of the unadorned homes of our land. The common people support the monop-olies, and share in their burdens, but they have no share in their profits. The re-sult is monopoly which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer. The beef trust, for instance, is one that makes the farmer and the cattle-raiser accept less, and at the same time makes the meat-eating public pay more for one of the necessities of life. It makes the business of every farmer less profitable, and the cost of living to every meat-eater higher, but it adds enormous wealth to the fortunes of a few men. The dangerous tendency of monopoly is to substitute a lendership in which but few can join, and to create a despotism, based upon dollars, instead of a republic based on bruins. Monopoly and the greedy desire to increase and maintain it is the cause of more corruption than any other factor in our political environment. Greed is the Father of Graft. You never saw an honest man engage his services as a lobbyist, and when you hear of any person or corporation opening up a Ledger Corruption Account be as-the newspapers or otherwise, it seems best to make some explanations." As far as Linn County is concerned, not "robbery of the soll" is most to blame this year. Within the last ten years nu-merous "farmers' institutes" have been held at different points in this county, under the direction of Dr. James Withy-combe, of the State Agricultural College. Acting upon his advice and knowledge, many farmers have been practicing progressive farming and in some cases intensive as well. Within the past five years most farm-exist only by permission of the state, while corporations also are creatures of

of the aphis. In traveling over different portions of the county I saw many fields as promising as this one was, fields that should have gone 25 to 30 bushels to the acre, that yielded from 14 to 15 bushels Other counties are surely faring only as poorly as we, though from our near-ness to the Agricultural College we may have had more of helpful instruction than

We want vis-itors to understand that we have a land that well deserves the name of "Peerless Oregon." Some time, when our "section" farms are divided up into smaller hold ings, and we have inaugurated a system of thorough drainage for the level portions of this valley, we will have an era of production that our wildest imaginations cannot now conceive of. I am sure there is not a fairer, better land upon God's footstool than our Oregon (and Washington), once all proudly called Ore-CYRUS H. WALKER. gon.
