Mrs. Reveres, on the witness stand, testified that she sought only to protect her daughter from ruin at the hands of Bennett, who had circulated scandalous reports about her child. She stifled that she did say to Bennett, You dirty cur; you ought to be killed for trying to injure my little girl," but denied that she said she would kill him. She said further that her only purpose was to prevent Bennett from injuring her little daugher, whom she declared Bennett had been pursuing with his unwelcome Mrs. Reveres' evidence was corroborated by that of her daughter and another witness, who averred they heard what she said. The Methodist Congress was formally STEAMER W. H. Kraiger sails for San all the states of the Pacific Northwest, Francisco Wednesday noon. Cabin. 512: and many from Eastern centers are here and attended this first social function of a notable congress. Members of the Methdist Laymen's Social Union were the hosts of the evening, and provided a thoroughly enjoyable time for the visitors. There were five-minute addresses by three bishops—Bishop David H. Moore, resident bishop of Oregon; Bishop John W. Hamil-ten, of California, and Bishop J. H. Thoburn, of India. Dr. A. B. Leonard, the onary evangelist, also spoke briefly, and there were responses by men prom ent in Methodism both here and throughout the Northwest.

After the opening exercises in the auditorium, the guests were invited to partake of refreshments, which had been prepared and served by members of the Meth-odist Ladies' Ald Societies of the city, and the social hour which followed was one of especial pleasure both to the guests and bosts. Visitors were introduced, and a general acquaintance, which is one of the objects of the congress, begun. A feature evening which deserved especial mention was the splendid music furnished under the direction of Dr. R. A. Heritage by a trained chorus and soloists. The hurch was decorated for the occasion. This morning the work of the congress begins in good earnest, and from now until July 21 there will be morning and evening sessions. Bishop Moore will preside this morning, and "The Pioneer" will be the general subject. The remints cent discussion of Jason Lee, the first Methodist missionary coming to the Northwest, will be of particular interest, and will be led by John H. Coleman and followed up by W. D. Fenton.

By direction of Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald, Captain Moore last Saturday night dispatched Sergeant Hogeboom and Policemen Scott and Daly to Fourth and Washington streets to order Burns to move on. He had caused a large crowd to gather, so that pedestrians were in-convenienced. He refused to move when asked in a dignified and cordial manner. but was not arrested because Mr. Fitzgerald had directed that another course be pursued. Instead, a warrant was issued for him Monday, and he was arrested at night.

C. E. S. Wood, counsel for the defense, made an extended argument, after first highly complimenting the officials on what he termed their commendable course in the manner of making the arrest. That it was accomplished quietly, he said, was a credit to the authorities. He thought, however, that this was more than an ordinary case, as it struck, he declared, at the very root of liberty.

Mr. Wood said that the only complaint against Burns had come from the pro-

He thought it a very dangerous thing to permit others to violate the law, and to single out Burns ment. It looked, he said, like

"I venture to say that no other politician or political party-either Republi-can, Democrat or Prohibitionist-would attempt to hold a meeting at Fourth and Washington streets," said Mr. Fitzgerald, and any so-called 'faker,' if blockading the streets or sidewalks and asked to move on by the police, would immediately comply. He would not defy the authorities and all Pures. There ties, as did Burns. There is no oppres-sion about this case. There are plenty of streets where Burns could speak and where those who wished to hear him could do so without blockading streets and sidewalks on crowded thoroughfares. Judge Cameron found Burns guilty, and fixed his fine at $5. Mr. Wood asked for time in which to consider action. Robbed While Drinking.

One of the most mysterious of robberies has been occupying the atten-tion of the police and District Attorney for two days. Henry Morigee, a stran-ger in the city, is the victim. He lost $170 last Friday night, but investigation thus far has failed to bring the gulity person to justice. I is probable no arrests will be made.

"A Fool and His Money."

"He's as funny as Collier." That was an expression heard last night after the performance at the Belasco. A man who ought to know said it as he was leaving the theater, and he was speaking of Eu-gene Ormonde, who this week essays Col-ller's greatest role in "A Fool and His Money." Eleanor Gordon and "Jack" Sainpolls also demonstrate the fact that are comedy actors of high-class merit.

"The Heir Apparent."

"The Heir Apparent" at the Empire this week is by far the most pretentious production yet offered by the Empire Stock Company. It has sprung into in-stant favor with the patrons of Port-land's cozy up-town stock house. The play will continue all this week with the regular matinee every day at 2:15, and the evening performance at $:15. There is no advance in the regular Em-

The Baker.

There is a good bill at the Baker this eek, and although no particular act stands out above the others as a top-liner the programme is uniformly strong. Karl and Ashton present a novelty which they call "The Human Trapeze." which is very thrilling and realistic. Tom Mack, a well and favorably-known monologist, appears in black-face and scatters a lot of sunshine. The Monroes, Mark and Bertha, in "The Beauty Doctor." offer a sketch that possesses many of the qualities of success and they get all that is possible out of it. An illustrated song "Across the Bridge of Gold," as sung by Roy McBrain, is meeting with much favor. Murry and Lane, operatic vocal-ists, render a number of grand opera and popular airs splendidly. The Bakerograph, with its array of interesting moving pic-tures, concludes the performance.

The bill opens with "Zerelda," clever trapeze performer, whose act possesses much merit and originality. Carl Sander sgainst Burns had come from the proprietors of a drugstore. Joseph Bonner sings an lilus trated song, "I'm Trying So Hard to Forget You." Joseph M. Pullman Equipment in Demand.

Owing to the enormous continuing demand for equipment to be used by travel to Portland, the Pullman Company has found it impossible to supply the demand, and has wired the Portland office to return cars to that point running deadhead. More than 100,000 pieces of linen have been handled in the Portland office of the Puliman Com-pany the past three days from the cars arriving and departing. All eastbound trains are moving very heavy, taking empty Pullmans to points where they will again be returned to the Coast with other passengers whose reserva-tions have been made long in advance. Yesterday morning there were 200 Pullman cars in the Northern Pacific terminal yards, representing a value. with their furnishings, of more than $2,000,000, and a yard statistician fig-ured out that if made up in a solid train, with the necessary locomotives to handle them, there would be be-tween two and three miles of equip-

Mrs. E. E. Thomas, a sister, of Mrs. Suess, testified yesterday that Mrs. Suess told her that her husband came home one night unexpectedly and Willie Mattoon, who was visiting, made a hurried departure through a window, and his trousers caught on a nail and were torn.
Mrs. Suess stated to her that Mattoon
"tore his pants" and she was going to mend them.

Mrs. Suess denied this incident. Mrs. Suesa denied that she permitted Dr. Charles Watts to kiss her. He did it by force. He came to her house to yish Kale Hannegan. There was some evidence about the doctor having broken his nose. Miss Hannegan testified that Dr. Watts kissed them both. The doctor took hold of her in the dark, and bumped his nose against her head. Suess testified that he never heard anything about his wife carrying on with Mattoon until he heard the evidence in the courtroom. Suess contradicted various usations made against him by his wife When she was preparing to leave him he said she packed all of the fine dishes in said sne packed all of the nne disnes in the house. At a late hour last night the jury had not reached an agreement. Mr. and Mrs. Wood testified yesterday. Mrs. Wood admitted that she received a letter from Mrs. Litt, but did not know there was any money in it. This agrees with the evidence of Mrs. Litt that she did not tell Mrs. Wood there was any money in the letter. Mr. Wood stated that he gave the letter to the purser of the steame Victoria to be placed in the mail sack Mrs. Wood acknowledged that Mrs. Litt asked her to mail the letter in Seattle. Dan J.
