Pronger PREACHER VISITS PORTLAND. Mr. Eades, a well-known plo odist preacher of La Grande Methodist preacher of La Grande and Eastern Oregon, is a guest of his niece, Mrs. Jennie Misener, in McMillen's Additioh. Rev. Mr. Eades is now above 80 years old. He was one of the early ploneers in Eastern Oregon more than 20 years ago. Stationed at old La Grande before there was a railroad through Grand Ronde Valley, or even one contemplated he helped found the Methodist Church of that place. Later, when the Blue Mountain University was projected, Rev. Mr. Eades was foremost in assisting Rev. Mr. Eades was foremost in assisting it, hind afterward he became a professor in one of the departments. Nearly all the men associated with him at that time are gone—Rev. H. K. Hines, Daniel Chaplain and others, but he remains a landmark of early days in La Grande.

INJURED IN A RUNAWAY.-Bert Camp. bell, who drives a delivery wagon, was severely fliqured yesterday in a runaway accident. He drove on Union avenue northward from East Morrison street unhad nearly reached East Oak. when the wheels of one side of his wag opped down in a large opening in the vated roadway. This frightened his ree, which sprang forward. Campbell held on to the lines and was jerked over the front of the wagon, falling on the plank with much force. The horse was stopped at East Burnside street. Camp-bell was picked up covered with brulses. One hand was lacerated and the middle finger partis, split open, but no bones were broken. Mr. Campbell's back also was severely sprained by his fall.

NEGRO CUTS CHINESE .- John Johnson : NEGRO CUTS CHINESS.—John Johnson, a bad negro, who has been involved in several cutting acrapes, struck Ah Sing, a Chinese, at Second and Pine streets, last night with a knife or razor, cutting a deep gash between his eyes. Johnson was selzed by Patrolman Peterson, but broke and ran, and the whole North Endran too. Peterson shot at him once, and he was captured a few blocks down the street, C. A. Glimore, when he heard the shooting, ran with the crowd, a little in shooting, ran with the crowd, a little in the lead. He was immediately taken for the man wanted by those who had not seen the trouble. He was arrested and taken protesting to the station by three policemen, and occupied the center of the stage for several minutes.

WOULD AVOID THE CLARNIE HILL -The WOULD AVOID THE CLARNIE HILL.—The D. R. & N. Co. has surveyors in the field between St. Johns and Troutdale. This party is working closely to the Columbia Slough road, crossing and recrossing it many times. The party is camped at Fairview. This is the new branch for the Portland end of the O. R. & N., to avoid the heavy Clarnie grade. By running a new line north of the present one along the Columbia Slough and swinging around the Columbia Slough and swinging around through Lower St. Johns, this steep hill will be avoided. Between Troutdale and Clarnie the grade is quite steep, and freight trains. trains usually require a double header to get over it.

JUVENILE IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.—
In connection with the work of the Juvenile Court it has been found necessary to provide both employment and entertainment for the boys who are taken into court. To do this effectively, organization of a definite and permanent character is absolutely necessary. Knowing that all are interested in the welfare of the boys, the future citizens of Portland, the public is extractly invited to meet Friday, at 2 P. M. in Judge Frazer's courtroom, at which time a Juvenile Improvement Asso. header to get over it. which time a Juvenile Improvement Asso. clation will be organized PUNERAL OF TWO PIONERRS.-At 11 o'clock yesterday morning the funerals of two Oregon pioneers, who came to Port-land in 182, were held. Funeral services of J. M. Partiow, formerly a river pilot, were held at his late home, 101 East Twelfth street, where there was a large attendance of relatives and friends. John H. Rathbun was buried from the Monta-villa M. Wood-Distillation Plant Thered.— Messra Williams and Young, in charge of the wood-distilling plant located on Grand avenue, near Inman, Poulsen & Co.'s sawnill, yesterday gave representatives of the St. Johns Board of Trade a practical demonstration of what may be done. This plant is built to distil tar, turpentine, gas and other ingredients from fir wood. Portland men are interested in this new process of turning wastage into a profitable product, and after a year's test in the production of these different ingredients the machine works satisfactorily.

For a time he figured quite prominently in California politics and was once discussed as a Vice-Presidential candidate. Now, however, he declares that he is out of polities, and takes no particular interest in party matters. During the cloqing years of his father's second term as President, Mr. Grant was his private secretary and was in close touch with Administration affairs of the period. He has attended every exposition, including that at Philadelphia, in 1858, and says that in point of beauty the Lewis and Clark Fair is superior to any of them. The Grant party will remain in the city for several days longer.

Arrangements had already been perfected for a reception at the residence of Bishop Morris, which took piace in the evening of the day following publication of the protest against confirmation. There the bishop-coadjutor-elect met many of the rectors of the city, some from outside points, and a large assemblage of members of the churches of the discrete located in Portland. One of those present at the noonday meeting stated that the reason for submitting the evidence to the other members of the convention was because the protestors, who had accumulated this evidence, did not themselves care to give it for publication at this time, and therefore intended that the other members of the convention might make it public property if they cared to do so after having read the documents.
