

WAKES SEA RIP WITH SAFETY

Steamer Telegraph Is Brought Around From Puget Sound in Short Time.

BREAKS RECORD ON RIVER

Comes Up From Astoria Inside of Six Hours Without a Full Head of Steam On—Future Route Is Not Decided On.

The steamer Telegraph, said by her owner to be the fastest stern-wheeler in the world, and holding a newly-made record that should entitle her to the honor, is in Portland harbor. She reached Oak-street dock shortly before 8 o'clock last night, after a safe but somewhat risky trip from Seattle.

The Telegraph is owned by Captain U. B. Scott, a veteran steamboat man, who got his early training on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, afterwards built and designed the fastest craft that plied on the Willamette and Columbia and in late years has been engaged in smashing records on Puget Sound. The Telegraph is entirely self-propelled, hull, engines, boiler and all having been designed by him. Since she was built at Everett in 1903 she has been running on various routes on the Sound. The booming state of river traffic out from Portland induced Captain Scott to bring her over here and here it is probable she will remain.

The sea voyage between the Columbia River and the straits of Fuca has been made several times in the past by inland boats, but has always been considered more or less dangerous, even in the midsummer season. The Telegraph, however, differed radically in her construction from the ordinary river boat and has gone through some pretty rough weather in the north in the past that has demonstrated her stability.

On her run down the river the conditions were favorable for her. There was a good sea and though it was a trifle rough just before she reached the bar, the wind caused no damage or delay.

The Telegraph passed Cape Flattery outward bound at 12:30 P. M. Wednesday, and was off the Columbia River lightship at 2 A. M. yesterday. She lay outside until daylight, crossing in at 5:20 o'clock. An average speed of 14 knots was made on the trip down the Coast. As a precaution the lower deck on the bow was boarded up a few feet, but the water never went over the guards. An hour before reaching the lightship, the sea roughened somewhat, but the sturdy boat rode the waves with ease.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the steamer left Astoria and five hours and 55 minutes later she passed through the Steel bridge. This speed has never before been equaled by a stern-wheeler here. Captain Scott, in authority for the statement that the boat did not carry her full steam, and was not pushed at all.

"She is certainly a hummer," said Captain Bailey, the river pilot, who brought the Telegraph up from Astoria. "I never saw anything like her. Fast! Well, I wonder. We came along like an express train, but without any effort at all. I would like to see what she can do when they let her out."

Captain Bailey says there were crowds along the river bank cheering and waving their hats as the fast steamer passed. Every mill and passing or passing steamboat gave the newcomer a warm welcome. Captain McFarland, an outside Sound pilot, brought the Telegraph from the Straits to the river. Captain G. H. Parker, her former master, also came along. No one else but the crew was aboard. Captain U. B. Scott and his son, E. B. Scott, met the boat at Astoria. This morning the steamer will be taken to Nelson's yard and hauled out in the afternoon for overhauling. Later in the season of overhauling will be put in. The boat will be ready to begin service about the middle of next week. Captain Scott said last night that he had not yet decided fully what route to put her on.

The Telegraph is a day boat without stateroom or sleeping accommodations, except for the officers and crew. She carries 60 passengers and seat them all, her main deck being fitted with opera chairs and plenty of room for them on the lower deck. The dining-room is also on the lower deck.

MOVING EXPOSITION VISITORS

Pacific Coast Line Doing What It Can to Help Harriman Company.

In reference to the criticism of Portland on the manner in which the Harriman system has failed to handle adequately the crowds of visitors that want to go to San Francisco after seeing the Fair, W. E. Pearce, general manager of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, said to a reporter of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer:

"The Lewis and Clark Exposition has brought many people to Portland who are anxious to make the trip either to or from San Francisco by water, and of course the regular steamers cannot handle them all. R. P. Schwerin, manager of the Harriman lines at San Francisco, came to see me here in Seattle some time ago and tried to make arrangements for the steamers of my line to call into Portland on their way up and down the coast. I told him that it was impossible for the regular steamers to make the call, as they were carrying all the passengers they had room for on the regular run.

"I did, however, send the Valencia into Portland on one trip, and the City of Topeka will also call there on her way down the coast. If, when the Senator returns from Nome, it is found that it will be necessary for her to lay over here for 12 or 15 days, I may also send her to San Francisco by way of Portland.

"The Harriman interests have tried to charter steamers to place on the Portland run during this rush, but have been unsuccessful. The idea that this company should purchase steamers for that purpose is absurd. Steamers such as would be necessary for operation on that line would cost in the neighborhood of $300,000, and after the present rush is over would have to be laid up because there would be no business for them."

SIXTEEN CONTRACTORS BID.

A. P. Peterson, Portland.....18,100

Major Langitt has forwarded the bids to the chief of engineers at Washington.

North Coast Judgment Reserved.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 2.—Justice Martin reserved judgment in the case of the Seattle schooner North seized for illegal fishing off Vancouver Island by the fishery protection cruiser, Kestrel. When the case closed this morning, Charles Wilson, for the seized schooner, contended the Kestrel had no right to seize the vessel outside the territorial limit of a marine league from shore. Mr. McDonnell, for the Government, quoted authorities to show a vessel could be pursued outside territorial waters in case of continuous pursuit which he held occurred when the North was seized.

Cascade Has a Lumber Cargo.

ASTORIA, Or., Aug. 2.—(Special).—The steamer schooner Cascade, which crossed out last evening for San Francisco, carried a cargo of $50,000 feet of lumber, part of it being loaded at Vancouver and the balance in this city.

Marine Notes.

Only a few engagements have been made so far for the China steamer Niomede, which is scheduled to sail for the Orient on the 15th.

The steamer City of Topeka arrived up late last night and tied up at Almsworth dock. She will leave for San Francisco at 8 o'clock this morning.

Captain Bridgett, of the steamer Amundson, is in the city, accompanied by his wife and child, and is enjoying the Exposition for a few days. The captain left the steamer on the Sound and will rejoin her at San Francisco.

The valves at the Cascade Locks have been out of order for several days, and yesterday they caused two and one-half hours delay to the Chase R. Spencer and the Regulator, a diver has been employed to investigate the trouble.

SURPRISE FOR J. A. FILCHER

Californians Present Commissioner With Gold Watch.

J. A. Filcher, of the California Commission to the Lewis and Clark Exposition, was treated to a surprise party at the State building last night, in honor of his birthday. He was also presented with a handsome gold watch, a gift from the Commissioners and assistants at the building.

The presentation of the watch was made by Lloyd Childs, of San Jose, during the party. Mr. Filcher was taken completely by surprise, but notwithstanding his amazement, managed to stammer out a few words of gratitude. Mr. Filcher had a valuable gold watch stolen from him at the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

Only those who have charge of the State building, and a few invited guests, took part in the surprise party at the presentation of the watch last night. Cards and games were played, after which elaborate refreshments were served. Mr. Filcher is one of the most popular men at the Exposition. Nearly all of the visitors to the California building know Commissioner Filcher, as he takes a great delight in assisting people to see the building and its exhibits. Mr. Filcher has been in the exposition business for 15 years, and knows how to treat visitors. He has represented California at every exposition of importance of late years, including a fair in Germany and the Paris Exposition.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—The Best in Existence.

J. M. Wood, manager of the White County News, Beebe, Ark., is a representative Southern farmer, who does not hesitate in expressing his good opinion of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He writes: "I have used your family with the best results. In fact, I believe it to be the best remedy of the kind in existence." Sold by all druggists.

DIVINE RIGHT STORY FALSE

George F. Baer Makes First Public Denial of the Slander.

JUST YELLOW JOURNAL LIE

President of Philadelphia & Reading Railroad and Coal Magnate Declares He Has Said Nothing So Foolish.

BY ARTHUR A. GREENE.

"The statement that at any time I ever claimed 'divine right' to anything except 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness' is a malicious falsehood," said George F. Baer to me yesterday on the veranda of the Portland Hotel.

"Those consciousness heart papers deliberately lied when they made me appear as saying that my associates and I controlled the anthracite coal of this country by divine right. I have said and done some foolish things in my time, but never anything quite so unworthy or idiotic as to make such an utterance.

"That lie was circulated at the time of the coal-strike during the express purpose of inflaming the public mind, and was a part of the game that charlatan Hearst was playing for the Presidency. At that time Senator Hanna said to me: 'Baer, don't deny it. It won't do any good. The lie will travel so fast that you can't overtake it.' Mark Hanna was right, and I knew it, so I said nothing by way of denial. As he said to me, I said to you, young man, if some one starts a lie about you, don't deny it. Live it down. That's the only way. Prove that it is not true. One of the greatest of human failings is a proneness to believe evil report. The world wants to hear evil so badly that it will believe it in preference to good reports of any kind.

"Hello! Though, I'm doing exactly what I counsel you against. I'm denying that cock-and-bull story about divine right. Well, no matter. I've lived it down pretty successfully by this time, and only trouble-makers or their dupes credit it."

Railway and Coal Magnate.

Right now I should explain to the uninformed that George F. Baer is president of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, the greatest common carrier of coal in the world, and himself master of the greatest fuel field on earth. Accompanied by a party of friends, including Mrs. Baer and his daughter Mary, he arrived yesterday in his private car Philadelphia for the purpose of seeing the Fair and the Coast country. It is a pleasure trip purely, and there need be no bullish tendencies in coal lands. "Baron" Baer is not going to buy anything except a good time.

I found him alone, with his feet on the veranda railing, smoking a long yellow cigar and reading a local paper. Pause a moment to let me say that he has neither horns nor hoofs. He wore a suit of clothes which was not a bit better than most any of us who sit below the salt might wear by style by a Salt Lake block. He does not make a show of it, and I was frisking the premises for him, devoting my research to a job lot of Brocton shoe drummers and horseowners, because I thought he would look like them.

When Mr. Baer, a driver has been employed to investigate the trouble. The Portland dock, and knows everybody, pointed him out I was almost as pleased as I was at the first sight of Commodore Gerry. He looked good to me, so unassuming and unassuming. He wore a suit that he wore a Loyal Legion button, and immediately figured that a man who wore that or a Grand Army bronze could not be quite a monster. His appearance is quite that of a successful merchant from Eugene, in town to see things go 'round. When we started talking, I was convinced that here was a good citizen who had been good to me, so unassuming and unassuming.
