

ONE MAN KILLED; AND HER PART

J. J. Sullivan and N. J. Heck Victims of Street-Car Accident.

CAR CRASHES INTO BUGGY

Sullivan Dies at Good Samaritan Hospital and Heck is Seriously Injured as a Result of the Collision.

J. J. Sullivan, of Baltimore, died at Good Samaritan Hospital last night, shortly after being run into by a street-car of the Portland Consolidated line, at East Fifteenth and Fremont streets.

N. J. Heck, of 27 Stanton street, received injuries, which badly battered up his body and head, by the same car.

Sullivan died shortly after he was taken to the hospital. He was killed by being thrown from the buggy or by being hit by the car as yet undetermined. Coroner Finley did not make an investigation last night.

Sullivan and Heck were driving in from Johnson Creek, where they had gone in a buggy rented from the G. W. Simpson feed barn at 201 Washington street.

The horse was being driven rapidly, and it is supposed that the one driving did not hear the approach of the car. At the intersection of East Fifteenth and Powell streets the car, which was also going at a rapid rate, crashed into the buggy, throwing the occupants from the vehicle, smashing the buggy and slightly injuring the horses.

Sullivan was unconscious when picked up. His body was bruised, and his head badly cut in several places. Heck escaped more luckily, although his body is considerably bruised.

Police headquarters, and the two men were taken to Good Samaritan Hospital, where a room had been prepared for their reception. Sullivan did not regain consciousness before death, but Heck was sleeping quietly last night.

There is little danger that the latter will die.

Heck is employed in the feed barn of G. W. Simpson. Sullivan arrived from Seattle about one week ago. His parents live in Brooklyn. The officers of the Portland Consolidated company were refused to make a statement last night, saying that it was not the company's practice to make such accidents public.

Despite the company's secretiveness, it was learned that C. E. Coffin was the motorman in charge of the car, which was No. 6, and that V. Lakin was the conductor.

Bull Run Water Only in the Reservoirs.

CURRENT RUMORS FALSE

Reason for Peculiarity in Water Due to Excessive Use Which Low- ered the Reservoirs, When Pipe Broke.

Notwithstanding persistent rumors current lately to the effect that water from the Willamette river is being pumped into the tanks supplying portions of this city, in lieu of the article from Bull Run, there seems to be no basis for any of these reports.

The municipality owns an expensive plant on the west bank of the river, about two miles north of Oswego, the machinery therein being valued at something like $200,000, including the six acres of ground upon which it is situated.

This led to the abandonment of the old works on the Willamette river, which had previously been exclusively used in supplying the city. Since then a keeper has been in constant charge, his duties being mainly to see that the costly machinery did not become rusty or deteriorate in any manner.

For this reason he is obliged to get up steam about every fortnight and operate the pumps, of which there are three; one of the Holly type, and two of the Worthington make.

The Holly has a capacity for pumping fifteen million gallons of water daily. It is of the 4-cylinder high pressure compound type, with condensers. The other two are each capable of pumping five million gallons daily.

Smoke Is Seen.

The fact that smoke has been seen emitting from the huge smokestack of the water works, at stated intervals, coupled with the additional fact that the local supply at present is considered inferior in quality has led to the belief that the Bull Run product is being diluted from the Willamette River, but it can be stated authentically, after a very careful investigation of the situation, that this assumption is erroneous.

The enormous waste of water in this city has had more to do with the existing conditions than anything else, unless, possibly, it is the extraordinarily long spell of hot weather that has lately prevailed hereabouts, which has had a tendency to heat the mains to an abnormal temperature, as well as the waters stored in the reservoirs.

Work Is Kept Up.

In order to acquaint the chief engineer of the water department with the relative pressure at the Willamette River station, the man in charge of the works is obliged to report each day by telephone at 8 and 10 A. M., 12 M., 2 and 4 P. M. Quite a number of well-known local families have summer homes on the bluffs overlooking the Willamette River at this point, their residences being supplied with Bull Run water through the city mains, and a pressure of 75 is required to overcome the elevation.

A few weeks ago the Bull Run mains became clogged, in consequence of which it was necessary to resort to the reservoirs in order to meet the requirements of consumers. Pending these repairs, the reservoirs in turn attained a low stage, and for a time it was thought imperative that the water be drawn from the city.

The break was mended before such an alternative presented itself, and it is said that for several days the head officials of the water department were anxious on account of the unexpected turn of events, and that a force was prepared to start the Bull Run product being diluted and give the people of Portland a taste of Willamette straight.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Charles E. Bond, a clothing merchant of Eugene, is visiting friends in the city for a few days.

Will R. King, of Ontario, one of the Eastern Oregon delegates to the National Irrigation Congress, arrived last evening.

Gifford Pinchot, forester of the United States, is here, last evening to preside over the forestry section of the irrigation Congress. Reservations had been made for Mr. Pinchot at the American Inn.

Mrs. E. L. Kline, first delegate to the National Convention of the Relief Corps, to be held at Denver, Colorado, will receive all Local Ladies at the parlors of the Hotel Portland today from 2 to 4 o'clock. This will be her last visit in Portland prior to departure for Denver.

Malcolm A. Moody, of The Dalles, was among the delegates arriving last evening to attend the sessions of the National Irrigation Congress this week. Mr. Moody has felt a lively interest in the movement from its inception, and is especially desirous of securing speedy action of the Reclamation Service on Oregon projects.

Mrs. C. Van Orsdahl, grand guardian of the Women of Woodcraft, of Pacific, is visiting in the city, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Van Orsdahl will move her office to Portland as soon as the building now about to be constructed is completed, Portland having been selected by the Pacific jurisdiction of the order as the permanent home for the headquarters of the grand guardian and the chief clerk of the Women of Woodcraft.

CONDUCTORS DISCHARGED

Five of Oldest Men in Southern Pa- cific Service.

The passenger department of the Southern Pacific Company has discharged five of the oldest passenger conductors in the service of the company in Oregon, and the Order of Railway Conductors is making an effort to have the men reinstated.

The men have been in the discharge of Superintendent Buckley are C. S. Skidmore, of the Woodburn branch; Ed Hiew, running between Roseburg and Ashland; W. Garretson, of the West Side and Yamhill divisions; David L. Houston, on the main line, and F. Sperger, of the Woodburn branch.

The men have been in the service of the company from 15 to 25 years continuously. None of the men will state the nature of the trouble between them and the management, and at the general office no information can be gained as to why the men were let out.

The Order of Railway Conductors has taken up the cause of the discharged men and has appointed a committee to investigate the case and make an effort to have the men placed back on their old runs.

AT THE THEATERS

What the Press Agents Say.

M'EWEN TONIGHT.

World's Greatest Hypnotist, Mind-reader and Entertainer.

Professor McEwen, who will play a week's engagement at the Marquam Grand Theater, beginning tonight at 8:30 o'clock, has the happy faculty of getting in touch with his audience in less than a minute after the curtain goes up. He begins his work generally with a simple trick or two in palmistry, which he explains. From this he takes his audience swiftly into the realms of the mysterious and bewildering. He palms live birds, making them appear and vanish like spirits of the air, and then to show how quick and how skillful the human hand may become, he with his left hand juggles four billiard balls, showing them to his arm all the time extended in plain sight. As a coin and card manipulator he stands without an equal, and this may also be said of him as a hypnotist. In this art he has achieved a world wide reputation, and only by seeing his work can one get an idea of it. Trying to describe it is like trying to tell of the hilarity of a champagne supper when the wine has died. The new play is by Mr. Walling and is generally considered one of his very best. It enjoyed a long and prosperous run in New York, but has never been seen in the Coast. The leading role in it is splendidly adapted to Mr. Walling and his initial appearance will be under the most favorable circumstances. This week at the Belasco will also be an important one for the additional reason that it will mark Lucia Moore's farewell to the Coast. She is immensely popular here

"THE GIRL AND THE JUDGE"

Great New York Success at the Belasco Tonight and All Week.

The Belasco stock company will offer for the week commencing this evening one of its most pretentious bills, "The Girl and the Judge," in which Will R. Walling will make his first appearance as leading man. The new play is by Clyde Fitch and is generally considered one of his very best. It enjoyed a long and prosperous run in New York, but has never been seen in the Coast. The leading role in it is splendidly adapted to Mr. Walling and his initial appearance will be under the most favorable circumstances. This week at the Belasco will also be an important one for the additional reason that it will mark Lucia Moore's farewell to the Coast. She is immensely popular here
