King George, of Friendly Islands, Will Not Quit.

APPEALS TO KING EDWARD

Resists Plans of English Merchants to Depose Him-Many Troubles of Large, Fat King of South Seas.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 37 .- (Special.) -After the manner of the Germans in the Caroline Islands, the English residents of the Friendly group in the South Seas are trying to oust the native King and secure absolute control of affairs. The schooner William Olsen, arriving today from the Friendly Islands, brings a story of an attempt of the Englishmen to take charge of the government, and of the re-sistance of the native king, George Tabu Bome years ago an Englishman named Baker, who had gained residence in the Friendly group and become a power among the natives, was elevated to the continuous of Premier Richer died a few position of Premier. Baker died a few years ago, and since then the English merchants and other residents of the group have yearned for supreme author-ity over the islands.

Appeals to King Edward.

The Englishmen approached King George Tabu II with a proposition to abdicate and enjoy an annual pension of $12,000, or take the alternative of exile to South Africa addition. South Africa without a pension. The South Africa without a pension. The king, who had enjoyed the companion-ship of Baker, the clever English Pre-mier, had become too well educated in modern diplomacy, however, and after brief consideration, declined to accept

Bo he packed his saratoga and dress-sult case, placed his crown in the safety-deposit vault, and, with his constitution in his pocket, took steamer for New Zealand, where he hopes to find a friend to plead his cause at the court of Edward VII.

Has Many Royal Troubles.

George II has found the King business little but a trial and tribulation. Shortly after he ascended the throne, the keeper f the royal treasury skipped out with nost of the movable assets of the king-om. That would have been bad enough, dom. That would have been bad enough, but the defaulter took with him the royal navy, which was found later wrecked on a nearby coral reef.

King George II is probably the largest monarch in the world. He is 22 years old, sinnds more than six feet high and weighs over 20 pounds. He is said to have been a very good King of the Friendly Islands. He is a native, but is classed as a good fellow, fairly well educated and as a man who would pass educated and as a man who would pass empany anywhere in the world.

It was one of Senator Fulton's chief concerns, before Mr. Cotton was selected, to see that a man of his own choosing should get the place. Now that the question is reopened, Senator Fulton's friends

What part Mr. Heney will take in the matter is not yet manifest. His veto to any man's appointment, it is generally believed, would hold with the Administration and kill off that man's candidacy. Had he had cause to send in a veto against Mr. Cotton, the latter man would probably not have been chosen, for the President undoubtedly has full confidence in Mr. Heney's judgment. It is understood that Mr. Heney neither supported nor opposed Mr. Cotton, and it does not appear that he has put in a hand up to this time.

The candidates were very busy yesterday. Among the foremost aspirants are R. S. Bean and C. E. Mc-Bride, member of the State Circuit Court, on account of friendship and McBride's recognized judicial attainments, but for reasons of politics and McBride's age, 38 years, he is understood not to have ex-pected his appointment. The President desires to appoint a man between 40 and 10 years of age. Other candidates are: Ralph W. Wilbur, whose hopes are en-couraged by college friendship with dates. Senator Fulton prefers T. A. Mc-Charles H. Robb; and L. R. Webster, County Judge of Multnomah. Still others are: E. B. Watson, ex-member of the Oregon Supreme Court; John L. Rand, of Baker City; Stephen A. Lowell, of Pendleton; Henry E. McGinn, of Port-land, and A. F. Sears and M. C. Géorge, Judges of the Multnomah Circuit Court. stand being practically deserted.
