There will be a mighty struggle for supremacy at the Lewis and Clark Exposition today between the doughty and enterprising Southern Californians and the sturdy Scandinavians. Both have special days at the Exposition, and yesterday they have been shouting to shoulder in the preparations to celebrate. The Southern Californians have been marshaling their forces all this week for the final struggle, fresh recruits arriving daily from the Sunset State. The Southern Californians claim that have held special days at the Exposition this week have combined and present a line of battle formation that is expected to hold firm without retreating so much as one inch in the enemy's favor.

Scandinavians Are Busy. The Scandinavians have also been busy preparing and are confident of carrying off the laurels of the day, although they say they fully appreciate the strength of the Southern Californians. The ranks of the Scandinavian force are made up of natives of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland, who are now Americans. Some who were at the Exposition in 1893, flushed with anticipations of victory. The Southern Californians say they are more than 100 strong, and the Scandinavians say they are more than 100 strong, and it would be impossible to give a correct estimate.

There will be no blood shed or noses broken at the Exposition tomorrow, the members of the two opposing forces will vie with each other in celebrating, being hospitable to all and enjoying themselves. The Scandinavians will fight with music, song and speeches, and sincere and wholesome hospitality. The Southern Californians will adopt similar tactics, except the song will be eliminated, this being an exclusive weapon of the Scandinavians.

The Southern Californians will make their headquarters in the state building, from which they will rally forth upon the grounds to drive the crowds to their magnificent structure where good old California hospitality, equal to that of the South, will reign supreme. The Administration Band will open the festivities at the California building at 10 o'clock in the morning. At 11 o'clock the Southern Californians will give a representative display which needless to state will be attended by one of the largest crowds of the entire Exposition. President H. W. Goode will address the address of welcome, and responses will be made by representatives of the different Southern California counties.

With Informal Reception. In the afternoon at 2 o'clock an informal reception will be given visiting Californians, at which elaborate refreshments will be served. During the day thousands of oranges and small bags of sugar and Lima beans will be distributed among the visitors to the building. Los Angeles County will distribute the oranges, and Ventura county will give away the sugar and beans.

The wine exhibit will be made a special feature at the California building today. The structure will be open and will see for the first time a waterfall of the California red wine. Over a miniature reproduction of the famed Vernal Falls of Yosemite Valley, the wine of grapes will boil and surge down the cliffs at the rate of 300 gallons an hour. Several attempts have been made at other expositions to have a waterfall of grapes, but it is stated that this will be the first of its kind in the country.

Exercises in Auditorium. The Scandinavians have the Auditorium in its entirety at the Exposition today. They will hold their exercises at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Governor George E. Chamberlain will bid the guests welcome to the state fair and most of prominence will deliver addresses in the different tongues of the four flags represented, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland. A grand concert will be held in the Auditorium at night, at which singing societies from San Francisco, Seattle, Tacoma, Everett and Portland will participate. A grand male chorus will open and close the concert and the audience will join in "America."

Columbia County, which also celebrates at the Exposition today, does not intend to be overlooked in the rush. There will be several hundred people at the Exposition striving to impress upon the distinguished visitors that the Southern Californians and the Scandinavians are not the whole thing, and that Columbia County is playing an important part in the events of the day. The Columbia County exercises will be held in the Oregon building at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. President Jefferson Myers, of the Oregon State Commission, will deliver the address of welcome, and the response will be made by Judge T. A. McBride, of the Fifth Judicial District. There will be several vocal and instrumental numbers on the programme. A reception will be given in the Oregon building following the exercises.

Distinguished Winemaker at Fair. Colonel Theodore Gier, of Alameda, Cal., the man who is said to have done more for the wine-making and grape-growing industries than any other man in the United States, and who is also one of the most expert judges of wine, is at the Lewis and Clark Exposition. Besides being the proud possessor of several gold medals for making the best wine, Mr. Gier also bears on his breast the Order of the Crown conferred upon him by Emperor William of Germany for services rendered during the Boer uprising in 1902. The badge of honor is of pure gold, in the shape of a Maltese cross, and is suspended from a blue silk bow.

Dr. J. Q. A. Henry, Temperance Advocate, Coming. "The brilliant and persuasive oratory of Dr. J. Q. A. Henry, of America, has attracted large and more influential audiences in the temperance crusade than any other since the days of John B. Gough," says the London Educator. Dr. Henry was formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, but in 1896 went to Great Britain to take charge of the anti-temperance work in that country, and where he is now engaged in that work. He has been a great success wherever he has been throughout the United Kingdom, and Sir George Williams, founder of the now almost universal Y. M. C. A., says: "In sending Dr. Henry to us, America has given us one of her most eloquent sons. He is a strong thinker, a magnetic speaker, and displays a strong individuality of character in the unfolding courage with which he presents his convictions. He has been characterized the 'John B. Gough of the West,' and 'the Gating-Gun in Action,' and is well known throughout this country as a popular preacher and lecturer."

Everybody who patronizes the Tavern is completely satisfied, and becomes at once an advertising agent for Portland's greatest grill. You will be one if you try the Tavern today. Opposite Oregonian building.

Ohio Society Entertains. The Ohio Society of Oregon held a very enthusiastic meeting at Knights of Pythias Hall last night, W. M. Cake presiding. About 120 members and visitors were present.

The society has changed its headquarters from the Chamber of Commerce building to the Oregon building at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, where a register will be kept for visitors from Ohio to register.

After the business meeting of the following programme was given: Instrumental solo, Miss E. Hoben; vocal solo, Miss Carrie D. Seal; reading, Mrs. Millie Perkins. Dr. Ella K. Dearborn closed the exercise by reading a historical sketch of Whitman's famous ride from Oregon to Washington, D. C. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the refreshment committee.

First Boy Named After Explorers. A curly-haired baby boy, a little over two years of age, was the recipient of much attention and admiration at the Exposition yesterday. This little boy is not only pretty and attractive, but he has other charms for the fair officials, as his name is Lewis Clark Metzger, the first baby named after the two famous explorers in whose honor the Exposition is held.

Mr. and Mrs. George Metzger, the parents, took their little son yesterday to the Exposition and showed him to the officials. They were given a big bunch of admission tickets, which was promised by the fair management for the first baby named after Lewis and Clark. The management will have a large photograph of Lewis Clark Metzger framed and hung in the Administration building. The father of the boy is a school teacher at Gresham.

SEWING-MACHINE NEEDLES. For all makes of machines at five cents per package, and everything else certain to please at greatly reduced prices. Look for the red A. 24 Morrison st. 24 Williams ave. Portland, Oregon.

PAPE EASILY WINS

Defeats Gloss and Patton in Single Events.

TAKES AND KEEPS LEAD

Other Rowing Contests on Guild's Lake Are Interesting and Attract Large Crowd of Visitors to See Them.

Alex W. Pape, of the Dolphin Club, San Francisco, holder of the amateur championship of the Coast and Pacific Northwest for single sculls, had no trouble in retaining the title at the rowing match on Guild's Lake yesterday afternoon, defeating E. O. Gloss and William Patton, of the Portland Rowing Club with ease. Pape jumped into the lead at the start and was several lengths ahead at the busy, which he rounded with his celebrated "knee turn" in four strokes. He slowed up somewhat on the run home and allowed Gloss to come within two or three lengths of him, but later made a spurt and finished about four lengths ahead. Patton was badly outclassed, and was fully 150 yards behind the leaders. The race was scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock, but it was nearly 5 before there was even a semblance of preparation, the veracious and apparently unnecessary delay being occasioned by the poor arrangements which Pape afterward pronounced the most "rotten" he had ever encountered, and in this expression of opinion he was corroborated by about every person present.

A line of posts extend across the northern portion of the lake, and in order to secure a course of one and one-half miles it was found expedient to remove a sufficient number of these posts to permit the trail racing shells to get through. The members of the Portland Rowing Club claim that H. W. Kerrigan, who is in charge of the athletic features of the Exposition, had promised not only to remove the posts, but also have the club bring its boats over to the lake Thursday night and left in charge of a keeper, and that acting under this same promise, they sent a number of the boats down to the lake in tow of a launch, but no arrangement whatsoever, they say, had been made for their accommodation, and they were forced to bring them back to the clubhouse.

Kerrigan wanted to postpone the races that had been set for yesterday afternoon until this morning, saying he would have the posts removed in the meantime, but the participants insisted on racing anyhow, even at the expense of the shorter course, as many persons had visited the fair especially to witness the contests, and the club did not think it was right to disappoint them. Pape, who had come all the way from Goldbeide, Nev., especially to contest at the invitation of the Exposition authorities, was on the point of backing out entirely when he saw the drift of things. He says that under no circumstances would he race with the fair again under similar conditions.

The Other Events. George Luders easily defeated E. E. Harley in the junior single. Both are members of the Portland Rowing Club. In the race for lapstreak four a collision occurred about 200 yards from the turn, and both crews were locked together for several seconds, the judges finally separating them and placing them at the turning buoy, from which point the race home over half the course, the crew composed of A. E. Allen (No. 2), A. S. Allen (No. 3), W. T. Allen (No. 4) and A. Allen (stroke), having a slight advantage over A. B. Stringer (bow), E. Orth (No. 2), A. Peterson (No. 3) and A. Pfander (stroke). All are members of the local club, and in fact all of yesterday's contestants were from Portland, with the exception of Pape.

The junior double was the last race of the day, and was by far the most interesting from a racing standpoint. E. B. Harley and George Luders only finished about four inches ahead of C. Marshall and J. Rosenfeld. After the race Gloss announced a desire to row Pape on the Willamette River today over a straightaway course of 1/2 miles, claiming that he was handicapped at the shorter distance. It is doubtful whether Pape will pay any attention to this challenge, as he does not consider Gloss in the same class with him, but announced last night that he was willing to row the latter in San Francisco for a $50 trophy. Or he might possibly be induced to remain here and row on the Willamette River, providing the inducements along those lines were sufficiently attractive, as he is anxious to return home. He was not in the least degree fatigued by the contest, but seemed a bathing suit immediately afterward and remained in the water several minutes. By winning yesterday's match, Pape not only retains the championship, but was also awarded a gold medal and elegant silver loving cup. Negotiations are now pending whereby he may be induced to row Gloss on the river, and it is believed

THE FIGHT YET TO COME

One Marion County Candidate Addresses Himself to Another.

SALEM, Or., July 28.—(To the Editor.)—The following appears in the Oregon City Courier of July 21: "Mr. Yooss has visiting cards printed that are American flags in miniature, only in the corner where the stars should be in the picture of the eagle. Mr. Clark will be the only Marion County candidate," said Mr. Yooss. "When the primary election rolls around all the rest of the Salem fellows will have gone into innocuous desuetude. I know the situation better than any other man, and I'll be left standing when all the others are down."

The foregoing statement affords the best evidence in the world that our friend Mr. Yooss does not know anything about the situation. He has had to make an impressive statement he has been led into an extraordinary claim that seems to call for a rejoinder. It was because of the conviction of leading Republicans all over the country that he could not carry Marion County under any circumstances that other candidates were suggested, but there has been a desire among those who do not favor him to give him fair and respectful treatment. It will not conduce to pleasant relations, nor in any way affect the chances of the other "fellows" to say at this time that anything is settled, for they are not going into "innocuous desuetude" at all. No candidate should take himself too seriously at this time, for there is a long and stubborn contest ahead. Flashy methods and foolish boasts will not bring votes. The direct primary has the people are not likely to be stampeded, and they are not likely to allow any candidate to trap them into a casual pledge of support a year before all the candidates are named, and before all the issues are explained or understood. In all kindness, since Mr. Yooss has been so free with the rest of us, permit us to suggest that he be making no mistake in advertising his candidacy on the American flag, and that he be hardly playing fair with the rest of the candidates in using, as he has, the chairmanship of the Government committee which was given him, for private use, but to further the interests of the whole party, without reference to individual interests.

Before the contest is over all of the candidates will know a good deal more of the situation than any one of them does now, and any one of them who is inclined to boast that he already has a "clinch" should consider the advice of Oliver Cromwell: "I was not beaten by the sword, but by the word of God, to think it possible that you may be mistaken." CHAR. B. MOORES.

Programme for Today. The programme of events for this afternoon follows: Senior doubles—E. Lamerson, P. R. C., bow, and N. M. Montgomery, P. R. C., stroke, vs. F. Smith, P. R. C., bow, and E. O. Gloss, P. R. C., stroke. Four-oar—Portland Rowing Club: Preston Smith, bow; Charles Duncan, No. 2; T. Zimmerman, No. 3; Paul Smith, stroke; E. B. Harley, substitute; vs. Nelson Club of Victoria, B. C.: H. Bishop, bow; H. Sharp, No. 2; A. Bishop, No. 3; F. Scott, stroke. Canoe races—Singles: E. Frank, M. A. A. C.; E. Lamerson, P. R. C.; E. Frohman, M. A. C.; Roy Kirkley, P. R. C. Doubles: E. Frank and E. Lamerson; E. Frohman and A. B. Peterson. Upset race—W. Morton, E. Lamerson, Roy Kirkley. Tilt race—Roy Kirkley, E. Frohman, W. Morton. Races will begin at 2 P. M. today, just opposite the life-saving station on Guild's Lake. Referee, H. W. Kerrigan; starter, F. J. Loneragan; timer, W. Hayward, D. J. Murphy, W. B. Fechtelmeier; judges of turn, H. H. Hoyt, O. M. Babbitt, F. E. Watkins, J. G. Perry, Percy Stowell, L. C. Hart, S. Luders.

NEWSBOYS' DAY AT THE FAIR. September 5 Selected, and the Boys Will Enter Free. Even the Lewis and Clark Exposition doffs its hat to the newsboys, and has set aside a day for their special entertainment. September 5 will be Newsboys' day, and on that day the young American hustlers will celebrate with as much vigor and vim as they will newspapers on the streets of Portland.

The newsboys, under the leadership of Otto Prag, chairman of the Portland Newsboys' Association, are planning to give a big parade on the morning of September 5. They will march through the streets of Portland to the Exposition, where they will hold exercises in the Auditorium. Among the speakers who will address the boys will be Judge Frazer, of the Juvenile Court; Governor Chamberlain, Senator Fulton, President H. W. Goode and Dr. Emmett Drake.

The Exposition management will accord all bona fide newsboys free admission to the special day. The passes will be distributed among the newsboys through Otto Prag, who is taking an active lead in the holding of the special day.

Boy Rewarded for Honesty. Of R. Newman, the 13-year-old boy of Colfax, Wash., who sent 25 cents to the Lewis and Clark Exposition for his admittance to the grounds on the Fourth of July, which he obtained through a misrepresentation of his age, not only cleared his conscience but struck a bargain, as yesterday he was mailed an expensive camera. The camera is a gift from the Exposition, an acknowledgment of the appreciation of the motive which actuated the lad to return the money which he thinks rightfully belongs to the fair. Yesterday morning the Exposition officials unsolicitedly agreed that Newman was worthy of a present. A requisition was issued and a modern, folding camera, with a roll of film and other appliances, was forwarded to him. Secretary Henry E. Reed wrote the boy a personal letter, in which he commended him for his honesty, stating that the officials in charge of the athletic features of the show had proved himself. Secretary Reed requested that the first picture taken by the boy be forwarded to him, and he will favor him with a call on his next visit to the Exposition.

Do the Trail in a Body. The members of the M. E. T., a club composed of the exhibitors and officials connected with the machinery, electricity and transportation buildings of the Exposition, did the trail in a body last night. There were about 100 members of the club in the party. They all wore buttons and badges, and were royally entertained at a banquet.

WILL SPEAK AT THE EXPOSITION TOMORROW. Father Thomas Ewing Sherman, who will be the principal speaker at the Lewis and Clark Exposition on Catholic day, tomorrow, is the eldest son of General William T. Sherman. Father Sherman came from Chicago at the invitation of Archbishop Christie to deliver a patriotic and religious address dealing with the journey of Captain Lewis and Clark. He is a graduate of Yale and served with the American troops as priest during the Spanish-American war under General Fred Grant in Porto Rico. He is a native of the Pacific Coast, having been born in San Francisco.

Art Museum Open Nights. The Museum of Art at the Lewis and Clark Exposition is to be opened nights after the first of the month. It is an excellent feature of the exposition, and is being made for the necessary guards, and that all would be ready for light opening by Tuesday or Wednesday. No change in the lighting arrangement will be necessary, as the canvases are illuminated entirely by artificial lights. The galleries will not be kept open, however, until the gates close, but until 9 o'clock, or thereafter.

Nebraska Exhibit. Free moving picture exhibitions, Nebraska Pavilion, Agricultural Palace.

NEWSBOYS' DAY AT THE FAIR. September 5 Selected, and the Boys Will Enter Free. Even the Lewis and Clark Exposition doffs its hat to the newsboys, and has set aside a day for their special entertainment. September 5 will be Newsboys' day, and on that day the young American hustlers will celebrate with as much vigor and vim as they will newspapers on the streets of Portland.

The newsboys, under the leadership of Otto Prag, chairman of the Portland Newsboys' Association, are planning to give a big parade on the morning of September 5. They will march through the streets of Portland to the Exposition, where they will hold exercises in the Auditorium. Among the speakers who will address the boys will be Judge Frazer, of the Juvenile Court; Governor Chamberlain, Senator Fulton, President H. W. Goode and Dr. Emmett Drake.

The Exposition management will accord all bona fide newsboys free admission to the special day. The passes will be distributed among the newsboys through Otto Prag, who is taking an active lead in the holding of the special day.

Boy Rewarded for Honesty. Of R. Newman, the 13-year-old boy of Colfax, Wash., who sent 25 cents to the Lewis and Clark Exposition for his admittance to the grounds on the Fourth of July, which he obtained through a misrepresentation of his age, not only cleared his conscience but struck a bargain, as yesterday he was mailed an expensive camera. The camera is a gift from the Exposition, an acknowledgment of the appreciation of the motive which actuated the lad to return the money which he thinks rightfully belongs to the fair. Yesterday morning the Exposition officials unsolicitedly agreed that Newman was worthy of a present. A requisition was issued and a modern, folding camera, with a roll of film and other appliances, was forwarded to him. Secretary Henry E. Reed wrote the boy a personal letter, in which he commended him for his honesty, stating that the officials in charge of the athletic features of the show had proved himself. Secretary Reed requested that the first picture taken by the boy be forwarded to him, and he will favor him with a call on his next visit to the Exposition.

Do the Trail in a Body. The members of the M. E. T., a club composed of the exhibitors and officials connected with the machinery, electricity and transportation buildings of the Exposition, did the trail in a body last night. There were about 100 members of the club in the party. They all wore buttons and badges, and were royally entertained at a banquet.

WILL SPEAK AT THE EXPOSITION TOMORROW. Father Thomas Ewing Sherman, who will be the principal speaker at the Lewis and Clark Exposition on Catholic day, tomorrow, is the eldest son of General William T. Sherman. Father Sherman came from Chicago at the invitation of Archbishop Christie to deliver a patriotic and religious address dealing with the journey of Captain Lewis and Clark. He is a graduate of Yale and served with the American troops as priest during the Spanish-American war under General Fred Grant in Porto Rico. He is a native of the Pacific Coast, having been born in San Francisco.

Art Museum Open Nights. The Museum of Art at the Lewis and Clark Exposition is to be opened nights after the first of the month. It is an excellent feature of the exposition, and is being made for the necessary guards, and that all would be ready for light opening by Tuesday or Wednesday. No change in the lighting arrangement will be necessary, as the canvases are illuminated entirely by artificial lights. The galleries will not be kept open, however, until the gates close, but until 9 o'clock, or thereafter.

Nebraska Exhibit. Free moving picture exhibitions, Nebraska Pavilion, Agricultural Palace.

THE FIGHT YET TO COME. One Marion County Candidate Addresses Himself to Another. SALEM, Or., July 28.—(To the Editor.)—The following appears in the Oregon City Courier of July 21: "Mr. Yooss has visiting cards printed that are American flags in miniature, only in the corner where the stars should be in the picture of the eagle. Mr. Clark will be the only Marion County candidate," said Mr. Yooss. "When the primary election rolls around all the rest of the Salem fellows will have gone into innocuous desuetude. I know the situation better than any other man, and I'll be left standing when all the others are down."

The foregoing statement affords the best evidence in the world that our friend Mr. Yooss does not know anything about the situation. He has had to make an impressive statement he has been led into an extraordinary claim that seems to call for a rejoinder. It was because of the conviction of leading Republicans all over the country that he could not carry Marion County under any circumstances that other candidates were suggested, but there has been a desire among those who do not favor him to give him fair and respectful treatment. It will not conduce to pleasant relations, nor in any way affect the chances of the other "fellows" to say at this time that anything is settled, for they are not going into "innocuous desuetude" at all. No candidate should take himself too seriously at this time, for there is a long and stubborn contest ahead. Flashy methods and foolish boasts will not bring votes. The direct primary has the people are not likely to be stampeded, and they are not likely to allow any candidate to trap them into a casual pledge of support a year before all the candidates are named, and before all the issues are explained or understood. In all kindness, since Mr. Yooss has been so free with the rest of us, permit us to suggest that he be making no mistake in advertising his candidacy on the American flag, and that he be hardly playing fair with the rest of the candidates in using, as he has, the chairmanship of the Government committee which was given him, for private use, but to further the interests of the whole party, without reference to individual interests.

Before the contest is over all of the candidates will know a good deal more of the situation than any one of them does now, and any one of them who is inclined to boast that he already has a "clinch" should consider the advice of Oliver Cromwell: "I was not beaten by the sword, but by the word of God, to think it possible that you may be mistaken."
