Why Physicians Recommend Castoria

ASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First-The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second-That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third-It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system-not by stupefying it-and our readers are entitled to the information. - Hall's Journal of Health.

The Kind You Have Always Bought and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Letters from Prominent Physicians Addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. W. L. Leister, of Rogers, Ark., says: "As a practicing physician I use Castoria and like it very much."

Dr. W. T. Seeley, of Amity, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria for several years in my practice and have found it a safe and reliable remedy."

Dr. Raymond M. Evarts, of Santa Ynez, Cal., says: "After using your Castoria for children for years it annoys me greatly to have an ignorant druggist substitute something else, especially to the patient's disadvantage, as in this case. I enclose herewith the wrapper of the

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Casto-

Dr. W. F. Wallace, of Bradford, N. H., says: "I use your Castoria in my practice, and in my family."

Dr. Wm. I. McCann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice, found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. Howard James, of New York City, says: "It is with great pleasure that I desire to testify to the medicinal virtue of your Castoria. I have used it with marked benefit in the case of my own daughter, and have obtained excellent results from its administration to other children in my practice."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Channing H. Cook, of Saint Louis, Mo., says: "I have used your Castoria for several years past in my own family and have always found it thoroughly efficient and never objected to by children, which is a great consideration in view of the fact that most medicines of this character are obnoxious and therefore difficult of administration. As a laxative I consider it the peer of anything that I ever prescribed."

Dr. L. O. Morgan, of So. Amboy, N. J., says: "I prescribe your Castoria every day for children who are suffering from constipation, with better effect than I receive from any other combination of drugs."

Dr. H. J. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is ex-

Dr. Wm. L. Bosserman, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I am pleased to speak a good word for your Castoria. I think so highly of it that I not only recommend it to others, but have used it in my own family."

Dr. F. H. Kyle, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "It affords me pleasure to add my name to the long list of those who have used and now endorse your Castoria. The fact of the ingredients being known through the printing of the formula on the wrapper is one good and sufficient reason for the recommendation of any physician. I know of its good qualities and recommend it cheer-

The shortest verse in the Bible "Jesus Wept," was the text from which Dr. Wilson took his theme, and he said: 'On different occasions in his earthly life our Savior broke into tears. The nature and character of the tear of Jesus are deserving of close study.

"He wept as a man. No stronger proof of his real humanity is given. His supernatural birth did not change the real nature that was born. It was only a re-turn to the supernatural beginning of humanity for the purpose of producing an original specimen of mankind. He wept as a friend. He loved Lazarus. They had spent happy hours together. Death had now snapped in twain the tendrils that bound their heartstogether, and Jesus wept. And the spirit of inspiration has crystalized those tears into diamonds and set them in the diadem of human friendship. Jesus is the model friend, and the truest and sweetest friendship thrive where his light shines brightest. He wept as a Savior. At Lazarus' demise he saw physical death the wages of sin. "Learn that it is not wrong to weep over the afflictions of life. It is as natural over the afflictions of life. It is as natural as for a child to cry when it receives physical injury. The eyes are nature's safety valves. The mourner may always count upon the sympathy of Jesus. This reminds us of the Christliness of human sympathy. The purest tenderness is distilled in tears, the noblest language of the soul. We ought to cultivate Christian sympathy and its fondest expression.

"It is not unmanly to weep over the "It is not unmanly to weep over the thought of mortality or the woes of oth-ers. Jesus wept. We are not to be discouraged as Christians if called upon to suffer. But the Japanese have fought for every foot of ground they have occupied, start-ing upon territory not technically Russian indeed, but occupied by an immense Russian army, the constantly increasing strength of which, instead of its with drawni, as Russia had agreed, was one of the chief causes of the war. Napoleon, on the other hand, command-

In fact, had not Barclay de Tolly been replaced by Prince Bagratori, he would have entered Moscow without resistance, This same diplomat also informs the American people that in two years after the Russian campaign the Russian army "entered Paris and dethroned the great warrior.' Yes, the Russians did enter Paris, but accompanied by the armies of Prussia, Austria, Saxony, Bavaria, Sweden, Wurtemburg, in fact almost the whole of continental Europe, while England and the peninsular alles were strik-

And what would have happened had Russia alone been opposed The world needed to see the heart of God and they saw it at the cross. We cannot just before the final contest at Leipsic, be satisfied with the panthelstic God who is everywhere and everything. We can-not worship an abstraction of logic or of philosophy. We want a creed that were decisively defeated by Napoleon would have been annihilated but for demands upon his attention elsewhere, not the least being treason in his own ranks. Canyon City and Prairie City are the last entries for municipal water. The name of the source of supply for the former, "Whisky Gulch," is a little suggestive but it is said to afford water enough to fill and keep filled a 100,006gallon reservoir, ample for Canyon City for many years to come.

The largest recent transaction in the power field is that of the sale of the Lane County Electric Company and its undertaking to the same syndicate which has invested at Spokane, Walla Walla, Baker City, Pendleton and Sniem. The distinction of this enterprise is, that after examination of the chances for water power along the McKenzle River. they adopted by preference establishing their plant at Springfield, where fuel could be obtained cheaply from the Booth Kelley Company. A substation at Eugene, four miles from the Springfield gen-erating plant, has been provided, whence light and power for the city is furnished. A suit of surpassing interest to all present and intending water users in this state, has been instituted the last week in Umatilia County. Principles of the utmost importance are involved. act passed by the last session of the Legislature is made use of and the State of Oregon brought in. Thus the State Engineer is called into action, to make surveys and examination of the entire stream system of the Walla Walla and of the Little Walla Walla Rivers. He has to ascertain the quantity of water flowing in these streams, carrying capacity of all ditches, amount and charac-ter of lands irrigated by each, the char-acter of soil and amount of water re-quired, and the amount actually in use. The plaintiffs about 40 in number, benging to the Little Walla Walla River Irrigation Union, have availed them-selves of the water, flowing through their lands, for irrigating those lands. They allege that in past years the supply has en ample, but that recently, the defendants, six irrigation companies, Mil-ton City and about 400 settlers and landowners along the upper reaches of these streams, have drawn so much water from the rivers that not enough has been left for the use of these lower owners. THE FEMININE FAREWELL

Lovely Woman Demands Lingering Good-Bye.

Brooklyn Eagle. It is a fact that women take much longer than men to say good-bye to their own sex. On one of the big liners three women who just hated to part with one small woman turned back four times gangplank Saturday evening to may final farewells. The upshot of it all was that the plank was hauled inboard before the leavetaking process could be completed and the three got as far as the Battery on the way to Boston before their plight was discovered by the offi-cers. Then the steamer lay to and whistied for help. With the assistance of a harbor tug, to which a couple of police boats ient moral support, the dear things were debarked while the orchestra on the steamer sarcastically played "Kiss Me Goodby and Go." When a man wants to say good-bye to another man with whom he has been spending an hour or so he just grabs his hat, shakes the other fellow's hand, says "so long" or "see you later," and is off. But a woman, having said good-bye in the parlor, stops at least seven times between there and the vesti-bule and makes a final stand on the stoop to talk it all over once more. It would be better for men if they would cultivate more leisurely habits in their daily intercourse with one another, which they would be moved to do if they more sedu-lously observed the lack of precipitancy characterizing the association of women with their own kind.

The meek-looking man didn't fight, as every one expected. Instead he clamly took out a pencil and a pad from his pocket and then began to draw lines on the pad which the cross man couldn't see, but which those on the same side of the car could. Pretty soon they were all smiling. When he completed the picture of his friend opposite, the little man put the pad back in his pocket. The cross man shut up quickly and got out. "It never fails to work," remarked the little man as he saw the cross man leav the car. "It's much better than to fight."

In these tombs, which are 5000 years old, there are many pictures of drunkards. Drunken men, waving wine cups in both hands, are being carried home by sneering slaves. Drunken women lurch through the streets, followed by little mocking children. All this, mind you, 5000 years ago.

HONEY-GATHERERS NEED BIG SUPPLY OF WATER.

While Absence of Substance in Dry Localities May Not Be Overcome. Bees Can Be Aided.

Let intending bee-keepers in Oregon weigh well the following extract, tell-ing of the distress of bees in Idaho from the effect of lack of water on their food. Much help may be given them in dry weather by a full supply of available water. This aids the individual bees, but, of course, does nothing for the honey supply. For beekeeping as a great aid to the farmer go to Western Oregon and especially to the Coast countles, where the white clover keeps in bloom, and the leaves and flowers of the vine maple yield a store of sticky sweetness. Three supers a season for each colony, with 14 pounds to the super, is the mark set and often reached, and such honey sells for 124 cents per pound. for 12% cents per pound.

"A scarcity of water means a short-age in the hay crop down the valley; the curtailed hay crop means prema-ture blooming of the clover blossoms which honey is made, and this in turn spells starvation for the industrious honey bees and a serious curtailment of their output," says the Boise States-

"Mr. Atwater and his son, E. F. At water, are among the leading beemen of the state, being known as authorities on bee culture in this country. The two have at their apiary at Ma-ridian about 700 colonies of bees, and in seasons past they have made money in the production of honey. This year their experience bids fair to be of another sort. Mr. Atwater said Tuesday:
"While ordinarily there is no

over-supply of water for the valley, this year is an exceptional one. The shortage this year is unusual, and no one will feel it more than my son and I. We have a bee business that in years past has been a prosperous one. This year the outlook is far from encouraging. From our 700 colonies we should get from 20,000 to 40,000 pounds of honey. What we expect to get is from 5000 to 8000 instead. This will mean to us a loss of from $2500 to $3000 for the year.

The shortage in the honey product this year will be due partly and per-haps wholly to the shortage in the water supply. The second cutting of hay in the valley this year will prob-ably not be more than half a crop, and the clover not properly maturing does not afford the bees the natural oppor-tunity for honey-making. There seems to be a scarcity of the material out of which honey is made."
