Calvary Baptist Church Repairs—Although repairs are not entirely completed, Calvary Baptist Church, East Eighth and Grant streets, was reopened yesterday. Rev. Lawrence Black, the pastor, occupied the pulpit morning and evening. Repairs which will cost between $600 and $800 are under way. Four classrooms have been arranged in the back part of the church for children and department work, while the young men have fitted up a room for their own use over the gallery. Two stairways have been built from the floor of the auditorium to the galleries. Also the walls of the auditorium have been retinted. CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH REPAIRS. of the auditorium have been retinted.

Mr. Black congratulated the church upon what had been done, and what is still to be done in the renovation of the church, which will include carpeting. In preparing classrooms for children and a ciubing classrooms for children and a cub-room for young men, Calvary Church is following out the suggestions of Judge Willis Brown, of Salt Lake City, in pro-viding for its young people special ad-vantages. Mr. Black also thanked the congregation for giving him a vacation of one month, which will be taken in August. He expects to camp out, and come back better prepared for hard work. The pulpit will be supplied during the absence of the pastor by Rev. Mr. Secor. of Baker City.

RATED AS A MILLIONAIRE.-The financial career of Joseph Burkhard, formerly a resident of East Portland, but now of Los Angeles, Cal., reads almost like a romance. Mr. Burkhard is now rated as a millionaire. Beginning in a small way in East Portland, as partner of Gus Strubs in a meat market in pioneer days, he acquired considerable realty. He op-erated a packing-house on East Washington street, and was president of the East ton street, and was president of the East Portland Water Company. Just before the great financial slump in 1885, he sold most of his East Portland property, re-taining the ground on which the Burk-hard building. East Burnside street, stands, and moved to Los Angeles. Strange as it may be, the transaction that seemed the least promising has placed Mr. Burkhard in the ranks of the millionaires of California. He owned naires of California. He owned the old East Side Hotel, which stands on Union avenue and East Stark. This he traded to R. A. Crippins for a lot of rough and wild lands in Santa Monica, a Japanese Acquiring Monopolt—C. H. Welch a well-known berry-raiser at Mount Tabor, says that the Japanese are absorbing the berry-raising business in that district. They have already leased for long terms nearly all the berry lands on the Base Line Road in the neighborhood of Russellville, and are negotiating for more land. Mr. Weich thinks that they will eventually drive other growers out of the business in that neighborhood. They seem to be willing to pay the owners of cultivated lands, on long leases, more than the owners can make out of the crops, and make a profit on the investment.

ACTIONS ARE MYSTERIOUS

Breach of Discipline May Cause De tective's Dismissal From the Service if He Returns to Portland, Says Chief.

Unofficially Detective Hartman's where much agitated over the detective's acflons, especially as Hartman has hereto-fore borne an excellent reputation as an officer and an upholder of the department's discipline.

Yesterday Mrs. Hartman, the detective's wife, visited Chief of Police Gratmacher at police headquarters and declared that there was nothing irregular in her husband's absence, and that she had received a letter from the officer dated at Chicago. Chief Gritmmacher, however, has not heard from the officer, and the Chicago police have declared Martman never put in an appearance at headquarters in that city. Therefore the detective is officially missing.

The local department has absolute evidence that delivery was made to Detective Hartman at Huntington of the message of the Chief of Police telling him sage of the Chief of Police telling him that the man he was journeying after had been released, and ordering him to re-turn. The detective did not return, but kept on and reached Chicago, according to Mrs. Hartman. This was the first breach of discipline. The second breach occurred when upon reaching Chicago. occurred when, upon reaching Chicago, if he did reach that city, he failed to re-port back to the department here of con-ditions as he found them, and asking instructions. Absolutely nothing has been heard from the officer since he left Port-land, though he has been gone il days. He is supposed to have reached Chicago Tuesday morning on schedule time, as Mrs. Hartman declares she has received a letter from him at that place. What Hartman is doing in that city, if he is there, is what the police desire to know. His wife says Hartman wrote her he was attempting to locate and rearrest the man for whom he started. The department smiles at that, knowing that the man is wanted in another city, and has written letters to friends in this city, which latters to iriends in this city, which have been seen by detectives.

"Detective Hariman's actions are mysterious to me," said Chief Gritzmacher yesterday. "I cannot conceive why he has not reported to headquariers and notified us of his whereabouts and intentions. He us of his whereabouts and intentions. He is in the pay of the police service, and is supposed to be working in that service, yet we have not known of his whereabouts for ten days. Heretofore he has been an exemplary officer, and there has been nothing chronicled against him on the books of this department. Now, however, we have much against him."

It is expected that, should Detective Hariman return to Portland, he will be instantly suspended and an investigation made into his actions by the members of the police committee. Unless he is able to explain satisfactorily why he did not act according to the instructions of the Chief in the message sent him at Huntington, he will be dismissed from the service.

Sale of Matrimonial Bureau Gets Man Into Trouble.

Some time ago Andrew Hamilton advertised a half interest in his matrimonial bureau for sale and represented that there was money in the business. W. V. Young saw the advertisement, wanted the money, and sought out Hamilton, finally purchasing the half interest for the sum of 1850. After Young was duly installed as a partner of the concern, Hamilton again advertised the business for sale. A third party, whose name is unknown to the police, brought forward the ready money. Hamilton sold him the concern for the sum of 1600 and pocketed the money, neglecting to pay young his share of the proceeds. Young went to Hamilton and requested to be shown. Hamilton explained that Young lost. Young threatened proceedings and received allief his 1250 from Hamilton with the exception of 18250, which Hamilton with the exception of 18250, which Hamilton with the exception of 18250, which Hamilton with the embezalement of 18250. Testerday afternoon, after waiting for Hamilton at his lodgings for several hours. Detectives Carpenter and Resing located their man at Tenth and Jefferson streets. They explained that there was a warrant.

"It isn't legal to make an arrest on Sunday," Hamilton explained to the officers. Nevertheless the arrest was made and Hamilton taken to the City Jail. There he was released on 500 cash ball, and Young stated that if a man could get away with 80150 and only have to put up 500 ball he had found a new way to make $12.00 a day and get rich quick without fear of the law. Judge Cameron will juggle with the mystery this morning.

Several Robberies Reported.

The police were made aware last night of several small robberies committed by sneak thieves. W. O. Williams. 25 Twelfth street, reported a grip stolen from the Hotel Condon. Fifth and Alder streets. W. N. Luckey informed the police that some one entered his room in the Jefferson House. Front and Jefferson streets, and stole a sult of ciothes. Five women were arrested in the North End and charged with robbing an Italian of 120. The women were colored.

Husband Is Missing.

Mrs. William Condon, 309 Sixteenth atreet North, reported to the police fast night that her husband went to Betacada Saturday afternoon to see about purchasing a restaurant and was to have returned Saturday evening but did not do so, and has not been seen since. She fears four play, as her husband, expecting to make a purchase, had quite a sum of money on his person.

The process which White River Flour undergoes to reach the perfect state in which you buy it at your grocer's is one in which real lightning plays an important part.

You of course know that hard-wheat flour is best for breadmaking, yet you have a sometimes wished it was lighter in color and quality.

This wish is now fulfilled by our new electric process.

By treating hardwheat flour with elec-tricity, we absorb certain oily properties to which were due the darker tint and heaviness of heardwheat flour in its untreated Co condition.

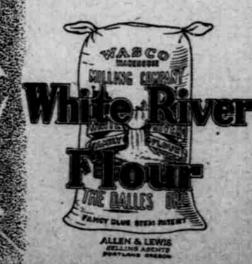

By this process the breadmaking qualities are improved-the flour is made more lively and granular, as well as more digestible and nutritious.

Details of Process

Immediately after being rolled and while in the agitator, the flour is treated with "ionized" air, the air that has been torn or shattered into "ions" (electrified atoms) by a flaming electric discharge (lightning.) This ionized air then is pumped into the agitator and blown among the flour particles, reaching every minute granule. The effect is to expel the wheat-oil, making the flour lighter in color and livelier to absorb

White River Flour, clarified by ionized air, retains its nutrition in quickly digestible form and is freed from those properties which, in other hardwheat flours, tend to make bread heavy.
