Headquarters For Souvenirs Big Stocks Tiny Prices

Another Important Millinery Event Today

"Bijou" Salons, Annex, Second Floor. Yesterday's great sale has not quite swept the department clean. It has lowered the stock perceptibly. And that is saying much when you think of the enormous stock of Hats as comprises the OLDS, WORTMAN & KING lines in question. We find, on looking through the lot of Trimmings, Hats, "Milkmaid" and "Elliott" styles, and a variety of dress shapes, very attractively trimmed—values ranging up to $5. These we have laid aside for a special sale today at a most ridiculous price as compared with actual values. We have decided to offer these Hats for one day only, and no doubt they will all be gone ere the day is at a choice of the entire lot at $1.95.

Somebody Said Something Yesterday About SHOE BARGAINS

Yes, we heard it repeated again and again by scores of people who had "shopped"—then came here and bought. It was like this: "It takes something beside 'cheap' to make a bargain." Indeed it does, folk. It takes style, and quality and snap. There's nothing really "cheap" in the offerings of factory discards. It's a heap "cheaper" to select at sale prices from regular stocks of the Olds, Wortman & King standard. Hundreds found it so yesterday—hundreds more will vouch for the fact today. A Midsummer Sale of Rare Old Oriental Rugs

HOUSEHOLD AND HOTEL SUPPLY DEPOT Fourth Floor.

What music is to the ear, paintings and rare old rugs are to the eye—a sweet blending of color-phrasing. Color often makes a more profound impression than sound. How long lives the sensation caused by an Autumn forest, a glowing sunset at sea, the phosphorescent lightness of the great water at night! These scenes make impressions that live forever. It is the same with these rare and beautiful old rugs from the Orient—these rugs that are pictures without frames, to detract from their strange, peculiar magnificence—pictures of breadth and color and feeling. We shall place on sale this morning, the sale to continue through the week, several hundred choice rugs, selected by our representative from the Oriental collectors; these are small, medium and carpet sizes, and include all the most desirable makes picked carefully from Persian and Turkish collections. These are not "Sale" rugs, nor were they bought with any such thought in view. Every rug is from our own superb stock, the very choicest in each of their respective grades. People who select from this splendid convention this week will secure values to be remembered. Note the reductions—they tell but the preface to the story—you must come and see the grand old beauties—fit for heirlooms—in order to fully appreciate the importance of the sale. Ready at 8 o'clock this morning.
