REFORM IN SYSTEM

That Is What Cotton Men Want From Wilson.

HE EVADES MAIN QUESTION

Southern Cotton Association Begins Movement to Reorganize Agricultural Department and Stop Irregularities.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.-President Joran and Secretary Cheatham, of outhern Cotton-Growers' Association, day issued a statement addressed to the members of the association, calling atten-tion to the recent disclosures in the cot-ton statistical work in the Department of Agriculture, declaring that efforts are being made to divert attention from the "deficiencies" of the system itself "to the thieving propensities of a few un-worthy officials," and setting forth demands to be made on Congress to reform conditions. The statement follows:

The members of the association have been apprised through the public press from day to day of the work done by the officers of the association at Washington. As a result of their charges, the unreliability of the reports of the Department of Agriculture re-lating to the cotton crop has been fully dis-closed and the maladministration of that deunder its present head had been

Try to Divert Attention.

Pollowing these exposures, efforts are now being made to divert public attention from the main issue, which is the imperfections of the department, toward an attempted pros atton of anybody who can be found as a approar. Their punishment, even if it is complished, is of secondary importance as ampared with the reformation of the system which has made their performances pos-sible, and the purpose of this address is to secure the co-operation of the members of this association in influencing in every legit mate way a reformation of the system and a reorganization of the department. The membership of thin association, numbering nearly 1,000,000, includes the producers of the most valuable product of American ag-riculture. The cotton crop of the United States and its by-products is worth between $000,000,000 and $700,000,000 annually. It furnishes two-thirds of our annual trade balance and in its production and manufacture employs many million individuals. No other product of the United States is of greater or of equal importance. The practical monopoly of cot-ten which America enjoys and the narrow balance which has existed for years between sufficiency and scarcity in the world's cotton supply render the cotton market peculiarly and acutely susceptible to the reports of the Department of Agriculture regarding the con-dition and prospects of the cotton crop.

Secure Reform of System.

Under the present circumstances a great sociation. We are less concerned with what has been done by a few individuals and the consequences thereof, regretable as they may be, than with such reformation of departmethods as shall secure for us just and accurate reports in the future. In the system at present in vogue, and which promsee to be unclisturised unless public attention shall be aroused to need of reform, the re-ports learned by the Department of Agricul-ture are, in their tast analysis, simply the ful experience and honor, by which the varue of the cotton crop may be and has been af-feted as much as $75.00,000 in a single day. No such power should be delegated to any individual or statistical board except under conditions which guarantee the most incor-ruptible, expert and intelligent opinion, ar-rived at by the application of the most scientific methods and safeguarded by the most
