OVERRUNNING THE ISLAND

Japanese Take Towns in North Sakhalin With Many Prisoners.

TOKIO, July 27.—It is officially reported that a Japanese detachment which was protecting the landing of troops on Sakhalin Island, dislodged the enemy from Aikawa and vicinity, occupied the first line of defenses at Polovina and then the second line at Aikawa, on July 24.

The Russian strength consisted of one battalion of infantry, recently dispatched to the scene, besides several hundred volunteers, with eight field pieces from Alexandrovsk, placed on the hills in the direction of Loukoof.

Before this, one detachment of Japanese infantry, dispatched under the protection of torpedobats toward the pier at Alexandrovsk, dispersed a body of Russians attempting to burn the pier, which was captured intact.

A detachment, helped by a torpedobat, landed at Mugart, dislodged the Russians and vicinity, occupied the first line of defenses at Aikawa, on the same afternoon.

Continuing the advance, Alexandrovsk was taken and entered on the same evening, after some resistance. The Russians continued their resistance at the redoubt east of town, and on an embankment to the northeast. Stubborn resistance was offered, and the fighting did not cease from sundown to dawn, the Russians holding their position east of Alexandrovsk.

The Japanese then attacked, pushing the Russians toward Nomovik and completely occupying that place. Alexandrovsk escaped, being destroyed by a conflagration. Two hundred prisoners were taken. Gun carriages, ammunition and provisions were also captured.
