Professor Becomes Vagrant.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.-Charles Rouxel, who said he had been a professor of belles lettres in a Central American university and evidently a man of refinement (Formerly Columbia Theater) 14th and and culture, was sent to the workhouse for a month yesterday. Rouxel was picked up as a vagrant by a policeman in Madison Square Park. Stranded in Honduras, after touring the world subsequent to completing his education in Paris, the prisoner told Magistrate Cornell that he came third keeper of the treasury in the Central American state. Later he was ap-pointed to b, chief of mathematics of the niversity A change in the administration caused him to fice the country, and since that time he had been able to gain only a precarious livelihood.
