SKULL IS FRACTURED

Axel Stornberg Found Near Linnton.

HE FELL FROM A TRAIN

Tells of Having Been Robbed and Dragged Into the Brush Afterwards, and Is in a Precarious Condition.

With a gash in his bead several inches long which may prove fatal, Axel Stornberg about 20 years old was discovered by Under Sheriff Morden and Deputy Sheriff Harvey L. Moreiand, in the brush near the town of Linnton yesterday.

Mr. Miller, the section foreman at Linnton, appeared at the Sheriff's office at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and reported the discovery of a bloody hat and a pool of blood.

Messrs. Morden and Moreland proceeded mmediately to the scene in a buggy. They found Stornberg staggering about in the brush in a dazed condition trying to find some water to drink. He had evidently just arisen from where he had been lying. When questioned by the officers concerning what had happened to him be answered in a varie sort of a heers concerning what had happened to him, he answered in a vague sort of a way. He said he fell from a Northern Pacific train and then proceeded to re-late that he had been crazy for some time, and somebody had dragged him into the brush. He told his name and gave his residence as 76 Hood street. He then collapsed completed, and no further statement could be procured from him. He was placed in the buggy and removed with all possible speed to St. Vincent's Hospital where Drs. Wilson and Hamilton performed an operation. He anffered from a depressed fracture of the skull, and his condition was pronounced
