THE PHILIPPINES AND THE STAND.

The subject given in the former is the latest and most important American policy in the Philippines. The article discusses the reasons for the stand taken by the American government in this matter, and the implications of this stand for future policy. The writer argues that the stand taken by the American government is based on the principle that the Philippines is a nation and should be given the opportunity to govern itself. The writer also discusses the implications of this stand for the future of the Philippines and the role of the United States in Asia.

SOUTHERN PENSIONS.

The article discusses the issue of pensions in the Southern states. The writer argues that the Southern states should be allowed to maintain their own pension systems, and that the federal government should not interfere with these systems.

BUILDING A GREAT STATION.

The article discusses the construction of a new station in New York City. The writer argues that the station should be designed to accommodate the needs of the growing population of the city, and that it should be constructed with the latest technology.

GETTING THE NEWS.

The article discusses the importance of getting accurate and timely news coverage. The writer argues that the media should be held accountable for the information they publish, and that they should be encouraged to provide accurate and unbiased reporting.

COLUMBUS EXCURSION.

The article discusses the excursion to Columbus, Ohio. The writer argues that the excursion was a success, and that it demonstrated the interest of the public in historical events.

THE EXPLORERS OF COLUMBUS.

The article discusses the early explorers of the Americas, and their contributions to the development of the New World. The writer argues that these explorers played a vital role in expanding European knowledge of the world, and that their discoveries opened up new opportunities for trade and exploration.

GRAFT AND IRREGULATION.

The article discusses the issue of graft and irregularities in government. The writer argues that these problems are widespread, and that they pose a serious threat to the integrity of the government. The writer calls for reforms to address these problems, and to ensure that the government is accountable to the people.