ary of 500 a week. He was a man of great initiative, tireless energy, houndless an-thusiasm over the possibilities of individ-ual effort in any line, and he was essen-thally a leader among business men. He not only "made good" in his work on the Times, but his ability and his energy soon claimed for him the recognition of many of the leading publishers of the country. One of the first of the publishers of rep-resentative daily papers who were favor-ably impressed with Mr. Beckwith's work was H. L. Pittock, of The Oregonian. Since 1832 Mr. Beckwith, and his immedi-ate successor, the S. C. Beckwith Spetial Azency, have looked after the business in-terests of The Oregonian in the Bastern field, and The Oregonian now occupies a foremost position among the list of lead-ing papers handled by the Beckwith Agency.

Agency. Through the efforts of S. C. Beckwith and his two brothers, who have beep and his two brothers, who have been closely associated with him, the business of the S. C. Beckwith Special Agency has grown, until today this agency controls the iargest volume of newspaper adver-tising handled by any special agency of New York. At the time Mr. Beckwith first took the agency of The Oregonian, he occupied quarters in a single room of the Tribuse building. His agency today he occupied quarters in a single room or the Tribune building. His agency today occupies all the front offices on the fourth floor of the same building, facing Park Row and City Hall Square. This is in one of the most crowded business dia-tricts of New York.

Rose to Commanding Position.

As the result of his individual exer-tions alone, Mr. Beckwith rose from the position of his first humble assignment in New York at a salary of 20 a week to a position of commanding importance in the newspaper field of America. His individual income at the time of his death probably equaled. If it did not exceed, that of the President of the United States. Among men with whom be has low here that of the President of the United States. Among men with whom he has long been closely associated are Joseph Pullizer, of the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and John R. McLean, propris-tor of the Cincinnati Enguiree. He was not a man of great wealth, after the standards of New Tork wealthy men; yet his friends assume that his estate will appraise at a value ranging from $50,000 to $1,000.000. A considerable part of the value of any business builded as the re-sult of individual initiative and personal effort rests in the control of the directing

Hill Says He Did Not Beat Hart.

A report that Ned Hart was beaten over the head with a club by Patrolman C. B. Hill June 5 while in a state of intoxication is denied by Hill and others who saw the arrest made. Hill said last night, "I made the arrest with as little forces as possible. After Hart had struck me I took hold of him and held him at the office of the United Carriage Company until the patrol arrived. There were party inth the parton arrived. There were averal men standing around who saw the arrest and will testify that I did not strike him. Some of the bystanders helped me hold the fellow until the pa-trol arrived." Captain Moore said last night that when the man was taken to the station he did not have a scratch on

Mrs. L. S. Ainsworth Dead.

A message has just been received in this city by Mrs. George J. Ainsworth from her son, Lawrence S. Ainsworth, at Paisley, Or., telling of the sudden death of his wife, Charlotte Henley Ainsworth, at that place, June II, 1965, at II o'clock P. M. Mrs. Ainsworth had been married less than a year, and formerly lived at Berkeley, Cal., where she graduated at the Uni versity of California in the class of 1900. Nothing definite is known here of the cause of her death as yet. Mrs. Ainsworth, the mother, leaves tonight to meet her son, when they will return to this city.
