exceptional opportunities. The seat sale for Mrs. Fiske opens Thursday.
