Following the announcement of the failure, a lively run was started on the Canton Merchants Denounce Exclu-Central National Bank, and before closing time today it was known that something more than $100,000 and been withdrawn from this institution. The Central National also held some of Mr. Devita's paper, and he likewise owns 15-28ths of the capital stock of $250,000 of this institution. But it developed that the Central National and but little of Mr. Devlin's paper and, when its officers displayed $600,000 in cash and made every effort to pay the depositors as fast as they made demands for their deposits, the excitement died, down and at closing time but a few small de-

At none of these banks, however, was the demand for with-drawals great, only the small depositors taking their money ewey, many of the neavy depositors here and the correspondents throughout the state offering assistance, and some of the local merchants making deposits.

J. R. Mulvane, president of the Bank of Topeka, which kept open after bank ing hours to accommodate any one who might come for their money, spoke confidently of the outcome, saying ais bank had plenty of available assets. Many reasons for the bank's troubles are assigned. It is stated on reliable authority, however, that the primary cause of Mr. Devlin's financial troubles is the Toluca & Spring Valley Railroad, which has commenced to build in Illinois lately. The road took a lot of money more than Mr. Devlin figured on-and the result was that he became hard pressed for funds. Three weeks ago he was taken with a serious sick spell. He was unable to give directions about his business. The managers of his numerous properties who had been drawing on Mr. Devlin's account in the First National, continued account in the First National, continued to draw, and as Mr. Devlin was not on hand to increase the account, it was soon exhausted. Then came the oferdraft, which was sufficient to warrant Vice-President Rossington's taking his action of today in closing the bank.
