HOLD DOWN DEMAGOGUES

Difficult Problem in Arranging Peasant Representation in National Assembly-Bright Future Foreseen.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 3.-The Emperor's counselors today resumed at Peterhof the consideration of the National Assembly project, penetrating deeply into the nature and extent of the representation to be granted. The problem of ac-cording a voice in the proposed assembly to all classes and interests, without giving undue weight to the representatives of the uneducated peasantry, comprising 67 per cent of the whole population, and of not throwing the control of the assembly to demagogies, is one of the crucial points of the whole system and is cause for the greatest persentative both to those for the greatest perplexity, both to those who drafted the original Bouligan project and to the Ministers by whom it is to Thirty-eight sections were considered at Tuesday's session, but these were uninportant in comparison with the topics now under consideration. Though no de-tails of the discussion of Tuesday have appeared in print, several papers com-ment on the importance of the confer-ences and base on them great expects-tions of a brighter future for Russia.

The discussion lasted until nearly 7 o'clock in the evening. The members of dission returned to St. Petersburg without having finished their con-sideration of the project. Tomorrow, which is the name day of the Dowager Empress, is a general holiday, and all high functionaries will go to Peterhof to offer their felicitations,

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3 .- Conceal ment until the cases are almost hope-less and utterly inadequate treatment of patients until they fall into the hands of a doctor, are considered as partly responsible for the heavy mortality among the Italians who have fallen victims to yellow fever. It is said investigations have shown that heavy food like macaroni and cheese have been taken after the fever has attacked them. That means almost certain death.

Milk is the principal diet, with alkaline waters and the juice of water-melon to work on the kidneys. To allay nauses, the doctors prescribe small pieces of ice to be dissolved in the mouth. Many of the Italians die because they do not get this treatment until too late. Comparatively few outside of Italians have been attacked. side of Italians have been attacked, and some of these exceptions are little the worse for their illness.

Persons take the disease by being bitten by mosquitoes that have bitten a yellow fever patient. The mosquitoes, to become infected, must bite a yellow fever pa-tient during the first three days of the au-tack. The first three days, therefore, are the most important time for preventing the ac-cess of a mosquito to a fever patient. It is often difficult to decide during the first three days whether a patient has yellow fever, hence the necessity in threatened communities of placing a mosquito bar immediately around every patient who has fever of any kind, and for three days at least.

News of Death of His Wife Induces Him to Try to Obtain Possession of Rich Estate.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 2.-It is reported here from an authoritative source that ex-Judge E. J. Dawne, of the United States District Court, Alaska, who disappeared 20 years ago, while under indictment here for forgery and embezzlement, and who was supposed to have been dead all these years, is alive, holds high office in a foreign country and intends coming back here to claim part of an estate of a deceased widow, valued at $50,000.

Judge Dawne was formerly a prominent citizen and official here. He had accepted the appointment of United States Circuit Judge for the District of Alaska, and removed with his family to Sitka in September, 1885, Becoming involved in money troubles here learning that indictments had been found against him, he fled the country under the pretense of going to Fort Wrangle on duty, and was never heard of again until recently.

His former wife, Mrs. Frank Kellogg, now deceased, returned from Alaska with two children and instituted proceedings for divorce and secured a decree by default in June, 1887. Later ner father, William Miller, of this city, died leaving her an estate of $80,300. February of this year Mrs. Kellogg also died, leaving two sons, William S, and Raleigh M. Dawne, of Yamhill County, the only heirs to the estate.

Judge Dawne, now a nigh official in a foreign country, learned of the situation through correspondence with friends here and will apply for the reopening of the decree of divorce on the ground of failure of service. If he succeeds in the suit he will come in for personal property and a life estate in the real property of the estate of his deceased wife.

LARGE CAPACITY FOR BEER

Divorce Suit Reveals Drinking Hab its of Army Officers' Wives

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 3.-With a request from Captain Taggart's attorney that the court order Mrs. Taggart to permit her husband to see their two sons, the Taggart divorce hearing was resumed today Judge Easton ruled that both parties ha equal rights in the children, though they were temporarily under the mother's care.

The first witness, Howard Taggart, brother of the plaintiff, said he lived with the Taggarts at Fort Thomas, Ky., from 1833 to 1838. He described a visit of Lieutenant Rither to the Taggart house, where he had an interview with Mrs. Taggart in the parlor at 1:30 A. M., while Captain Taggart was a .ay. The witness dis-covered Rither's presence, he said, and the latter hurried away and did not call

A week later, Mrs. Taggart handed the witness an anonymous letter, asking him if he knew the writing. The letter ad-vised the Captain to watch his wife, de-claring that Rither was taking her to a resort in Newport. The witness said he never mentioned Rither's early morning call or the letter to his brother.

Mrs. Taggart's alleged capacity for beer was given as five glasses at one sitting, when the witness described a drinking bout between Mrs. Taggart and the wife of another officer at Fort Thomas. The con test was for the championship of the gar-rison, the witness said, and the contest-ants were backed by officers. Mrs. Taggart told him afterwards, the witness said, that her opponent won the match, drinking nine goblets of beer to Mrs. Tag-gart's five. Howard Taggart also testi-fied that his sister-in-law drank habitualy with the officers and prided herself on taking her whisky straight, laughing at the men for using water with it. The Captain, the witness said, objected to his wife giving their sons beer.
