

SHOT ABOVE HEART

Family Quarrel Ends With Attempt at Suicide.

BULLET MISSES ITS MARK

Young Wife Turns Revolver Upon Herself and Inflicts Painful Wound After Having Trouble With Husband.

Because she had quarreled with her husband and was unable to effect a reconciliation, Mrs. L. Wiles, aged 35 years, attempted to commit suicide by shooting at 8:45 o'clock last night, at East Twelfth and Hawthorne avenue, within a few feet of her residence. She fired one shot from a 22-caliber revolver, the bullet striking her in the left breast above the heart. The injury is not serious.

According to the statement of her husband, she had quarreled with him during the afternoon, and in the evening took the revolver from the house and went out upon the street, where she began walking up and down, muttering to herself. Wiles, who was sitting in the house, heard the shot and his wife's scream, and ran outside. The woman had not fallen, but was walking toward the house, and her husband helped her to the bedroom, where she lay down upon the bed. Their 2-year-old daughter was asleep in the room at the time.

Wiles immediately notified the police of his wife's action, and the patrol wagon was sent to the scene in charge of Detective Carpenter. Mrs. Wiles was removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital, where the wound was dressed.

The family has been in Portland about four months, coming here from the interior of the state. Wiles is a concrete mason.

After the shooting, Mrs. Wiles declared she was sorry she had attempted to take her life and would not make the attempt again. She said she was walking up and down the street, thinking of the disagreement with her husband, and fired the shot during a fit of hysteria.

DAY BOAT FOR ASTORIA

Connections for Ocean Beaches.

It's not many years ago since the silence of the mighty Columbia was only broken save by its own dashings and the noise made by the gentle touch of the dusky red man as he paddled his canoe over the waters. The Indian canoe is now relegated to the historical museum and to the Memorial Hall of the noble red man, and in its stead the finest and largest vessels from all parts of the globe now ply upon its waters. These are great changes, but the mighty Columbia in all its grandeur remains as beautiful as then. You should not miss seeing it and all the various points of interest along its banks, which you can do by taking steamer Lurline, which stops at all these historic points daily, except Sunday, at 7 A. M., from Taylor-street dock.

Value of Working Blood.

Andrew Carnegie. We are liable to forget how little of the original strain of an old family remains in after days. We glance over the record of the Cecils, for instance, to find that the present marquis has less than one four-thousandth part of the Cecil blood; a dozen marriages have each reduced it one-half, and the recent restoration of the family to its pristine greatness in the person of the late Prime Minister, and in his son, the brilliant young parliamentarian, of whom great things are predicted already, is to be credited equally to the recent infusion into the Cecil family of the entirely new blood of two successive brides, daughters of commoners who made their own way in the world. One was the mother of the late statesman, the other his wife and the mother of his sons.

Rich red blood naturally results from taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It tones the whole system.
