BUREAUCRATS FLEE FROM STORM

KNUCKLE DOWN TO LEADER

Revolutionary Leaders in London Already Couried by Fugitives. Rebel Leaders Say Government Is Paralyzed.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 5.-(Special.)-The Daily News correspondent at London cables the following:

How seriously certain sections of the bureaucracy regard the outlook in Russia is shown by the fact that a score or more of the families of noted bureau crats have sought refuge in England, returned here today from its second voy-Moreover, the representatives of these families are conferring with Prince Kro-tamilies are conferring with Prince Krofamilies are conferring with Prince Kropotkin, as head of the revolutionary party outside of Russia, with a view of securing a favorable status under the expected Liberal government. Events in Odessa and Libau point to a condition in the interior that constitutes the greatest disturbance the revolutionaries have yet been able to create. The area involved is a big country that holds many millions of people. The armed power of the state has completely lost its power for some days, a thing of that never happened in the past.

MAKE JEWS THE SCAPEGOATS

Odessa Officials Stir Up People to Massacre Them.

ODESSA, July 6 - (Special.) - An infamous attempt is being made by the officials to place the whole responsibility for the rioting both here and in all of the cities in Southern Russia on the Jews, in order to save their own official positions. With that object in view, it is stated on absolutely reliable authority that not only have the officials sent reports to this effect to St. Petersburg, but that they are planning a general massacre of Jews, so that they can claim that an enraged populace rose against the plotters, who desire to overthrow the govern-

A police official who is unusually well informed stated that not only are other Jewish massacres planned, but that those who will participate in them are now being organized.

Martial law will be continued here for three months, during which time the people will be at the mercy of the Cossacks. Seventeen persons charged with having manufactured bombs were hanged bere last night, and other executions will take place today.

GORKY WORKS FOR FREEDOM

Says Peace Would Be Misfortune for

Work of Reform. PETERSBURG, July 5.-Maxim

Gorky, the novelist, who is living at Ko-kola, a small village on the coast of Finland, has refused a flattering offer to go on a lecture tour in the United States, preferring to remain for the pur-pose of aiding in the work of emancipating Russia. He is one of the recognized leaders of the Constitutionalists, and is visited daily by persons from all parts of Russia. He has a large income, gives the major portion of it to the cause which he has at heart.

Gorky is a great admirer of the United States, and of President Roosevelt, but, while he gives unstituted praise to the President's efforts toward bringing the war to an end, he says he thinks that, m a Russian standpoint, peace would be a misfortune.

"In spite of the cost of the war and the great loss of life, the struggle with Japan has proved to be an unmitigated blessing to Russia," said the novelist in an interview today. "It has opened the eyes of the country to the impossibility taken up by District Attorney Jerome. of the present regime and has already produced changes which were hardly dreamed of two years ago. An independent investigation made by the Associated Press shows that the solliers did not fire on the Putiloff workmen. But there was more or less rioting, during which some of the strikers fired revolvers and officers were stoned. Revolutionary proclamations were scattered broadcast among the crowds, and many arrests were made. At 6 o'clock this evening Cossacks and infantry patrols were about the works and the men were in an ugly mood. The managers of works threaten to close them indefinitely if the men do not resume work

Russia Ready to Suspend Hostilities in Orient.

Refusal of Armistice by Japan May Hasten Revolution, Leaving No. Government to Make Treaty. World's Peace Involved.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 5 .- The situation regarding the armistice is as follows: Russia has formally signified to President Roosevelt her desire for a lasting harbor of Akkerman and demanded coal and provisions. The authorities refused plenipotentiaries, who will be accompanied by eminent experts, fully empowered to conclude a treaty subject only to the ratification of the respective governments, but as a final step has indicated her readiness to suspend hostilities. She has avoided formally asking for an armistice, squadron, under Rear-Admiral Kruger, as a matter of pride. Under the circumstances, Russia could hardly go farther than she has

> Japan, so far as known has not yet ndicated her attitude, or if she has, Russia up to this afternoon has not been so informed. In diplomatic circles, the most earnest hope is expressed that Japan will consent, both for the sake of avoiding further bloodshed in Manchuria, and perhaps in order to prevent a catastrophe Russin which may shake the Romanoff throne and appail the world by its horrors. An eminent Ambassador of a great European power said to the Associated

"If Japan declines, it may prove to be a misfortune for the whole world. The position of Russia is critical. The Emperor, crushed by the defeats in the Far East and with almost civil war at home, has bowed his head to the inevitable. He wants peace and Japan has the proofs in her possession. Japan has vindicated her power and has won the admiration of the world. Nothing becomes a victor so much as a broad spirit of magnanimity. "If Japan still insists on humbling the Emperor's head into the dust and forcing a useless battle which will result in the loss of tens of thousands of lives, she may produce a cataclysm of anarchy greater than that of the French Revolution, which will leave her no government

Now that the steps which usually follow a suspension of hostilities have been arranged, why should Japan, simply because she enjoys the advantage of the military situation, inflict a defeat with its accompanying slaughter? Nothing would be gained by it and much might be lost."
