The would-be thief was ar-rested five minutes inter on the trail.

The prisoner gives his name as Ize uttman. He is an Austrian, middle-aged, has the face of a degenerate and halls from Chicago. He has been in the city but two days. It is believed he is a professional "dip" or pickpocket and that he came here especially to work the Expo-sition crowds. The police do not believe, though, that he is associated with other crooks who are known to be in the city, as all have been giving the Fair grounds a wide berth, finding officers in evidence everywhere on the grounds.

That the fellow was not a bungler at the local ways.

his lowly craft is shown by the fact that he had placed his hand in Mrs. Moore's ocketbook without attracting her atention. An unexpected movement on her t caused a tug at the purse, revealed thieving hand and saved her cash. The Exposition police are elated at the fellow's ready capture and believe he would have been heard from many times had he escaped detection

"The thief who operates at the Fair grounds must be long on nerve or short on sense," said Chief Donahes in dislothes men mingling constantly with the crowds and we have enough of them so that an alarm from any part of the grounds can be immediately answered. Our men know most of the crooks and never let them out of sight when they visit the Fair. The Oregonian printed a list of "dips" who are in the city a week ago. I happen to know they were all in town but they have kept clear of the Fair or at least do not try to work here. They the chances of getting caught were too heavy to take chances. The fact that there were no "touches" while the lights were out for the sham battle last week is enough to show that they do not care to take chances."

IDAHO DAY AT THE FAIR.

Governor Gooding Issues Proclamation to Citizens.

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 8 - (Special.) - Governor Gooding has issued the following proclamation setting September 7 as Idaho day at the Portland Exposition:

In historic interest and importance there

In historic interest and importance there is no other period of equal value in connection with subduing of the American Westwith the eventful journey of Lewis and Clark from Missouri to the Facific Coast in 1806. The progress and final accomplishment of the results fought for by these sturdy pioneers are hailed with pairiotic logality by all of us. The wilderness to which they came is no longer a wilderness. In its place has grown up a country rich in its resources and possibilities and even richer in its citizenhood. The gates of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition, which is intended to commemorate this eventful journey and the aplendid fulfilliment of the hopes of the explorers, were opened on June 1, 1905. The management of this Exposition has set apart ianagement of this Exposition has set apart management of this Exposition has set apart.

September 7, 1805, as a day to be especially devoted to the State of Idaho and tis peceple. By the authority vested in me as Governor of Idaho, I hereby designate Thursday, the 7th day of September, 1805, as Idaho day at the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland.

All residents of our state and all former Idahoans who can do so are invited and urged to join in the appropriate observance and celebration of that day.

Lewis Day at the Fair. The Lewises and their relatives of the city, state and country, are prepar-ing for a great day on Saturday. This day has been designated as Lewis day by the Exposition authorities, in honor of Meriwether Lewis. The Lewis So-ciety of Portland has taken pains to notify all the Lewises within reach and to invite them to be present on that day. Two sessions of the Lewis Con-gress, to which all Lewises are cordial-ly invited, to be held in the auditorium and an enjoyable time is anticipated by all. Frominent speakers will deliv-er addresses, and excellent music will be provided by the Administration band and by well known vocalists and Wolverines Hold Celebration at Exposition.

Colonel H. E. Dosch Welcomes Loval Michiganders and W. R. Mc-Carry Delivers Oration of the Day.

Are you a Michigander? If you are it is safe to say that you visited the Lewis and Clark Exposition yesterday and united with the several hundred sons and daughters of a fur and distant state, who actuated by a common impulse, showed to the world that they were not forgetful of their mother state and that they still loved grand old Michigan. That yesterday was Michigan day was vividly impressed upon the many visitors to the Pair. Little yellow ribbons, on which were printed the word Michigan in bold but neat type, could be seen flut-tering from the visitors in all parts of the grounds. Not all who were the little yellow badges live in Michigan, but they too, dearly cherish the name of the state in which they first saw the light of day, and took pride and pleasure in assisting the active and enterprising Wolverines in making as good a showing as possible.

The exercises were held in the Exposition Auditorium at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. It was there that the Wolverines gathered to voice the Michigan sen-

Mrs. Ruth L. Deitz Seeks Sum From Hotel Proprietors.

ASKS $20,160 AND COSTS

Husband Was Part Owner of Hotel Scott and Injuries Are Alleged to Have Been Received in Partnership Conflict.

Ruth L. Deltz complains that she was forcibly ejected from the Hotel Scott at 1 o'clock in the morning, April 4, 1965, and put into the street, after having been kicked and beaten. She believes she is entitled to damages, and has sued H. L. Stephenson and Bud Levens in the State Circuit Court for $20,160. The $160 is a doctor's bill, the amount of which she says was paid for treatment of the injuries sustained at the hands of defendants. Stephenson is engaged in the com-mission business, and some time ago ought the Hotel Scott and took in A J Deltz, the husband of the plaintiff in rendered an opinion to the effect that action, as a partner. It was during this quarrel that the acts complained of by Mrs. Deitz are alleged by her to have occurred. She avers that the trouble began on February II, 1965, and continued until April 4, following. Within this period she asserts she was not supplied with a sufficient quantity of bed cothing or sheets, and suffered with colds as a consequence. She further avers that Stephenson and Bud Levins wrongfully conspired together to treat her as a trespasser, and, notwithstanding she was ill, made her stay in the hotel so unpleasant as to cause her to have hemor-rhages and to permanently injure her health. On April 5, she avers, they dragged her out of bed and pulled the mattress from under her, and threw her clothing out of the room which she occupled and at 1 o'clock the following morning kicked, beat her, seized turned her out into the street.

The airship Angelus almost won its contest against the atmosphere yesterday afternoon. The flight which occurred from the Exposition grounds was partially successful. The vessel answered its propeller and rudder for a time but finally gave way before a brisk wind and was carried six miles southeast of the city before being able to make a landing.

The flight started at 2:30 o'clock and was witnessed by many thousands of spectators at the Fair. The wind was blowing about seven miles an hour, and it was realized that unless the motor worked the vessel would be carried rapidly away. A test was made of the mechanism, which was found to be in perfect working condition. Aeronaut Lincoln Beechey then took his place in the car and the leash was

The Angelus soared up for 1000 feet with a dead propeller. Then the blades spun faintly but not enough to bring the airship against the wind. Hopes were about given up and many were turning away from the scene when, as the vessel resched a point over the City Park the propeller started suddenly and the Angelus forced its way against the wind. Traveling at the against the wind. Traveling at the rate of eight or ten miles an hour, I was soon back to the Fair grounds flying not more than 450 feet algo. Beechey intended to run his craft around the Fair in a circular course but the motor balked again. The acro naut tried to make a landing near th Fair grounds and came within 63 feet of earth. He found no favorable landing place though, and source upward again. Landing was finally made at an
