JUDGE BENNETT MAKES A PATHETIC PLEA FOR MITCHELL

(Continued From First Page.)

Terms Heney's Speech Unfair.

<section-header><section-header><section-header><text><text>

HARRY MURPHY PICTURES JUDGE BENNETT, DELIVERING HIS ARGUMENT AT THE MITCHELL TRIAL, AND SOME OF HIS LISTENERS U.S BETECTIVE WH J. BURNE SEN. MITCHELL TWO JUDGE JURDRS. A. S. BENNETT MAKING HIS PLEA TO

<text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text><text>

he particular and things, guitter, . Very innecessi things, guitter, the jury, but here is the argum the hearned attorney. 'And r interme, but one word mare. tern have massed between these is letters which are admitted to be handwriting of the defendant be handwriting of the defendant. Thick speak volumes indeed. Tr the harder which are annexed as and which speak volumes indeed. That is exactly the argument here: these let ters are in the handwriting of the de-fendant. These letters too heaven the character of the man. They an open fervent elongent thing nothing but the language are not anothing but the language ters are not onen, fervent, esiglies, breathing nothing facts in relation to the fees, covert, siv, underhanded con tions. These letters are op underhanded communicipions underhanded communications. fortunately, far more conclusive t if couched in the most giowing suage and the most poetic imagery

Keeps Up the Comparison.

<text><text><text>

4