He Kept Store Once

No, dear child, this man is not telling a funny story. It is an argument. An argument, as you know, is merely a collision of opinions. See the man with his finger up? Well, he is pointing the way to make money—Not. Do you see the point? Yes, you do, not. This man did business once—after dark. That's why he can't see it now—it's gone—after dark, and still chasing it. Once he was a prosperous business man, but that was some years ago. He is a stubborn old fellow and couldn't get on to new fangled ways in storekeeping. He still keeps his money in his sock for fear some one would steal the bank. He wouldn't risk a new idea on the same haymow with him, but if you go out to the racetrack tomorrow with him you will see him pick Laura B., a 60-to-1 shot, and risk a $10 bill to see her win. Wait till the race is over and he may ask you to walk down the track with him to see what delayed Laura B. If you try to comfort him he will inquire what you are "buttin' in" for. Just now he is advising folk to do their shopping at night, because they can see so much better after dark and have more time—the nights are so much longer than the days—on this end. He isn't in business any more himself, but there is some more of him that are on the other corners 'round town. Bimeby they'll be telling how to do it, not—too. It's such a habit. And, by the way—speaking of

HABIT:

A story is told of an English school teacher who offered a prize to the boy who should write the best composition in five minutes on "How to Overcome Habit." At the expiration of five minutes the compositions were read. The prize went to a lad of nine years. Following is the essay:

"Well, sir; habit is hard to overcome. If you take off the first letter it does not change 'abit.' If you take off another still you have a 'bit' left. If you take off still another the whole of 'it' remains. If you take off another, it is not wholly used up; all of which goes to show if you want to get rid of a habit you must throw it off altogether."

If you've been in the habit of shopping Saturday nights, why not start today and "throw it off altogether?" Start in time to finish shopping by daylight—get that habit—and get the whole of it. Whenever you do your Saturday buying, do it before 6 P. M. If any of the news we publish today interests you, we shall appreciate a response in person today, but remember, that with all first-class stores, we close when the day is done—at 6 P. M. WE ARE NEVER OPEN EVENINGS. This is "THE DIFFERENT STORE."

Stunning Umbrellas

For Wear in Sun or Rain

WE USHER IN THE NEW SEASON WITH AN EXCEPTIONAL SALE OF PLAIDED BEAUTIES.

First Floor—Near Large Elevators.

Here's most opportune time to pick just the umbrella you'll want from now on. Equally useful as a sunshade or to protect the gown from the rude shafts of Jupiter P. Our buyer, just returned from New York took advantage of one of those fortunate trade chances which come but seldom. Especially at the beginning of a season, to secure the end of a manufacturer's line of swell new umbrellas, in a pattern so taking that it was the first one sold. The fashion world seems to have gone "plaid mad." A fad of the smart dressers this season will be to "wear" an umbrella to match their gown of plaid. We have provided liberally—in a regular way—to supply the demand sure to come later on. But today's opportunity is an exceptional one as we shall offer a lot of these stunning new plaid "bumber-shoots" worth $5 at a choice for $2.98

To the first 105 women who come to the umbrella counter today we will offer these handsome plaid taffetas, in jacquard weaves (Supplier's best make) with interlocking, tight rolling paragon frames and double reinforced joints. Very smart natural wood sticks, the coverings made with wide selvidge borders to insure best wear. The most beautiful convention of plaids your mind can imagine, every clan represented. Best $5 values in the city For the day at a choice for $2.98
